MANN SCHOOL FIRE PROBE

SCHOOL COMMITTEE REQUESTS FULL INVESTIGATION OF FIRE

Meets in Special Session at Noon Today
To Discuss Vocational School Blaze —Against Probable Loss of $40,000,
City Has Insurance Policies Totaling
Only $17,500

At a special meeting of the school committee called at 12 o'clock, noon, today, for the purpose of discussing last night's fire at the Vocational school, it was voted unanimously to request fire department officials to make a thorough investigation as to its cause, because of the three school fires that have occurred recently in that general vicinity.

Business Agent Henry L. Williams gave a statement of damages and as to the possible provisions for vocational school classes and the committee authorized him to secure any necessary housing facilities for the time being.

Thomas Fisher, principal of the school, makes the request that all boys of vocational classes report at the school as usual next Monday morning.

Against a probable fire loss of $40,000, the city of Lowell has insurance policies covering the old Mann school amounting to only $17,500. It was announced today at the office of the mayor, insurance on the building itself totals $12,500, with $5000 additional on its contents.

Although the adjustment on the loss sustained at the high school annex fire, which occurred exactly two weeks ago this morning, has not been absolutely settled, work of adjusting last night's loss began early this forenoon, when the mayor appointed Frederick F. Meloy, contractor, as the city's adjuster. Mr. Meloy served in the same capacity in connection with the annex fire.

LAWRENCE MFG. CO. ANNOUNCES WAGE ADVANCE TO BECOME EFFECTIVE ON APRIL 30

The Lawrence Mfg. Co. will increase wages April 30. This information was given out at the office of the company this afternoon, but the amount of the increase was not stated. The company employs close to 3000 operatives and all will benefit by the increase. From unofficial sources it was learned that the increase will be the same as that granted in other local mills, or 12½ per cent. The Lawrence Co. is the last of the big local cotton corporations to announce an upward revision of its wage schedule.

TO HEAR PETITION OF EASTERN RAILROADS

BOSTON, April 6.—Judges Morris and Brewster in the federal district court today set for a hearing on April 12, the petition of 50 eastern railroads, including eight New England lines, for an injunction to restrain enforcement of the order of the interstate commerce commission for the issuance by the railroads of interchangeable 2600 mile passenger ticket books at reduced rates. The railroads in their petition said that the carrying out of the order would result in a net loss in operating income to the eastern group of railroads of nearly $20,000,000 a year.

Baltimore Goes Ahead of
Among First 50 City Class

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Several changes in the relative size of the larger American cities are indicated by new census bureau figures prepared on the assumption that growth conditions prevailing in 1920 in the various localities are continuing.

Baltimore has gone ahead of Boston and now ranks as the seventh largest city of the country. Columbus, Ohio, has passed Providence, R. I., and now ranks 27th.

Paterson, 49th city in 1920, has been forced out of the first 50 city class by Springfield, Mass.

The estimates for New England cities in the 100,000 in 1920, show probable totals as of July 1, 1923, as follows:

Boston 770,400; Providence, 242,375; Worcester, 191,927; New Haven, 172,987; Bridgeport, not estimated; Hartford, 162,138; Springfield, Mass., 144,527; New Bedford, 130,074; Fall River, 120,912; Lowell, 115,089; Cambridge, 111,444.

Sec. Weeks Denounces Pacifist Propagandists and Organizations

Scores Widespread Circulation of Incorrect and Misleading Statistics

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Pacifist propagandists and organizations in the United States were denounced as public enemies by Secretary Weeks in a statement made public by the war department.

Americans would do well, the statement said, "to inform themselves of the facts and to examine into the character and patriotism of those who are promoting the pacifist campaign before taking a step that may really align them with the enemies of the republic."

Widespread circumstances of incorrect and misleading statistics, Mr. Weeks said, had been accomplished by pacifist agencies, including "those forces in America, who are preaching revolution and the establishment of a communist government and also those who seem to believe that any army or navy is unnecessary."

Uninformed but patriotic citizens, it was added, are lending themselves to reduce, if not destroy, the military safeguards of the nation as a result of pacifist propaganda.

WILLIAM A. MITCHELL TO RETURN TO LOWELL

It was learned today that William A. Mitchell, former agent of the Massachusetts Cotton Mills in this city, who recently resigned to assume the directorship of a large textile enterprise in China, is returning to this country and will sail for New York a week from tomorrow.

It is understood that failure on the part of the Chinese business men to invest capital in the proposition after all preliminary arrangements had been completed, has caused a disruption in the plans of Mr. Mitchell and the British promoters and for the time being, at least, the venture is in abeyance.

Whether Mr. Mitchell is returning to this country in an effort to raise American capital to take the place of the money not forthcoming from residents of China is not definitely known, but some of his friends believe this is his intention.

At any event, he has called Mrs. Mitchell not to dispose of his residence property in Lowell, which would seem to mean that he intends to remain here for some time after his return.

SHE IS NOT THE WOMAN IN THE CASE

According to Larkin T. Trull of the law firm of Trull, Wier & O'Donoghue, Mrs. William R. Harding of Elizabeth, N. J., is not the Mrs. Harding for whom search is being made by the local attorneys in connection with the will of Carl Dicknell, who died in this city in 1912.

A few weeks ago the following message was broadcasted by radio from the station at Medford Hillside: "If Mrs. Grace E. Dicknell, sometimes known as Mrs. William Harding, would communicate with the office of Trull, Wier & O'Donoghue of Lowell, Mass., she would receive information to her advantage."

It was "picked up" by a Mrs. Harding in Elizabeth, who claimed she was the woman sought.

Mr. Trull investigated and today said she is not the woman in the case.

Bodies Thrown From Auto

NEW YORK, April 6.—Miss Beale McMahon of Utica, N. Y., and Mrs. Irene Blandino of Jersey City, N. J., were found murdered, with their throats cut, along an isolated roadside, at Dongan Hills, Staten Island, early today. The police believe they were murdered elsewhere and their bodies thrown from an automobile.

Mrs. Blandino, who had an artificial leg, was identified through the finding of a receipt for the limb. Miss McMahon had been visiting her at her home in Coles street, Jersey City, according to the police.

The receipt was issued by John N. Escher, New York artificial limb manufacturer. Mrs. Blandino had visited his shop last Saturday to have the leg adjusted.

Mr. Escher said she had told him that she was married four years ago, when she was 15 years old. Her husband, a barber in Jersey City, told him last week, he said, that he had gone into "the saloon business" in Jersey City. Mrs. Blandino, Escher said, always wore expensive jewelry.

Mrs. Blandino's throat had been three

ARE OPTIMISTIC

"The best is yet to come," was the opinion of a well known Lowell retail merchant, who today signed one of the chamber of commerce card questionnaires now being distributed to business men of the city and suburbs—second series.

Although names are signed to some of the questionnaires, none of the names are to be published, the chamber of commerce states. Scores of local retailers have returned the cards to the chamber executive offices, knowing that their opinions will not receive publicity as coming from specified sources, but that the general condition of business now being distributed to business men of the city and suburbs—second series.

One of the largest retail corporations in Lowell provided the emphatic information before the committee's formal signature, to the effect that the value of sales last month, compared with the previous month's totals, was greater; that the outlook for retail business in this particular line today compared with the same period of a week ago, is greater in volume.

Numerous other replies show business conditions in various retail trades as "much better," "greater," "some better," "growing steadily," very good. Some card-checkers who freely signed their names, say "the best is yet to come." Others say "warmer weather, better business." One merchant reported "business 100 per cent. better than last year." Still another business man prophesied: "If mills increase wages, business will expand."

THE MIDDLESEX POMONA

"County Day" in Middlesex Grange Circles—Largest Meeting of Season

The largest gathering of Middlesex North Pomona grange members attended with No. 18 branch. Patrons of this season's Middlesex Pomona fair, Centralville, this morning long in advance of a scheduled all-day spring rally featured by morning business sessions, lectures and discussions, a noon dinner and an afternoon entertainment and lecture program that contained much of novel interest to all grangers.

Every town in the jurisdiction was represented, no former Pomona meeting of the winter-spring series ever being more largely attended. Guests were there from many outside territories, and the visitors also included well known Lowell citizens on hand to enjoy the two elaborate feature programs and also partake of the farmers' dinner provided in Grange dining hall at 12:30 this afternoon by active members of Burlington grange.

The day's eventful doings were unusually profitable because of its variety of grange program information from lecturers known all over New England, as well as the entertainment in which popular young people in grange realms participated. The program was under the efficient direction of Lecturer Mrs. Grace Dawson, who always handles these events with rare success.

After a short business session at 10:30 a.m., community singing was in order, the chorus of men and women grangers being led by the Pomona ladies' quartet, comprised of Sister West, Dawson, Flint and Sherburne. Mrs. Alice R. Colburn followed with an interesting history of Middlesex

LOWELL GUILD BALL
THIS EVENING

The greatly anticipated Lowell Guild ball will take place this evening at the Memorial Auditorium and already success seems assured. Through the work of efficient executives, including Mrs. Julian B. Keyes, Mrs. W. L. Robinson and Mrs. E. W. Hyman, who have headed certain committees and with the cooperative efforts of the committee have progressed exceedingly well and it is expected that the accommodations of the main auditorium will be considerably taxed.

As everyone knows the Guild is promoting the ball for the purpose of raising money for the continuance and proper maintenance of its child welfare work in the city and because of its general and wide-spread appeal the event is bound to receive generous patronage.

Doors of the Auditorium will be open at 7:45 p. m. and tickets will be on sale at the box office at 7:30 o'clock. Until about closing time late this afternoon tickets may be obtained at Steiner's in Merrimack street.

WEAR CLOTHES THAT ARE EXPRESSIVE

By MARIAN HALE
NEW YORK, April 2.—Do you think of your body or of your soul when you buy a gown?
The chances are, if you concentrate on your height and width and ponder as to whether cheeks or stripes are your best bet, you don't stand out as a distinctive dresser.
But if you think of your temperament and your talents and your aspirations and all those soulful things, and buy your clothes to express them, you probably are destined to death answering the question, "where do you buy your clothes?"
All this I learned from Louise Paulconer, who is a regular baritone when it comes to smashing sartorial traditions. She has so many radical ideas about dress she simply had to open a shop of her own in New York so she could show the world, at least the commercial world, that she's right.

Individuality in Dress

"Clothes never look the same on two women, not because their sizes may not be identical, but because their personalities are different," she explained. "When you think of your friends you don't classify them as to size, do you?" she demanded. "You don't think of Jennie as the tall girl, Mary the short one and Julia the one who is getting too stout. You think of Jennie as that vivacious creature, Mary as the moody one whose feelings must be considered and Julia as the best natured person in the world.

"When I plan clothes for a woman, I don't consider her height or her weight, unless it's abnormal, because it's my business, if I know anything about dressmaking, to be able to keep her lines in proportion; but I do study her temperament.
"The lively girl can wear the gay, festive clothes that would be entirely too vivid for the more sedate person. Jazz girls and jazz clothes are made for each other.
"The sedate girl can suggest her moods by the introduction of rich and quietly submerged her personality if her face."

Personality's Essential

"The sedate girl can suggest her moods by the introduction of rich and quietly submerged her personality if her face."

she makes her clothes too gay.
"The movie stars all clothe their vivid traits in moderation, but she compensates. Mary Pickford doesn't attempt what Nazimova does, and Gloria Swanson would be a poor model for Mahol Normand.
"Never judge what you will look like in a frock by seeing it on someone else. When you look into the mirror, don't cheat. If you don't look right you are unharmonious and must silence the discord.
"A pretty girl is always best in simple clothes that detract nothing from her personal charm. The ugly woman needs the marvelous clothes so they will detract the attention from her face."

INCREASE IN IMPORTS JOINT ACTION AGAINST LIQUOR SMUGGLING

Sonora Success Is Based On Quality

At the beginning Sonora designers built for quality. They created a scientifically correct sound box and constructed the tone arms of brass or wood throughout. Not content with the mediocre, they built the horn of laminated, many-ply wood.

Then, throughout the years they have labored constantly for improvement, so that today not one instrument can compare with Sonora in tonal beauty or perfection of reproduction. Sonora is even greater than in 1915 when it won highest score for tone at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

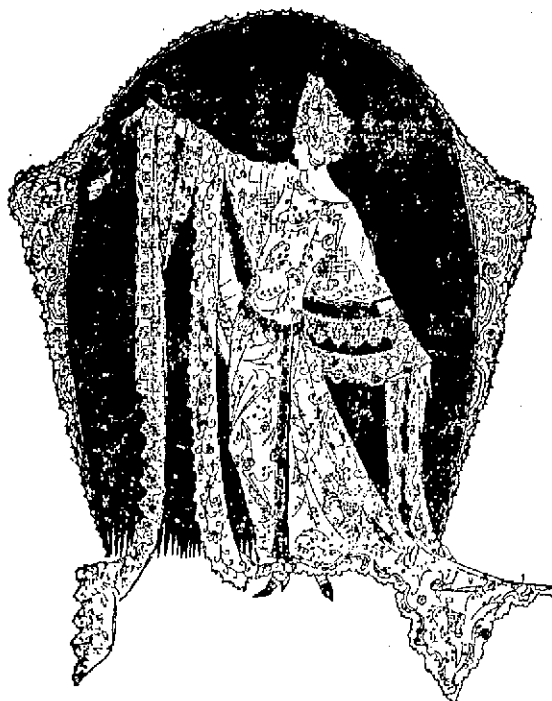

Encased in beautiful cabinets having most graceful lines and contours, Sonora is indeed a fitting appointment of the modern home. Let us show them to you.

REFUSES TO CUT AMOUNT OF BAIL

Had Been Informed That Trio Had Made "Piles of Money" in Traffic

BOSTON, April 6.—When counsel for Mrs. James W. Costello and Andrew Goldberg and John Parlo, the two latter of Montreal, asked United States Commissioner Hayes today to reduce the amount of bail which they had given on charges of conspiring to smuggle liquor, the commissioner remarked that they had furnished $27,500 in cash without difficulty, that he had been informed that they had made "piles of money" in the contraband traffic and that the bail would have to stay as it was.

Their cases, said by federal agents to be the first of many that will develop as a result of investigation of what they said was the biggest rum running in New England, were postponed for a hearing on April 15.

Meanwhile, a special session of the federal grand jury will hear evidence of the operations of the ring which financed several trips of the steamer Avontown with whiskey from Chicago. A score or more of dealers in Rhode Island cities, and of politicians, lawyers and dealers here are under summons or will be called to appear.

The Avontown, with James W. Costello, husband of the woman under arrest, as a fugitive from justice, is understood to have fled to Nova Scotia.

RAISE SATISFIES VAST MAJORITY

Satisfied at Outcome of Negotiations—U. T. W. Dissatisfied With Increase

FALL RIVER, April 6.—James Tansey, president of the Fall River Textile council, stated today that no meeting of the council would be held today, as the action of the unions last night, in accepting the offer of the manufacturers for an advance in wages of 12 1/2 per cent. to take effect April 30, was sufficient. The vast majority of the union operatives and also the non-union workers were said to be satisfied with the outcome of the negotiations. The United Textile Workers, a minority representation in union textile circles here, are apparently determined to enforce their demand for an increase of 20 1/2 per cent., although no material change from their original program announced weeks ago is in evidence as yet.

Wage Increase at Fitchburg
FITCHBURG, April 6.—Announcement of 12 1/2 per cent. wage increase, effective April 30, were made today by officials of the Crawford, Nockeys, Grant and Fitchburg Yarn mills of this city. Approximately 1800 employees are affected. All other textile mills in Fitchburg had previously advanced wages and the local branch of the Amalgamated Textile union had arranged a meeting for next Tuesday when a demand for a 12 1/2 per cent. increase was to be considered.

HERRIN RIOTS TRIAL

Final Arguments Made Today
—Neither Side to Offer Rebuttal Testimony

MARION, Ill., April 6.—(By the Associated Press) Edward J. Brundage, attorney-general of Illinois, and Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois Mine Workers, appeared in court at opposing counsel tables today, for the final arguments in the second Herrin riots trial.

Both defense and prosecution announced they would offer no rebuttal testimony.

The defense rested its hopes in alibis presented for all of the six defendants who are specifically charged with the murder of Antonio J. Mulcahey, a veteran of the World war, and one of the 22 non-union men slain during the outbreak.

INDIANAPOLIS, April 6.—To make the 32,000 American soldier graves in Europe bloom with flowers every Memorial Day as brightly as if they were at home is the objective of a fund campaign undertaken by the American Legion.

The legion, its headquarters here announced, is seeking an endowment fund of $100,000, which will provide sufficient income to dedicate the grave of every American soldier abroad every year.

The fund will be obtained in the United States by personal and community subscription. Anyone can help and no amount is too small.

For the past three years, decoration of the graves in France was in the hands of the Paris post of the American Legion.

According to the most recent figures the graves of Americans are divided as follows: 31,400 in France and Belgium, 488 in England, 140 in Scotland, 40 in Ireland, and the body of one American sailor in Spain.

Contributions already have come in. The first of the world war leaders to contribute was former President Wilson. The first legion post was Chet Paduke Post, Paducah, Ky., closely followed by a post in Kansas City, Kas.

Went out together about 8 o'clock last night, a short time after Blandino had left the house.

Police said they would make a thorough check of Blandino's statement as to his whereabouts during the night.

Found by Milkman
Walter J. Donovan, driver for a milk company, discovered the bodies. Both girls were well dressed and had bobbed hair.

The police recalled that the section has been marked by bootlegging activities during the past winter. A small cove, which run-runners used to operate small boats, runs near the roadside.

STOOD TOO LONG IN ONE PLACE

Pickpockets in Juvenile Court

pickpocketing operations, was ordered placed in the care of the Massachusetts department of public welfare after a severe reprimand by police officials in the juvenile court this morning. Her five companions were placed in the care of the probation officer with the understanding that restitution be made for the money "lifted" from their victims in the down-town district of the city.

Until a few weeks ago, several complaints had reached police headquarters from women to the effect that they had lost their pocketbooks in a mysterious manner while shopping in department stores. It was believed that the work was that of skilled and professional hands and the police detailed men to the shopping district without success. Finally, Officer Louis Lemay noticed a young girl spending money lavishly in various stores. His suspicions became aroused, and he brought the girl to the police station. Where, in an interview with Captain David Petrie, she admitted her guilt and disclosed the methods employed by her and her chums in extracting pocketbooks from innocent shoppers. She said that one Saturday's activities had netted the sum of $50, equally distributed in the partnership. The money was spent for candy and other luxuries.

ALLOWING USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS

By an act recently approved by the state legislature, a copy of which has been received at the office of the city solicitor, school committees in cities and towns are given the right to allow school buildings to be used for educational, recreational and civic activities, including political rallies, so long as such gatherings do not interfere with usual school sessions. The act tends to increase community interest.

MUSIC CAN'T BE FORCED ON CHILDREN

If your boy prefers baseball to violin practice and your girl would rather play jacks than piano, let the children follow their inclinations. Don't force a technical musical education on them. That's the advice of two of the leading stars on the concert stage today—Mme. Louise Homer, famous contralto, and Mme. Olga Samaroff, pianist. Both are mothers, and both say if their children had no inclination to learn the mechanics of music they would not force this on them.

But musical appreciation can be fostered in pleasant ways than by technical learning, they agree. Mme. Homer believes it is more important to appreciate a masterpiece than to struggle through a sonata without pleasure.

"The development of musical taste," she says, "comes from constantly hearing the best music. Technical study is for the few and gifted, but esthetic study and familiarity of the classics should be within the reach of all children."

To this Mme. Samaroff adds: "Instead of chaining a child to an instrument and forcing it to make bad music it is possible to develop through study of musical history and theory and concert a love and understanding of music in the child. "It is my hope that courses on musical appreciation will have a definite place in all schools and colleges."

LADIES! LOOK YOUNG, DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhance its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready to use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two the natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.—Adv.

BRINGS DEAD BACK TO LIFE

Physician Tells of Method by
Which Man "Gone" a Half
Hour Revived

Injects Fluid From Adrenal
Glands Directly Into the Heart

CHICAGO, April 6.—A new method of resuscitation by the injection of fluid from the adrenal glands directly into the heart, credited with reviving persons who have been pronounced dead, was explained in reports read by Dr. Dennis W. Crile of Chicago at a joint meeting of the Chicago Medical Society and the Chicago Society of Anesthetists.

Dr. G. W. Crile of Cleveland, O., uncle of the speaker, was credited with pioneering work with his nephew, in the researches reported.

The physician explained the revival of persons who, he said, had been dead as long as 30 minutes. In some cases, the physician said, patients who had been pronounced dead were revived, died again, and were revived again at intervals and ultimately recovered.

Dr. Crile Explains Method

As described by Dr. Crile, the method calls for the injection of large quantities of adrenal fluid into the heart by the use of hypodermic needles. Sometimes, he said, resuscitation was assisted by manipulation of the heart in the hands and respiration aided by mechanical production of breathing processes.

"Life can be restored by this method, provided the cause of death can be removed quickly," Dr. Crile said. "With prompt and fearless treatment the patient may be made to live again. So far I have used the treatment only in cases of persons who were pronounced dead—not only by me but by other surgeons. Hereafter I propose to employ it on persons who are dying."

Dr. Crile said the first use of adrenal upon the human heart was in Belgium during the war, when soldiers seriously wounded by shells were restored by it and accompanying surgery. The greatest utility for the new method, Dr. Crile said, is in resuscitation of persons who die from effects of anesthetic while undergoing operations.

The adrenal gland secretions, according to medical authorities, control the emotions of courage and fear.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Probably the most spectacular and certainly the most tragic scene produced on a local stage in some time is shown in the last scene of "The Bird of Paradise," at the Lowell Opera House this week, when Mary Anne Dwyer, as Ianna, the Hawaiian princess, dives into the blazing crater of Mt. Pele to save her people. The whole production is an entrancing spectacle of the magical lands of the Pacific and the lovable, childlike nature of its people.

ORIGIN OF MAN DATES BACK TO REMOTE TIME

LONDON, April 6.—Much speculation as to the age of man has arisen as a result of the recent discoveries of fossil human skulls in South America, Patagonia and the island of Jersey. The estimates as to the antiquity of the human race range all the way from ten thousand to a million years. Dr. Wolf's reported discovery in Patagonia of a fossilized human skull of the tertiary period, however, may nullify all previous scientific calculations on this subject, and the public is now getting a little chary about accepting even scientists' estimates regarding the date of the origin of the human race.

Ever since the unearthing of the ashes of King Tutankhamen, who, in the view of anthropologists, is to be reckoned only as an "ancient" as the age of man goes, startling discoveries have been made all over the world which upset all well-established anthropological foundations.

Dr. A. Smith Woodward, director of the geological department of the British Museum, makes some interesting commentaries on the latest discoveries in skulls and bones. "For a moment," says he, "the public seemed to assume that we had found at last the first man who lived on earth. But, however, that these conjectures are as baseless as they are interesting. Since the skull from Jersey is said to have been found near a neolithic burial chamber, it is probably much nearer our period than any of the skulls of fossil men which show resemblance to their ape-like ancestors. And since the specimen from Patagonia comes from a country which has furnished more 'man's nests' in the study of prehistoric and ancestral man than any other part of the world, it will not excite interest among anthropologists as much as geologists admittedly excited in such matters has satisfied himself that this is a true fossil, definitely associated with the remains of extinct animals."

Who, then, Dr. Woodward asks, was the first man on earth? "To be strictly accurate," he replies, "we have not yet found him, although we have some reason to think we know where to look. In the dim borderland of time which separates man from monkey there reigned, somewhere in Central Asia, a form of large-brained ape destined to be the precursor of man. It is impossible to fix a date for his appearance, but we do know that when he came into being the Himalayan mountains had not yet reared their peaks."

The eminent British geologist says nothing has yet been discovered respecting the habits and life of these apes. A party of American naturalists is now searching for them in promising localities in Mongolia, he adds. It was in the Neanderthal, near Düsseldorf, Germany, writes Dr. Woodward, that the remains of the earliest man of whom anything is really known were discovered. "Compared with our knowledge of his ancestors," he says, "he is an intimate acquaintance. But it is impossible to assign him a date in years. Swedish geologists reckon his age as about 12,000 years."

"Neanderthal man," continues the British scientist, "was definitely a man. He lived in caves from which he hunted forth to hunt the animals, such as mammoth, rhinoceros, reindeer and bison which then roamed over Europe. We have found his tools, flint and bone, and we have found even the bone pins with which possibly the early women fastened the rough skins which served them for petticoats. We have also found remains of paint and rouge, which seem to signify the dawn of vanity."

"Most remarkable of all, we have ascertained that these early human beings believed in a future life, an enormous advance in thought. They buried their dead, and with the dead we have found both stone implements and the bones of animals which had been buried when still covered with flesh, and were doubtless intended to be used as food in case the departed spirits should suffer the pangs of hunger."

One of Six Silhouette Styles for Spring

Now that the dust of battle has cleared away one learns that there are six accredited silhouettes for spring fashions and every gown or suit the season offers is sure to follow one of them. This is the Egyptian silhouette—nowest of all. It is marked by front drapes and front panels. To increase the Egyptian effect of the silhouette fashion has added Egyptian accessories—embroideries, jewels, buckles and printed designs for fabrics.

CONCERT BY LOWELL ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY

The Lowell Orchestral Society needs no introduction to local lovers of good music. The society has presented concerts for many years, but their work was interrupted owing to the war, when most of the members were in the service. Fortunately, the orchestra has been reorganized and announces a concert to be held on Wednesday evening, April 18th, at Colonial hall. Those who were familiar with the society's concerts in the past are anticipating with pleasure the forthcoming event, and many who may hear this fine organization for the first time will have a very convincing demonstration of what local talent, under such a conductor as Mr. Schiller, can do.

The program has been carefully selected consisting of works which are in the repertoire of the large Symphony orchestra, and which will please the most critical audience. A well-known local soloist will assist at the performance, and it is expected that a generous response will be made to the efforts of the society.

BROADWAY CLUB CONCERT AND DANCE

Little May Conway, a juvenile entertainer of note, will act as interlude at the annual concert and dance of the Broadway Social and Athletic club in Associate hall this evening. The concert promises to be one of rare enjoyment as among those to appear are some of Lowell's leading entertainers. The chorus is made up of members of the popular club, who have been carefully trained by Charles M. Keyes, Dan Brennan and Frankie Donohue, are the quartet who will furnish amusement, with their witty sallies and mirth provoking songs. Following the concert, general dancing will be enjoyed.

ASK SHIPPERS CONSERVE SPACE

Daily Association Urges
Aid to Relieve Heaviest
Traffic Burden in History

Approves Expenditure of
Tracks and Equipment

NEW YORK, April 6.—(By the Associated Press) Having approved the expenditure of $1,540,000,000 in new tracks, locomotives, cars and terminals, the American Railway Association yesterday adopted a program which calls on every road, every shipper and every household to help relieve the heaviest traffic burden in history.

They ask that shippers conserve space and help keep cars moving; that dealers and consumers get their coal into bins early; that the bulk of ore and coal shipments on the Great Lakes be completed early in the summer; that road and construction work be gotten under way as soon as possible so that rail equipment may be available for crop movements in the fall.

On their part the roads will try to have an extraordinary number of good order locomotives and cars available in the fall; to have all coal intended for railroad use in storage by Sept. 1, to restrict the transportation of railroad supplies to the minimum during the fall rush; and to help keep every car moving.

The program is one recommended by directors of the association Tuesday and adopted today by the full membership, including every road, transfer and terminal subsidiary in the United States. It also has been approved by the association of railway executives, an organization of Class 1 trunk lines.

All are agreed:
1.—That by October 1, 1923, when the peak movement ordinarily begins, cars awaiting repairs will be reduced to the normal basis of 5 per cent of the total equipment of the country.

2.—That by Oct. 1, 1923, locomotives awaiting repairs will be reduced to a normal basis for the entire country of 15 per cent.

3.—That in the extent coal is stored for railroad uses, storage requirements will be completed by September 1, so that after that date the equipment and other transportation facilities may be used to the greatest extent for commercial coal necessities.

4.—That the use of power and equipment for railroad construction and maintenance purposes will be restricted to the minimum after Sept. 1 in order that a maximum of power and equipment may be available for commercial purposes.

5.—That railroads in producing and consuming sections will impress upon all interested the necessity for the movement of coal and ore via the lakes in the largest possible quantity early in the season and that railroads serving upper lake ports will carry on a campaign for early purchase and shipment of coal from the upper lake docks to ports of consumption.

6.—That an effort will be made to bring about the prosecution of road and building construction work as early in the season as possible in order that equipment may be available for larger movement of seasonal commodities.

7.—That all interested will be impressed with the necessity for loading all cars to maximum capacity in an effort to bring the average loading to 30 tons per car for the entire country; for unloading cars promptly; increasing storage facilities and providing additional siding capacity to facilitate loading and unloading, thereby increasing the number of available cars.

8.—That every possible means be adopted to increase the mileage per car per day to an average of 30 for the entire country, particular attention being given to prompt movement through terminals and yards and to the insurance of embargoes when necessary to prevent congestion.

Adoption of the program was accompanied by the following statement: "Anticipating the greatest volume of freight traffic this year in its history, the railroads today adopted a concerted policy and intensive working program to enable them to meet the growing transportation needs of the country."

"Despite the obstacles placed in the way of transportation service since July 1, 1922, by the cumulative effects of the coal miners and shopmen's strikes, the railroads have, between July 1, 1922 and March 17, 1923, a period of 37 weeks, handled the greatest volume of traffic ever transported during any corresponding period in the history of the country."

"In full realization of the necessity for the greatest improvement and expansion possible of the country's transportation facilities to meet the growing demands of commerce, the railroads have authorized since Jan. 1, 1922, for cars, locomotives, trackage and other facilities the expenditure of $1,540,000,000, of which $440,000,000 was actually expended during the year 1922."

"The railroads of the country are raising this enormous amount of additional capital largely through borrowed money on the abiding faith in the fairness of the American people and reliance on the continuance of the policy announced in the transportation act of 1920 as a measure of reasonable protection to investment in railroad property."

"From January 1, 1922, to March 15, 1923, the railroads purchased 223,616 new freight cars. Of these 117,280 have been delivered and put in service. The railroads during that time also purchased 4,210 new locomotives. Of that number 2,106 have already been placed in service. Practically all of the equipment still on order is to be delivered by fall, at which time freight traffic is always the heaviest."

"Subsequently orders for additional cars and locomotives are constantly being placed."

"The railroads have already established and have in active and effective operation, a comprehensive organization in the car service division for the control and distribution of freight cars which, during recent periods of car shortage, has under difficult conditions secured to the public the best possible use of available freight equipment."

"This appeal is made with full recognition by the railroads of their own responsibility for prompt movement of loaded or empty equipment as being one of the primary measures necessary to avoid waste of transportation."

"You can have a full house if you have the jack."

"BULGARIA COINING MONEY"

"VIENNA, April 6.—The Austrian mint has received an order from the Bulgarian government for the coining on its behalf of 40 million one leva and 20 million 2 leva pieces. The execution of this order will keep the mint fully employed for the space of nine months."

AMERICAN PUBLIC TO ENJOY PARKS

NEW YORK, April 6.—Americans purchased more art works in Europe last year than in any year since the beginning of the war, estimates for the year fixing the value of such imports at $23,000,000. Whether this increase is due to a growing interest in the United States for material of this character, or to greater willingness on the part of Europeans to permit their treasures to pass to other parts of the world is a moot question.

Imports of art works in the four years since the war have averaged $26,000,000 a year, compared with approximately $17,000,000 annually during the period of the war. The total value of such imports since 1918, the year following that in which import duty was removed from works of art 20 years or more older, is about $250,000,000, an average of about $25,000,000 a year.

It is estimated that at least $150,000,000 of the $250,000,000 worth of art works imported since the war came from Europe, England, France and Germany for many years were the largest contributors to these imports, but in recent years Italy has rivaled Germany in the list. A large proportion of the art works are described as "more than 100 years old."

In 1921, the latest complete year for which figures are available, imports of art works "more than 100 years old" aggregated $13,000,000 out of the total of $22,000,000. Original paintings, drawings and pen sketches formed $5,000,000 and the remaining $8,000,000 worth included statuary, stained and painted window glass, and a limited number of works produced by American artists residing temporarily abroad.

If reformers made our laws you would have to sneak out behind the barn to chew chewing gum.

HARDING TO GO WEST

President Plans Trip to "Feel the Pulse" of Section on National Problems

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—President Harding is understood to contemplate his proposed summer trip to the Pacific coast not only as a means of presenting to the western half of the country his policies and plans, but also as a means of ascertaining clearly the western viewpoint on national problems.

Such an understanding of the executive's attitude toward the projected trip has been obtained by several of those who have discussed the matter of the tour with him during his vacation.

As briefly put by these conferees today, the president desires to go into the section west of the Mississippi to "feel its pulse."

As tentatively mapped out the swing of the president through the west provides for 15 or 20 addresses in representative cities. In these addresses Mr. Harding, it is said, plans to outline the more important policies of his administration and announce his plans for the remainder of his present term of office.

The addresses will not be the only feature of the trip as now viewed by Mr. Harding, as through informal conferences with leading citizens he hopes to learn intimately and clearly the thoughts and ideas of the people. These conferences, he is said to feel, will give him a background and basis for use in formulating new policies and in carrying out old ones.

Some thought is being given by the president, it is further said, to a suggestion that after his trip a series of conferences be held at the White House to weigh the information received during the trip and to decide upon his application. As described by one of those close to the chief executive, there would be conferences of "the best minds" of the party and the administration, conducted similarly to the conferences held by the president during his 1920 campaign and since entering the White House.

GOV. BAXTER OUTLINES COMPROMISE BILL

AUGUSTA, Me., April 6.—A compromise bill which has been arranged at a series of conferences between Governor Percival P. Baxter, representatives of power users on the Kennebec river and members of the senate to take the place of the Kennebec Reservoir Co., charter bill, over which there has been much controversy, was outlined by Governor Baxter yesterday at a joint session of the legislature.

The new bill, which later was presented to the senate, provides that instead of the company buying the state lands on the Dead river at a price to be fixed by arbitration, it shall lease them for a period of 40 years at an annual rental of $25,000.

The other important change is that the company is to have the right to develop the possible 5000 horse power at the site of the construction dam in return for this rental fee. It also is provided that, if at the end of 40 years, the state does not take over the property, the lease shall be renewed for 20-year periods.

The new company is to be known as the Dead River Reservoir Co., and the bill repeals the Kennebec Reservoir Co. law, which was passed over the veto by the governor, who unsuccessfully caused petitions for a referendum to be circulated. Actual work must begin within 18 months.

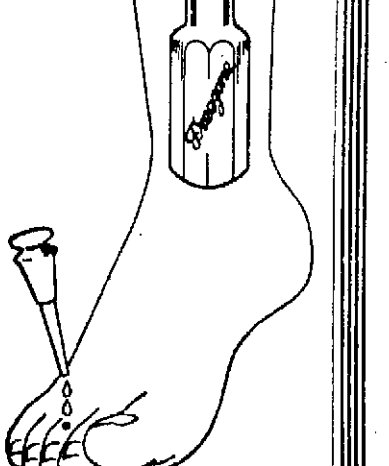

HAVE ALL HOLIDAYS FALL ON MONDAY

HONOLULU, April 6.—Complete dislocation of the calendar, at least so far as holidays in Hawaii are concerned, is sought in a bill introduced into the house of the territorial legislature by William J. Coelho.

The bill provides that each holiday observed in the territory, Christmas, Thanksgiving, Fourth of July, New Years and all others, shall be celebrated on a Monday.

WOMEN EXCEL MEN IN PAYING BILLS

LONDON, April 6.—The answer to the question of whether women have a higher moral sense than men will be found in the affirmative if the experience of the Carnegie trust for the universities of Scotland is taken as a deciding factor. The trust undertakes to provide funds for students wishing to enter colleges, and though they are under no obligation, they are expected to repay what money they can. Sir David Prain, at a recent meeting of the trustees, said that the number of women students who repaid their fees during 1922 was considerably larger than the number of men. Last year 39 former students repaid $1,337 to the fund, making the total amount repaid $12,500, or one and a third per cent of the money advanced. It was brought out at the committee meeting that pre-war conditions had so far returned as to justify the committee in reducing the value of the annual scholarships from £200 to £150.

HOOD FARM COW WINS MEDAL OF MERIT

Sophie's Tormentor's Cow 387409 owned by Hood Farm, Inc., has qualified for an A.J.C.C. medal of merit. This great producer started her third official test at 6 years 4 months of age and in one year produced 16102 pounds of milk and $91.05 pounds of butter-fat. She met the calving requirements, carried calf 171 days during test and thus steps into the select class of medal of merit winners which to date numbers 46.

Floss has two other records, one as a senior two-year-old on which she produced 519.60 pounds of butter-fat and another as a junior four-year-old in which she produced 741.21 pounds of butter-fat making her a gold and silver medal cow.

Her sire, Sophie 18th's Tormentor 113302, is already a gold and silver medal bull, and at his daughter's showing to date it bids fair to make him a medal of merit also. Floss's dam is Sophie's Agnes 286759 with four official tests and former world's champion Jersey which she held on her record of 1006.07 pounds of butter-fat. She was the first world's champion Jersey with a record over 1000 pounds.

Everything relating to music and the teaching of music will be discussed by speakers. Walter Lumrosch, conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra, will deliver an address.

ITCHING PILLS

Druggists refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Stops Irritation, Soothes and Heals. The first application gives ease and rest. 80c.

Three thousand delegates from every state in the union will be entertained by a boys' chorus of one thousand voices. Davenport, Iowa, will send a boy's glee club and Grand Rapids, Mich., a school band and orchestra. The climax of the convention will be a music memory contest on April 15.

CHICKERING CENTENNIAL The Jonas Chickering centennial committee has selected Miss Billy Doherty, Guy Miller and Lee Pattison as the five pianists to play at the Symphony hall concert in connection with the celebration. The date of the concert has been changed to Saturday afternoon, April 21, instead of April 22, as previously announced.

All five pianists are well known to Boston audiences. They represent a variety of style and it will be an unusual opportunity for a Boston audience to compare closely the methods of five artists of the first standing. Miss Doherty's playing is noted for its power and depth of execution. Mr. Doherty's virtuosity is coupled with the authority which comes of fine experience both as an artist and composer. Messrs. Miller and Pattison, both products of the New England Conservatory of Music, are known here and abroad for their remarkable joint performances on two pianos. In most bands a rather insensitive medium.

WAGE INCREASE OF 70 CENTS PER DAY GRANTED TO WATER WORKS LABORERS

The board of public service yesterday afternoon voted an increase of 70 cents per day to water works laborers, or an advance from $4.50 to $5.20, which is an amount equal to the daily wage paid laborers of the street department.

A similar request was received on behalf of the ash division but because of insufficient money appropriated by the city council for this department, the public service board was obliged to defer action and recommend that the matter be taken up with the mayor and the council. It is the belief of the board that men in this department should be placed upon a footing equal with that of men in the street and water departments, but unless more money is forthcoming, it will be an impossibility.

On motion of Chairman Dennis J. Murphy the city engineer was instructed to advise the mayor and council by letter that the sum allotted to the ash division is at least $10,000 below the actual requirements and requesting an additional appropriation to allow the department to function and to provide for the increase in wages the board desires to grant.

Michael H. Harrington, at the head of the ash and waste collection department, spoke in favor of the proposition for his men and vigorously defended the nature and amount of work they are called upon to do.

The board explained that the request of the water department men could be granted without question, for this is wholly a revenue department, whereas the ash division is dependent entirely upon money provided for its maintenance and operation. The delegation from the ash division laborers included Muriagh Lyons, John Murray and Donat Paquette. At present men in this department are receiving $4.50 and $4.75 per day and the request is for a rate of $5.20.

Harry Prescott Graves, representing Dr. Maurice Fishman, appeared before the board relative to the removal of a portion of the fence which leads to the Central bridge on the Centralville end and near property recently purchased by Dr. Fishman. The request was granted.

Joseph Fay appeared for the wharfe of a sewer assessment in Mt. Pleasant street and it was referred to the law department for a ruling on the legality of the assessment.

James J. Gallagher, chairman of the city council, appeared relative to the widening of Hall and Alken streets and action was deferred pending a view of the site which will be taken by the board and the council committee next Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Edgar J. Braultigan of 15 Tenth street appeared for an abatement of a water bill of $77.10 and in the investigation it developed that most of the bill was charged before Mr. Braultigan entered the premises last September. The board voted to cut the bill 50 per cent.

George Morrison appeared with several pictures of snow removal apparatus, but no action was taken.

Councilor Frank K. Stearns asked for some consideration in the grading and filling of Mt. Pleasant street, between street and part of Beacon street and it was referred to Superintendent of Streets Doherty.

George P. Bell and Joseph Hughes, representing a delegation from the Municipal Employees union, appeared relative to the pay of the water department, claiming inequality in several stages.

Chairman Murphy said the board believed in the stabilization of the wages, with that of the street department and moved that the so-called laborers in the water department be advanced to $5.20 per day beginning Monday, April 9, and that the foremen be also advanced correspondingly. Mr. Leary seconded the motion and it was a unanimous vote in favor of the increase.

City Engineer Kearney reported that several loan orders had been prepared for submission to the city council and will go in at the next meeting of that body. They include the following orders: $50,000 for paving, $10,000 for sidewalk, $30,000 for unsewered work and $50,000 for sewer construction.

VERY HIGH AND SCARCE

Lobsters Are Scarce as "Hens Teeth"—Only Nine in Local Market

Would you like a lobster a la Newburg for supper?

Try and buy one!

The Lowell market was practically bare of the red crustaceans this morning.

Most of the fish markets reported no lobsters in stock. One of the two lobster food distributors in the city had only a "red" or "live" to offer patrons today. The other popular trading place close by sported only lobsters on two trays, and only one. The price was 75 cents the pound.

Middlesex, Merrimack and Bridge streets fish markets were mourning short supplies or sporting "call out" signals.

It is declared by one and all to be the most severe lobster shortage ever known since the war put a damper on the lobster operations along the Atlantic coastal lines.

The price of lobsters in Boston today mounted to an altitude which was not approached even during the orgy of price inflation in war time.

Fresh lobsters are retailing in the Boston market territories for $1.35 per pound today, and in the smaller metropolitan markets from that figure upward. Live lobsters retail for $1.20. Wholesale dealers quote live lobsters at $1 and boiled at $1.20.

Lowell marketmen say the present shortage is really unprecedented. Those interviewed this morning said it was not only impossible to secure adequate supplies, but any supplies at all today. This is the season when lobsters are usually on the decline. The close season ended in Nova Scotia last month and under normal conditions there would be from 500 to 1000 of the 150-pound crates coming to Boston from Canada every week.

At present receipts from Canada are practically nil. Receipts from Maine coastal points are also at a very low ebb. The few now on the market come mostly from "pounders" where they have spent the winter. Lowell lobster distributors told The Sun today that ice conditions in the bays and inlets from Portland, Me., to the head of the Bay of Fundy are responsible for the present shortage. Lobster fishermen who have been tempted by the present high prices to set their traps, have lost their gear. In one or two instances they have also lost their lives.

Naturally all New England cities miss their lobsters. Much suffering is reported from the "Follies" chorus and dramatic and problem world areas as a result of the lobster market of March and April, 1923.

But all football favorites, baldheads and the common folks at large everywhere in New England will have to shuffle along on the crustacean verge of starvation until a summer day.

TAX EXEMPTION UPHELD

Decision of Justice Tierney Holding Law Unconstitutional Reversed

NEW YORK, April 6.—The appellate division of the supreme court unanimously reversed the decision of Justice Tierney who declared the state tax exemption building law unconstitutional.

GIRL CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 6.—A warrant has been issued here for the arrest of Miss Edith G. Birch, a 19-year-old bookkeeper, charging embezzlement of funds of the E. Higgins Co. book dealer. Officials of the company declare a shortage of between $2,000 and $5,000 has been found. Miss Birch's books, Miss Birch is alleged to have confessed.

Three automobiles, expensive clothing and home furnishings, and unsecured loans to friends, are said by officers to have consumed most of the funds.

PROPOSES TO BRING OUT HIDDEN GOLD

PARIS, April 6.—Gold popularly supposed to be hoarded by the French in their traditional "woolen sock" would be drawn out of hiding to aid the government through a bill introduced in parliament by Deputy Meunier. He proposes that gold, which on the world market is worth more than three times the French paper money, should be taken by the government at twice its nominal value. This, he thinks, would give France additional sound money to stop the fall of the franc and strengthen the country's credit.

France called in all gold early in the war, and more than a billion and a half francs were obtained in this way. Many financial experts think, however, that the French, who have always preferred "hard money" to paper, must have kept most of their savings for a rainy day. France belongs to the Latin monetary union, with Belgium, Italy and Switzerland, and their moneys were interchangeable until differences in the exchange during the war naturally caused each country's money to travel homeward. After the war, France and Switzerland withdrew their silver from circulation in the other country.

How much gold the French still hoard seems to be a matter of speculation for gold of other countries that circulated here before the war, may very likely still be here. Traffic in gold coins is a penal offense, yet the trade goes on, and from time to time offenders are caught buying or selling it for smuggling out of the country in order to benefit by the exchange.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS

Members of James A. Garfield, Women's Relief Corps, enjoyed a whist party at their rooms late yesterday afternoon, the affair being in charge of the president, Mrs. Alice Schofield. At 6 o'clock, supper was served and later a business session was held, during which the observance of Patriots' day was informally discussed. The meeting was brought to a close with the salute to the flag.

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist. Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple-remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.—Adv.

The Cream Pitcher

TODAY the Recipe Club column is devoted to the subject of vegetables. Because so few people actually realize the importance of plenty of vegetables in the diet. Children, especially, are sure to be fussy about eating them. And the ordinary homey vegetables like carrots and beets and cabbage and parsnips and turnips are too familiar to be exciting. But if you take pains in serving them, you will find them a wonderful addition to your menus. Serve at least one vegetable with both lunch and dinner.

In preparing vegetables for the table, remove all inedible portions and pare thin.

All green vegetables and tubers should be crisp and firm when put on to cook. If they are wilted, the vegetables should be soaked in very cold water to restore the crispness.

Vegetables that form heads—cabbage, cauliflower, lettuce and artichokes—should be turned head down in salted water to which a few tablespoons of vinegar have been added, to remove insects.

All vegetables except dried beans and peas should be cooked in boiling water. Strong flavored vegetables are often blanched or par-boiled, then dropped in boiling water and cooked. Such vegetables should be cooked with the cover drawn to one side to allow the volatile gases formed in cooking to pass off in the steam. Vegetables cooked with good ventilation are much more wholesome.

Root vegetables may be cooked in a covered pan, but all green leafy vegetables should be cooked with the cover partly off—with green vegetables, this also preserves the color.

Avoid using more water in cooking vegetables than necessary. Add simply enough freshly boiling water to cover, allowing one teaspoon of salt to one quart of water. This may be added when vegetables are put in, except in case of the delicate green vegetables such as peas, spinach, etc.

In preparing a cream sauce to serve with vegetables—celery, peas, asparagus, etc.—substitute the liquor in which the vegetables were cooked for water in combining with the evaporated milk.

CREAM SAUCE

1½ cups Borden's Evaporated Milk
1½ cup water
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper

Melt butter, add flour, salt and pepper; stir until smooth, remove from fire and gradually add the cold liquid; return to the fire, stir constantly until boiling point is reached, then let simmer ten minutes.

Most vegetables are delicious served with hollandaise. Here is a simple recipe for hollandaise sauce that always turns out right.

MOCK HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

1 cup Borden's Evaporated Milk
4 cup boiling water
8 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
Few grains cayenne
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 egg yolks, well beaten

Melt the butter in the top of a double boiler. Add the flour. When well blended, gradually add the hot water and stir continuously until it thickens. Season with salt and cayenne. When ready to serve, add the evaporated milk to the egg yolks. Mix the sauce thoroughly with the milk and egg yolks. Reheat quickly. Remove from the fire. Add the lemon juice, a few drops at a time, and serve immediately.

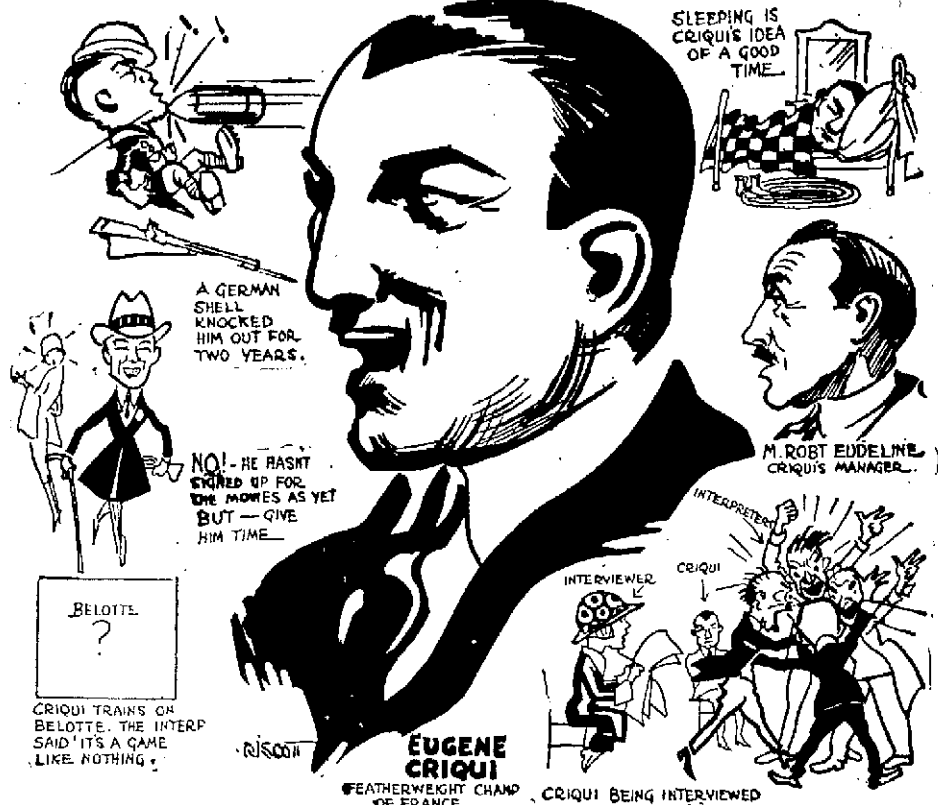

Mrs. Wm. E. Adams,
Charlotte, N. C.

Since the basis of these two sauces is milk, let us add a few words about Borden's Evaporated Milk. You will find it particularly successful for making creamed dishes. For it is the purest of country milk simply evaporated to double thickness. And, of course, it is much less expensive than double cream. Keep it in your kitchen for regular use.

Criqui Through the Feminine Eye

By JOSEPHINE VAN DER GRIFT

NEA Services Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April 4.—Who's showing the world how to be physically perfect?

Why, the prize fighter.

And who's showing the world how to be morally perfect?

Why, the prize fighter.

You might just as well come out and admit it. Take this Monsieur Criqui, for instance. Monsieur Criqui has come over here to shake hands with Johnny Kilbane, after which he expects to sew up the world's featherweight championship in a bag and take it back to La Belle France.

Would Monsieur Criqui stay out after curfew? Or play red dog for so much as a nickel limit? Or look twice on a piece of French pastry? On Monsieur's life, he would not. Why, bless your soul, he won't even one-step! His favorite music is Carmen.

Story of Criqui's Career

My parley with Criqui took place in the office of Dan McKelrick, local representative for Criqui, newly arrived in America, who sat meekly in a chair. His manager, Robert Eudeline, sat opposite. The four interpreters hopped excitedly about "till me." I said in effect to Criqui, "The story of your life." Criqui looked puzzled. The interpreters interpreted. Criqui began to speak. The four interpreters communicated wildly. Out of it all I was able to gather the following things about Criqui.

Criqui is 30 years old and weighs 122 pounds. His first official combat took place when he was 15 years old. It was a small affair of four rounds, but Criqui was victorious and a grateful manager bestowed upon him the sum of 15 francs. Criqui blew in his winnings on the gang and straightway became a popular idol. Since that time he has taken part in six bouts and has won all but eight of them.

World War Here

The official record of his battles does not include the late European conflict in which Criqui encountered a bullet which tore away the lower part of his jaw, disrupted 19 of his teeth, crushed his tongue and finally emerged triumphantly at the back of his neck.

French surgeons pattered around with him, took out a piece of one of his ribs and used it to make Criqui a new jaw. Then they made him a new set of teeth. But for two years and more Criqui lay in the hospital, speechless and without hope.

Enter Monsieur Eudeline. "Courage, boy, courage," whispered Monsieur Eudeline, who had already seen something of what Criqui could do. Criqui took courage and staged the comeback which made him champion of Europe. Sleep is the most important item in Criqui's daily routine. He sleeps from eight to 10 hours and takes a short nap during the day. For breakfast he has "cassé" and a cup of coffee. For luncheon and supper he has many, many vegetables and much red meat. Chicken he does not like. It has "too many bones." For an hour or so each afternoon he plays helotte with his trainer or sparring partners. But it is for recreation, not gain. There was a time before the war, of course, when Criqui leaned back in his chair and smiled pleasantly at the recollection.

Hopes to Win Title

Criqui is slight, as befits a featherweight champion. His hair is slicked back into a neat pompadour. When I saw him he wore a soft shirt, a dark blue suit with a tiny red stripe running through it and very pointed soft brown shoes. In sooth, a modest, well-mannered, young man.

And has he much chance at the world championship? Ah, if a steady eye, a quick foot and a gentlemanly bearing have anything to do with it, he has. Take the word of Monsieur Robert Eudeline.

And anyway, there's this to be said about it: Monsieur Kilbane gets sassy and makes a few cutting remarks to Monsieur Criqui. Monsieur Criqui won't know a word that Mister Kilbane's saying. "Thos do say Kilbane has won many a battle by riling his opponent. Words will be wasted on Criqui."

KIDNEYS NEED LOTS OF WATER AT TIMES

If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Also Take a Little Salts

Most folks forget that the kidneys like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine.

This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well known local druggist who sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year. Adv.

THE CADILLAC IS PROUD POSSESSION

The purchaser of a renewed Cadillac secures not only the advantages resulting from scientific design and accurate workmanship, but also the satisfaction of an owner being able to refer to his car as "My Cadillac." The Cadillac is the car which more than any other is the choice of those who are able to buy any car. The prices at which owners can sell their used Cadillac cars and the prices at which they can be purchased are largely a matter of the condition of the market. This works to the advantage of both the man with a Cadillac to sell and the prospective purchaser of a used Cadillac. The latter may have to pay a greater sum for the Cadillac than for a car of another make, but he gets more for his money. Automatically he is assured of a better market if he in turn wishes to dispose of the car. A used Cadillac is good value no matter where it is obtained, but a purchaser will be more likely to get full value for his money if he buys a car from a Cadillac distributor or dealer. The Cadillac distributor is interested in the Cadillac car and in the purchaser. It is to his interest that Cadillac users get the best of service and satisfaction. It is to his interest that a used car be put in first class condition before it is placed on the market. It is to the distributor's or dealer's interest that a purchaser is not disappointed in his belief that a renewed Cadillac will give him much greater actual automobile value than could be obtained in any new car of approximately the same price.

REV. I. W. HARTLEY AT THE PULPIT OF PORT GEORGE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, WITH THE RADIO RECEIVING SET BESIDE HIM.

ORGAN MUSIC BY RADIO

Receiving Set in Small Church Makes Services Complete

If your church has no organ, why not suggest the installation of a radio receiving set?

Thus, you may enjoy an organ recital from one of the greatest churches within a hundred miles or so, and sing your hymns to organ music, even though your congregation can't afford such an instrument. This is actually being done. And many small country congregations are considering adopting the stunt for their own churches.

Rev. Lyman R. Hartley of Port George Presbyterian church in New York, installed the radio device in his office. Every Sunday he times his services and sermons with the organ preludes and accompaniments sent by radio from St. Thomas church, through one of the big broadcasting stations in the city.

Even the children are radio broadcast. Rev. Hartley had a loud speaker put outside the church and connected with the receiving instruments within. When the chimes of St. Thomas are rung, the Port George congregation hears them through the loud speaker.

Churchgoers will like this innovation. The whole service is timed so minutely that the local pastor can't possibly keep his congregation over-time by any long-winded sermon.

ANOTHER STEP TO PERSONAL RADIO

Another step has been made toward personal wireless telephony.

It consists of a selective call transmitter and receiver, developed by Dr. Erich P. Huth of Berlin. By this combination of apparatus, a given station may be called up, to the exclusion of all others.

But this form of radio telephony is still crude and experimental. By it a receiving station is called up and while conversation is going on between the transmitting and receiving station, none of the other stations included in the system can interfere or call another station.

The calls are made by time signals, each station having its own time call. For instance, when there is a quarter-minute buzz—in all the receivers on the station—Station A is being called. Station B is called with a half-minute buzz, and so on.

To make these different calls, a dial on the transmitting apparatus is adjusted according to the time it is desired to buzz. That sets the wave length for transmission and reception and there is no need of adjusting dials at either end, except take up the receiving instrument.

The next step in personal radio telephony will be division of wave lengths so there will be no interference among stations and no stations will have to take turns calling.

FEES FOR RADIO SONGS

Copyrighted songs transmitted by radio from broadcasting stations will cost the station managers from $250 to $5000 each. The American society of composers, authors and publishers has decided to charge such fee and fix the sum according to the broadcasting station's location.

AMATEURS IN CANADA

To the 17,000 radio amateurs in the United States, there are 1800 in Canada. These include only those who are licensed to operate transmitting sets. Those who listen in are many times more.

MANY AMATEURS HEARD

Of the 352 radio amateurs who qualified in this country for the transatlantic tests last December, only six failed to get across in the final tests. A year before, only 33 Americans were heard in England.

RADIO RECEIVING TAX

Radio reception in Canada is taxed, one dollar for each receiving station. Besides, amateurs are not permitted to transmit signals or voice between 7:30 and 10 in the evening, when broadcasting stations have the air.

COMPETITION IN RADIO

There are more than 100 different types of radio receiving sets on the market. Thirty manufacturers produce them. Manufacturers of radio parts far exceed this number.

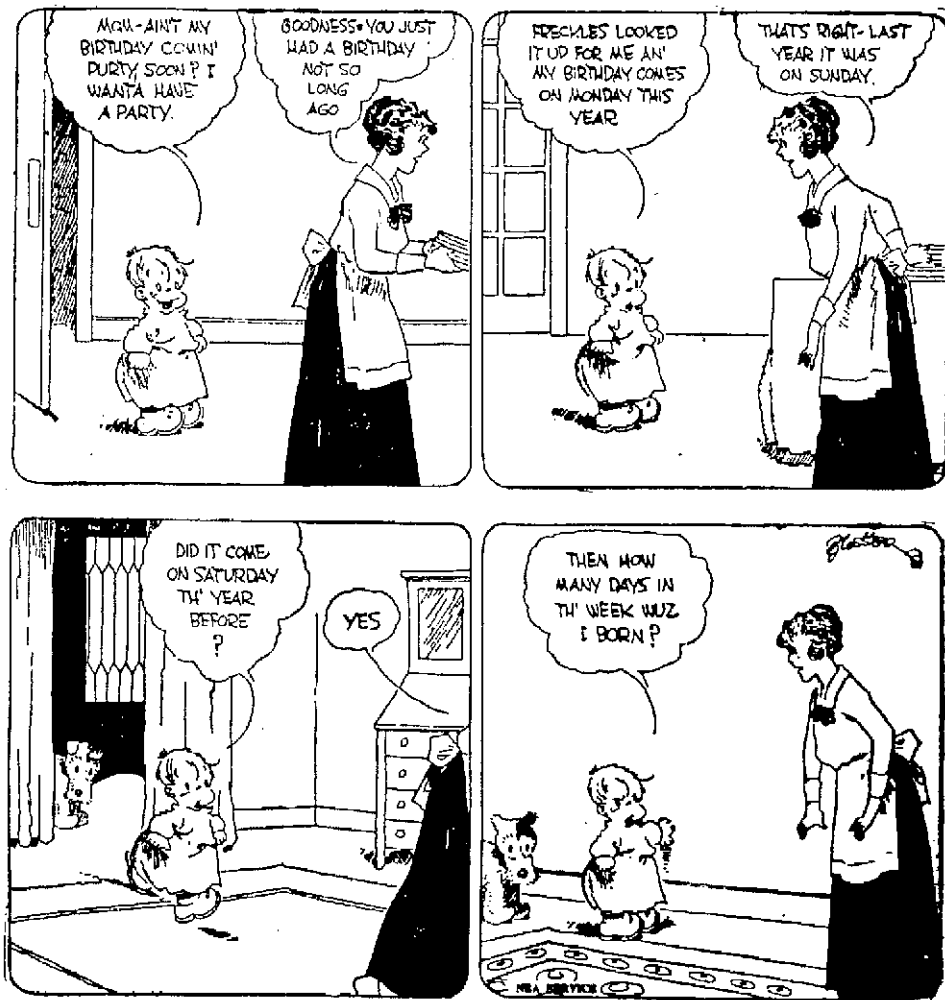

MISSISSIPPI DIVIDES

The Mississippi river hereafter will be the dividing line between the broadcasting stations having calls beginning with K and those with calls starting with W. K calls will be distributed west of the river and W east.

HOW LEO KUEHN LOOKED WHEN RADIO TAUGHT HIM TO TALK

Leo Kuehn, 28, deaf-mute, was the subject of the experiment.

Receivers were clamped on Kuehn's ears. The radio frequency was amplified 20 times.

A strange light came into Kuehn's face. He heard! Not only music but voices!

Then he spoke—the first words he had ever spoken. The words were: "Holy, holy, holy!"

And before the evening had passed Kuehn had mastered half a dozen words.

Physicians looked on amazed. "Kuehn never will regain his hearing," they said. "But radio will teach him to speak."

Kuehn has ordered a powerful radio set.

TWO PICTURES OF MANN SCHOOL BUILDING, SHOWING GAPING HOLES IN ROOF

Last night, for the second time within a period of two weeks, the city of Lowell suffered a disastrous fire loss when the two upper floors of the Mann school, now occupied by the Boys' Vocational school, were gutted by flames, the roof destroyed and other floors of the building and equipment seriously damaged by smoke and water. Two alarms were sounded for the fire, the first at 10:10 p. m., and it was three hours later, or at 1:07 a. m., that the recall sent apparatus back to quarters.

An estimate of the loss by school department officials familiar with the building and its contents is in the neighborhood of $40,000.

As far as can be learned, the fire had its origin in the attic of the main school building. One cause mentioned as possible was that lightning during the electrical storm struck wires and ran into the building, while an unconfirmed rumor was to the effect that a person was seen coming out of the front door of the building just before the fire was discovered.

Because of its heavy brick construction the fire was difficult to fight and a further handicap was the presence of dense clouds of heavy smoke that entirely blotted out the forms of firemen working in the rear of the building. The department fought to keep the fire confined to the attic and second floor and was successful, although in the process the entire building was water soaked.

At no time did the fire get into the wooden annex or the frame section of the school which fronts on Broadway.

but it necessitated only the hardest kind of work to restrict its spread.

On the first floor of the main building was located the automobile repair department and at the time there were eight or ten machines in there for repairs, but as the fire did not eat below the second floor, damage by water was the only toll exacted there. On the second floor is the wood working and cabinet making rooms, drawing room and stock room. The contents of the machine room of the wood working department and the stock room were practically destroyed.

Two firemen, James P. McCready of Hose 8, and Paul Healy of Engine 8, were cut by flying glass and were given medical attention at the fire.

The fire did not disrupt the sessions of the school this morning, for as it happened the carpentry and cabinet making classes are engaged in outside jobs and the rooms in which other classes meet were available for use as usual after a little mopping up.

The Middlesex Pomona

North Pomona grange that contained many new facts.

The organization was formed by 15 men and women on January 28, 1900, at a meeting held in the parlors of the old Merrimack house, this city.

Later the grange met in Union hall, and then for the remainder of the period up to the present time, has met regularly in Odd Fellows hall, Centralville.

Among the "historians" and original members present today as guests and speakers, were George W. Trull of Tewksbury and Fred L. Fletcher, charter members and always active in grange affairs in city, town and state. Their reviews of past experiences and grange happenings, covered reminiscences also of former members of the grange who passed on.

Prof. Joseph Dunham of Rowley, a prominent member of Essex county Pomona, was also speaker, and boomed the silver cup membership contest now raging and attracting much interest among grangers of the state. The grange winning the cup three years in succession becomes permanent possessor of the trophy.

Samuel Taylor, elderly member of the Pomona and always a regular visitor to the Lowell meetings, occupied the floor just before noon recess, speaking upon "Current Events." Norman L. Peavey, Mrs. Julia Fletcher and James McManman also spoke this morning on Pomona historical affairs.

Afternoon Session
This afternoon the program was most entertaining from the standpoint of members from each town district. Prof. Frank Waugh of the Massachusetts Agricultural college, Amherst, gave a lecture of import on modern forestry. Discussion was allowed after the talk.

The entertainment included duets by Mrs. Florence Sims and Mrs. Mary E. Bennett, one selection entitled "The Old Man's Dream." Little Miss Priscilla in best bib and tucker and smiling eyes, gave the "Silver Ball" dances in graceful fashion and responded to scores by giving two readings "The Masquerade" and "The Monkey Man." The Burlington grangers who provided the delightful dinner in the banquet hall this noon included Mrs. Edward D. Bennett, chairman; Mrs. Guy E. Reed, Mrs. Fred Richardson, Mrs. Mary E. Bennett, Mrs. Florence Sims, Mrs. Charles Gill and Mr. Charles Wright—the latter assisting in the day.

DID DEAD KING TUT POISON LORD CARNARVON? EGYPTIAN GIRL RECALLS ANCIENT LEGEND

MISS LEYLA BARAKAT

By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT
K.E.A. Service Staff Writer
NEW YORK, April 6.—Was the spirit of King Tutankhamen reincarnated in the spider that bit Lord Carnarvon and gave an almost fatal blood poisoning to the English explorer?
Absurd, say modern prosaic Americans.
Not at all, says beautiful Leyla Barakat, whose ancestors in centuries gone by were ruled over by this same Tutankhamen.
Such a happening would be perfectly consistent with the old Egyptian faith.
"The Egyptian Book of the Dead" devotes one whole chapter to giving the formula whereby souls of the dead may be converted into the forms of any animals they choose—the heron, the crocodile, the hawk. What would prevent Tutankhamen from turning himself into a spider if he chose?

"Certain it is that the ancient Egyptians promised all sorts of dire things to the despoilers of their tombs. A sentence of death was passed upon anyone who should be so foolhardy as to eat the food that was placed in the tomb for the use of the dead.
"That was because the soul of the dead was expected to revisit the tomb regularly and somehow subsist on the food that was placed there. At other times the soul was supposed to take the form of a bird or animal and go about over the country. Eventually it would come back and reanimate the body.

"That was why they mummified the bodies and preserved them so carefully.
"Now if Lord Carnarvon and his explorers by despoiling the tomb disturb Tutankhamen's rest and make it impossible that he shall ever reanimate his body, isn't it logical that the soul of Tutankhamen would be revengeful and that he would be moved to take such measures as lay in the spider's bite or to assume the form of the peculiar inoubt that brought sudden and mysterious illness to the Countess of Carnarvon on her way to her husband's bedside?
"At any rate, that is the way the old Egyptian faith would explain it."

But does the beautiful Leyla Barakat, who three years ago came from Cairo to the United States believe this?

Ah, no! Her ancestors long ago gave up the picturesque Egyptian faith for the more logical workings of Christianity.
Miss Barakat was educated in a

Christian college at Cairo, spent a number of years on the continent and is now living in the United States.

JUNGLE DEATH WATCH IN TOLEDO ZOO

TOLEDO, April 6.—A jungle death watch, overwhelming in its tenderness, yet awe-inspiring in its savage intensity, has terminated after four days in the lion house of the Walbridge park zoo here.

The watchers were Sahara, the beautiful lioness lent to Toledo by the Cleveland zoo, and King, the jungle giant, pride of the Toledo collection.

Between Sahara's two powerful fore-paws, caressed tenderly at intervals and guarded by two half-closed eyes, dimmed by grief, were two chubby, fuzzy cubs—both lifeless.
Sahara would not believe they were dead—or knowing it, could not calm the overwhelming urge of mother love that had aroused all the tenderness, and yet all of the savagery, of her jungle nature. Only an occasional whim escaped the lioness to indicate her grief.

For four days the death watch was maintained—after the great slork of the lion world flew over the animal house and left the lifeless bodies of a lion son and daughter.

Crouched, ready to spring at the first sign of danger, Sahara hardly moved a muscle during her long vigil. Now and then she smoothed the fur on their little bodies with her tongue, and again she caressed tenderly the still faces. Only twice did she leave them—when Keeper Louis Scherer, anxious to put an end to the heart-rending watch, entered the lion house to see if there was an opportunity to remove the two bodies.

On both occasions Sahara, in a terrible rage, sprang fiercely against the great iron bars of her cage in an effort to drive off the intruder.

King, in a frenzy such as Scherer

never had seen him display since he took him as a cub to rear, tried to get at his keeper, frothing at the mouth and sending forth the terrorizing roar of the enraged jungle master.

"It was the old call to protect the young," Scherer said. "There was no use in trying to take the lifeless cubs away from Sahara."

So the big lion house was locked to all but the keepers. Sahara was permitted to keep her death watch undisturbed until that mysterious healer of animal heartaches stole quietly into this mother's grief-stricken consciousness with that instinctive knowledge of the hopelessness of the struggle, when she permitted the bodies to be removed by the keeper.

SCHOOL BOARD FAVORS NEW BUILDING TO REPLACE EDSON SCHOOL

Votes to Request Municipal Council to Petition Legislature for Permission to Borrow $700,000 Outside City's Debt Limit—Committeeman Delaney and Supt. Molloy Clash Over Statement Prepared and Read by the Superintendent

The members of the school board at a special meeting last night, voted to request the municipal council to petition the legislature for permission to borrow $700,000 outside the city's debt limit for the erection of a new school building to replace the Edson school which has been condemned by the superintendent of public buildings. The board also voted on record as being opposed to the plan proposed by Thomas B. Delaney, which called for the purchase of the C. I. Hood building in Thorndike street, for vocational school purposes and the centralizing of the junior high schools into the high school annex in Paige street.

Present at the meeting were Committee on Finance, consisting of the members of the finance committee of the city council as well as Representatives Henry A. Owen, E. Brennan and Charles H. Stowey. Representative Thomas B. Delaney was present in the early part of the evening, but he did not remain.

In the course of the meeting Mr. Delaney and Supt. Molloy engaged in a verbal clash over part of a statement submitted by Mr. Molloy relating to the proposed purchase of the Hood building, in which it was stated that the only good derived from such a proposition would be the disposition of the building. Mr. Delaney objected to the statement on the ground that it reflected upon his character and demanded an apology and also that that part of the statement be stricken out. Mr. Delaney took occasion to inform the superintendent that it would be better for him to look after the welfare of the schools rather than sit down and prepare a lengthy statement that was unneeded for.

Supt. Molloy's Statement

The meeting was opened at a clock by Mayor Donovan, who stated the purpose of the gathering. Shortly afterward Supt. Molloy read a lengthy prepared statement bearing upon the so-called Hood building proposition and the proposed new South End school. The statement was as follows:

Lowell, Mass., April 5, 1923.

To the Members of the School Committee:

The proposition advanced at the meeting of the school committee on March 27, to buy the Hood property in Thorndike street, to move to it the vocational school and the continuation school which are now housed in the high school annex in Paige street and to gather together in the high school annex the seventh, eighth and ninth grades of the schools of the city for a central junior high school organization is a most remarkable proposition. In the first place it is somewhat remarkable that so sweeping a change should be proposed without any inquiry as to the opinion of the superintendent of schools on so vital a matter of education. It is also remarkable for the reason that so far as the junior high school organization is concerned it is neither well-advised nor practicable.

In dealing with a large question of school administration in a city like Lowell it will be admitted, I think, that the opinion of the superintendent of schools is entitled to much consideration, particularly when the opinion is backed by facts and reason.

We are concerned at the present time with the proposal to provide new and adequate school accommodations in the Edson school district, accommodations which have been sorely needed for a long time.

We are also concerned in the development which has been going on for nearly three years and which has made excellent and promising progress. This plan of junior high school organization has been developed very slowly and conservatively and practically everything which has been done in connection with it has had up to this time unanimous support and approval from successive school committees.

I do not intend at this time and in this place to discuss at length the reorganization of our schools on the so-called 2-3-5 or junior high school plan with the elimination, in time, of the ninth grade; a report was submitted on these matters in December, 1919, which, in its principal features, is a good report today and by which I stand without evasion or subterfuge. It must be remembered that no two cities furnish identical problems, and it must be remembered also that certain large changes in a school system take us into what is more or less unexplored territory. The point I wish to make is that while experience and working-out conditions have led to some minor variations in the development of the junior high school organization we have attempted to follow in a large way all the important things which were set forth in the report of 1919. We have sought to profit by the experience gained in other cities and we have deviated from established lines of procedure only in minor details and to meet local conditions.

This plan of junior high school organization has been developed very slowly and conservatively and practically everything which has been done in connection with it has had up to this time unanimous support and approval from successive school committees.

We have sought to profit by the experience gained in other cities and we have deviated from established lines of procedure only in minor details and to meet local conditions.

The Bartlett school is nearing the end of its third year of junior high school organization; the Morey school is nearing the end of its second year. The additions, by the way, which were made in recent years to these two schools were not made as a part of a junior high school plan but had been projected or planned before any consideration of junior high school organization was entered upon. Remarkable good progress has been made in these two school organizations, no matter with what schools they may be compared. With very few additional facilities and with very slight additional school accommodations these two schools will be fine and complete organizations in every respect. With respect to these schools, so far as junior high school organization is concerned, we are in the position of the man who has entered upon the remodeling of his house and has advanced more than half way toward the completion of the work; it is too late to think of making a change except for very perceptive and convincing reasons.

1.—With respect to the Hood property in Thorndike street, I have been reliably informed that the price of the property is $250,000. I hardly think, if I were to be held responsible by the people of Lowell for the decision, that I should recommend the taking of this property at any price for school purposes. But, so far as the Vocational and Continuation schools are concerned, we should have a very expensive proposition, starting with an outlay of $250,000. The Continuation school and the girls' Vocational school are located most conveniently and satisfactorily at the present time where they are. An adequate building could be erected for the best Vocational school for a much less sum than $250,000.

2.—Insofar as the proposition has to do with a central junior high school organization, let me first mention the fact that the seventh, eighth and ninth grade pupils of our schools are about 2500 in number and constitute a much larger group than the present central high school; the annex in Paige street would not properly serve the needs of one-half the number.

3.—We have sought so far in Lowell in the organizing of junior high school centres in so-called what has been one of the worst features of any centrally located high school, the one session day. We have been able in junior centres which have been established so far to maintain a long two-session school day for nearly all the pupils.

4.—Every argument which could be brought to bear by the objectors to the different junior high organizations we have so far carried upon would apply with telling force to this central junior plan, even if we had the place in which to try it out.

5.—Another very important consid-

What a Well-known Man Says About It

Rome, N. Y.—"I am glad indeed to relate the wonderful experience I have had with Doctor Pierce's Ankle (kidney and backache) Tablets. Some time ago I began to suffer with rheumatism. It first started in my shoulders and shifted down my arms into my hands, and they swelled and became so stiff that I could scarcely grip or lift anything. The pains also went down into my hips and lower limbs and the joints became stiff so that I could not get around to do my work. I was so bad that I was contemplating the selling out of my business, thinking I was not going to get better, when I saw the Ankle Tablets advertised and decided to give them a trial. The swelling soon left my hands and I could use them as before; the stiffness left my joints, also the pain, and I was again attending to my work as I did before I had the attack. I consider 'Ankle' a most excellent medicine for rheumatic conditions."—John E. Drake, 307 E. James street.

eration in this discussion is the future of the high school. Erected and opened in September, 1922, years after the need of increased high school room had been admitted by everybody, the school will soon be filled to capacity if it is to continue to house the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes in their entirety. We shall need in the near future more room in some place or places for high school pupils. Now, what bearing has the junior high school organization upon this situation? I think that question can be answered directly and convincingly. When the ninth grade class leaves the Bartlett school in June of this year a large number of the class will go to the high school with sophomore standing and a year later the ninth grade of the Morey school will go under similar conditions. It will take more than three years to bring about such changes in the Bartlett and Morey schools as will justify us in saying that their graduates as a whole may enter the high school with sophomore standing. But I am able to say that at the end of the third year of junior organization in these two schools a large number of their graduates will have had the work of the freshman year in the high school and that at the end of four or five years their graduating classes will be qualified on the whole for entrance into the sophomore class to the same extent that the freshman class in the high school is now fitted to enter the sophomore class. The logical conclusion to this reasoning is that the development of the junior organization will reduce the number of freshmen for whom accommodations must be found in the high school and will increase to that extent the capacity of the high school. It will be easier and better and, I believe, less expensive to furnish some increased accommodations in junior centres so that we may be able to retain prospective high school pupils a year longer in the junior centres than to be called upon in the near future for increased high school accommodations.

6.—It must be remembered that the elimination of the ninth grade as an elementary school grade was part of the proposed high school plan and that the gradual raising of the entrance age in primary schools to approximately 6 years was another part of the proposed plan. Now, we are well on the road in the Morey and Bartlett schools to the elimination of the ninth grade by means of the gradual changes which are going on in the grades. For, of course, no one believes that an entire upper grade can be dropped by an entire class with profit to the children; nor has it been supposed that children may still enter the primary classes at 5 years of age and get the same preparation in eight years which they have been receiving in nine years; practically every system which has gone on an eight-year basis has raised the entering age for primary schools to approximately 6 years. It is only fair to those who stand behind and vouch for this plan of school organization to accept the plan with all its important features.

7.—The question has been raised in some quarters as to the bearing which

THREE NEW MEMBERS ELECTED TO EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE AT VESPER CLUB MEETING

At the annual meeting of the Vesper Country Club held at the Island last night, H. Hutchins Parker, Judge John C. Leggett and Albert D. Milliken were elected members of the executive committee for three-year terms.

All in all it was one of the most successful and enthusiastic annual meetings ever held by the club, with fully 360 members present to enjoy the dinner, business meeting and entertainment.

The annual dinner always is significant because of the fact that it marks the opening of the spring and summer season after a long, cold, dreary winter and the meeting certainly forecasted a year of splendid activity and progress, included in the annual report of Secretary Andrew G. Swapp was an expression of sincere regret that the year had brought the death of Alex. Bliss, golf professional at the club and also he paid tribute to the memory of members who had died since the meeting of a year ago.

The business session was presided over by Pres. Harry R. Pollard and in addition to the report of the secretary, the annual report of Treasurer Arthur J. Markland was indeed gratifying. It showed the membership of the club at 954 and a net profit for the year 1922 of $2092.53. Earnings were $41,351.71 and expenses, $42,159.12. The new club locker building is completed at a cost of $41,423.58 and will become a most welcome and useful addition to the club property.

Most favorable comment was heard on every side relative to the state amateur golf tournament to be played over the Vesper course on June 27-30.

this plan has upon the graduates of private schools in the city who wish to enter the high school or upon graduates of elementary schools of other towns or cities who wish to enter the high school. This is the answer: It will be necessary for many years, if not always, to maintain a freshman class in the high school and, in my opinion, it will always be a class of reasonable size so that ample provision can be made in the high school work of the pupils who have still to do the work of the freshman year.

It would seem to me that in the discussion of a new building for the Edison district we must first decide the purpose for which the school is to be built and the number and character of the classes which it is to accommodate. Before that can be done it will be necessary to decide just how far and how wisely to take the work of the South End district. We should consider the discontinuance of some or all of the smaller school buildings in that district. The Elliot, Charles street, Colburn primary, Colburn grammar, Ames street, Central street, Lyon street, and Edison schools have at the present time 44 school rooms. It will be necessary to keep some of these buildings or build a much larger central school than the one proposed at present. I am not ready at the present time to advise the city of Lowell to expand one-half a million dollars on this project. I have recommended from the beginning that a careful and thoughtful study of this situation should be made and I believe now that hasty action may be very unwise action.

In facing this problem which is now before us, I believe that a very distinct and comprehensive plan should be set forth openly and plainly and that freest and fullest opportunity should be proposed, that all the facts and arguments which support it should be given for the discussion of the plan in all its details. I am certain that there are many persons who are interested in this very important matter who should be given every opportunity to be heard.

I have prepared this statement somewhat hastily in order to be ready for this meeting. I am satisfied, however, that my statements and reasoning will stand the test of the coming years in local school affairs. The superintendent cannot evade the responsibility he owes to the schools and the people who maintain them, and he feels bound to submit in writing his best professional opinion on any important matter so that there may be no uncertainty as to his position and views.

Respectfully submitted,
HUGH J. HOLLOVY,
Superintendent of Schools.

After the reading of the statement Mr. Delaney called attention to the price of the Hood building as mentioned in the statement and said the building can be seized by the city by right of eminent domain at a cost of not more than $140,000. "That is a fair way from $250,000 as mentioned in the superintendent's report," he said. Continuing Mr. Delaney asked: "That the superintendent retract a part of his statement relative to the Hood building in which it was stated that the only interest was in the disposition of the building, it will not allow any one to question my motives," he said, "and I demand that that part of the statement be stricken out."

Mr. Molloy attempted to reply to Mr. Delaney's remarks, but the latter objected, saying he had the floor. Mr. Delaney further stated that the superintendent could have utilized the time better by looking after the welfare of the schools instead of sitting down and preparing a lengthy statement, which was not called for by any member of the board.

For the benefit of Mr. Bruin, Mr. Molloy again read that part of the statement objected to by Mr. Delaney and Mr. Delaney, after jumping to his feet again, declared that the statement questioned his motive. "I will say right here that I am not interested in the sale of the Hood building," he said, "and for the benefit of the board I will say that a few days ago I received a letter from the agents of the building in which it was stated that the building could not be purchased for less than $250,000, but the city may seize it for $140,000."

Relative to the junior high school, Mr. Delaney said he is not an authority on the matter and he further stated that before the system was instituted in this city, Mr. Molloy was not in a position to state whether or not it was a good proposition. "In Boston," he said, "the junior high school takes a radius of four miles and there is no complaint. Here in Lowell, the parochial school children walk from one end of the city to the other and there is no complaint."

Mr. Delaney then stated that the superintendent has the assistance of an office force, has the leisure of the day and is well educated and is strong on written statements, but with all his facilities and ability, he has never looked into the South End school proposition.

Mr. Bruin said it was only a case where the superintendent and Mr. Delaney differed in opinion and he flatly stated that he is opposed to the purchase or seizure of the Hood building. At this point Mr. Delaney moved that the statement of the superintendent be placed on file.

Mr. Riley said he would not approve a change in the junior high school at this time because it was the desire of the parents to have their children attend school near their home, and he further stated that in his opinion the high school annex if used as a junior high school, would soon be overcrowded.

Mr. Slaughter in Favor

Dr. Slaughter thought the purchase of the Hood building would be a good buy for the city. She said it would be an ideal place for vocational work. She made reference to a number of the grammar schools that are overcrowded and said the boys could fit up the Hood building and the Mann school could be equipped for a primary school.

At this point Mr. Bruin offered an amendment to Mr. Delaney's motion, to wit: That the superintendent's report be placed on file as the board deems it inadvisable to purchase the Hood property.

Before action was taken on the amendment Mr. Delaney asked Business Agent Williams the cost per room for the erection of a vocational school and the reply was $20,000. Mr. Delaney then entered into a discussion of the cost of equipping such a building, but he was interrupted by the mayor, who stated that enough had been said on the Hood property. "The purpose of this meeting," said the mayor, "is to discuss the South End proposition."

"But you have entertained my motion and Mr. Bruin's amendment," said Mr. Delaney. "We all know what you are talking about," said the mayor, "and we are all ready to vote on the matter. We don't want to stay here all night."

Mr. Delaney—"You may kill the proposition, but kill it honestly." At this point a discussion arose as to the real purpose of the meeting and the superintendent was requested to read a copy of the notice served on the members.

Mr. Bruin favored taking action on the Hood proposition right away. Mr. Mullin said the Hood proposition had no bearing whatever on the South End matter. Dr. Slaughter said according to the rules of the board no action should be taken up. The legality of the amendment offered by Mr. Bruin was then questioned and the mayor ruled it in order. Mr. Delaney protesting. A vote was then taken relative to the mayor's ruling, with the following result: Mr. Bruin, Mr. Riley, Mrs. Pearson, Mr. Riley and the mayor voting in the negative, while Mr. Delaney and Dr. Slaughter voted in the affirmative. Mr. Mullin was recorded as not voting.

The amendment was then voted upon and carried, the vote being similar to that on the last measure. Mr. Delaney then moved that a copy of the vote be sent to the city solicitor for an opinion as to its legality and this motion was defeated. Mr. Bruin, Mrs. Pearson, Mr. Riley and the mayor voting in the negative, while Mr. Delaney and Dr. Slaughter voted in the affirmative. Mr. Mullin was recorded as not voting.

South End School

The Hood matter was then dropped and the members of the board took up the proposed South End school. Dr. Slaughter, chairman of the special committee appointed to look into the matter, submitted a report of the committee with a recommendation that a 35-room school be erected in the district at a cost not to exceed $700,000. Councilor Gallagher, chairman of the committee on finance, submitted a report of the city's an-nuous and said the erection of a $700,000 school building was out of the question unless the city received permission from the legislature to borrow outside the debt limit.

Mr. Delaney said something must be done and right away in the South End district, and he recommended the adoption of the committee's recommendation.

Rep. Achin stated that the legislature has treated Lowell very generously during the past few years in authorizing the city to borrow $200,000 for the high school and $1,000,000 for the Auditorium, outside the debt limit. "The legislature is planning to adjourn May 15," he continued, "and all matters must be reported not later than next Wednesday." Rep. Slowey said the legislative committee would not consider any new matter at this time unless it was of an extreme emergency. Rep. Brennan expressed himself in a similar way.

Councilor Stearns of the finance committee stated that in his opinion, the school should be put in shape. Councilor Cosgrove took occasion to compliment the board for the rapidity with which business is transacted at meetings and said Lowell should be proud to have such a capable board.

He argued in favor of a new school for the South End, saying that the only municipal building south of Middlesex street is the poor farm. Councilor Hennessey said he did not favor repairing the Edison school, but was in favor of a new building. After more discussion it was finally voted to request the city council to petition the legislature for permission to borrow $700,000 beyond the debt limit for school purposes. Adjournment was taken at 9:35 o'clock.

Mr. Bruin favored taking action on the Hood proposition right away. Mr. Mullin said the Hood proposition had no bearing whatever on the South End matter. This Woman's Guess Pays
Her $10,000 a Week

ANNE NICHOLS

By N.P.A. Service
NEW YORK, April 4.—How does it seem to be one of "the onlys in the world?" Here's a story about a young woman who is so many "onlys" it takes your breath away.
Anne Nichols, not yet 30, is the only woman in the world—
Who has an income of approximately $10,000 a week from her own individual work—
Who is theatrical producer, director and playwright—
Who staked her last cent that critics were wrong when they said her show was terrible—
Who now sees her show approaching a year's run on Broadway—
Who has six other companies touring America and another preparing in London—
Who has made a fortune answering the riddle: "What does the public want?"—
Who is far too good looking, according to tradition, for a clever woman. And besides all this she is the devoted mother of a four-year-old boy. All of which is a pretty remarkable record of "who's who."
Now as to the Why and How.
Anne Nichols says:
"The first thing a woman must learn

is to have the courage of her convictions.
"Accept advice but don't use it if it's contrary to your inherent belief in yourself. Never fear for yourself—let the other fellow be afraid. Advice is the cheapest thing in the world and many a great success has been wrecked on the rocks of failure through the indecision that comes from too much advice.
"Remember there is no sex in brains or business.
"Don't be afraid of criticism. I started out to be a leading lady but had to begin in the chorus. When the girls poked fun at me for taking my future seriously I used to meditate: 'Poor things, they'll still be here when I've gone on.'
"When you've got something you feel the public wants, whether it's a drama or a lachrymated food, don't give up till you've taken it to the public to judge.
"A play that makes people laugh is a successful play. A diaphragm laugh is good for the digestion and we all know the human stomach plays an important part in the destinies of nations as well as individuals.
"Motherhood and a career? Of course they go together. A mother can do more for her son than just keeping his face clean. My son shall have every chance to be the thing he wants but I can give him better opportunities toward attaining the best, than I could when I was poor."

Sore Throat

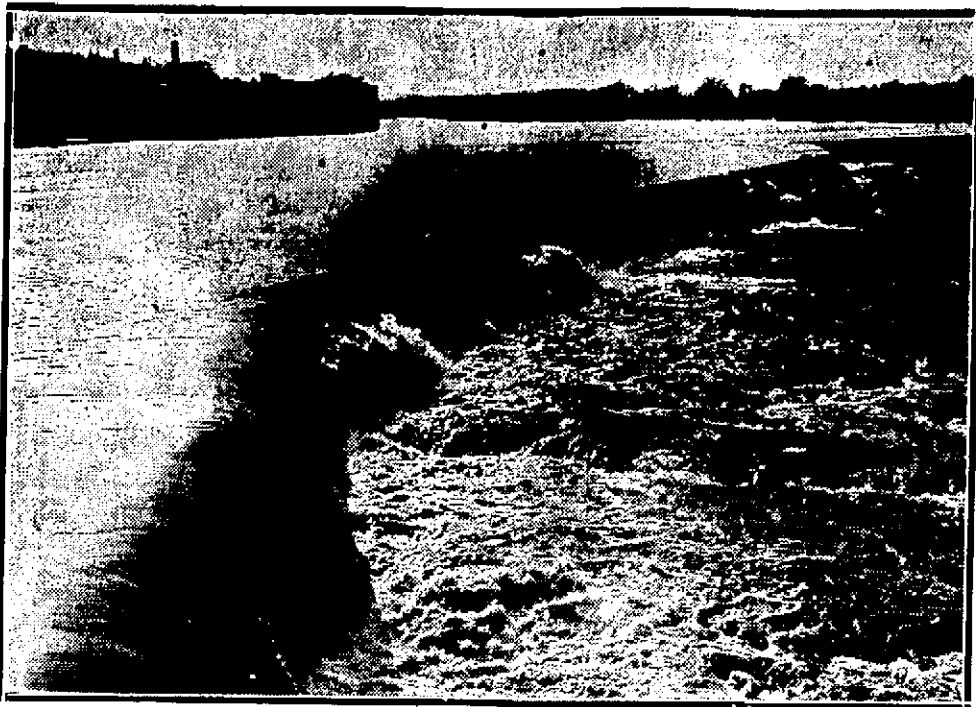

NEARLY all forms of sore throat are due to germ infection. Prompt relief therefore cannot be obtained without the use of a powerful germicide.

Although more powerful in the presence of saliva than pure Carbolic Acid, Zonite can be freely used as a gargle or throat spray at sufficient strength to destroy all disease germs with which it comes in contact.

The promptness with which Zonite relieves most throat affections has been a complete revelation to tens of thousands of users of this new form of antiseptic.

Although non-poisonous and harmless to the delicate membranes of the throat, Zonite is 60 times as powerful as Peroxide of Hydrogen, 725 times as powerful as Dobell's Solution and more than 100 times as efficient as the so-called "mild" antiseptics and gargles heretofore in general use.

PAWTUCKET FALLS IN SPRINGTIME

foot depth over the cap of the dam. At 11 o'clock this morning, Locks and Canals engineers, keeping close tabs on the high-water records, reported a full foot higher water than yesterday's rise of twelve inches.

The mass of ice that came down this morning from many miles above Lowell, first appeared to be solidly massed. The water at Pawtucket dam were so deep at one time that the flow over the dam appeared to be nearly level, but the masses of ice caused this false appearance.

At 8 a. m. a great many of the largest fields of upper river ice floes had tumbled over the dam down the river on their way to the ocean.

None of the new flash-boards, three feet in width all along the dam, were swept away, as had been feared when the ice went out. The picture of the rushing stream this morning as it came down to Pawtucket dam and swept over in a fancy curve that appeared to be as smooth as silk and without a noticeable break at any time except when ice floes stirred up the stream and created tons of white water froth, was a delight to young and old, thousands watching the "ice run" and keeping tabs on debris coming down the river.

Dozens of newly-cut spruce logs appeared shortly before 7 o'clock in the ice barrage and were carried quickly over the dam and down the river. The street bridge in the vicinity of the Moody street bridge was filled with turbulent waters, top-flecked into heavy foam by the rock-filled channel.

Some of the logs from the upper Merrimack reaches had been torn away from mooring places in coves and shallows near New Hampshire wood-lots, and some up-country lumberman today mourning the loss of many thousand feet of new lumber as a result of the river's antics.

The 12 big "sentinel" rocks of the glacial period, that are always objects of peculiar interest to curious spectators in the big basin between Pawtucket bridge and the long dam, were completely inundated by the high waters this morning, with one exception—"Old Jackson."

Just where this tallest, reddish-colored "mountain" that appears to contain iron pyrites in streaks on top and sides and is shaped somewhat like our good friend Mt. Vesuvius or Aetna, got its famous title, "Old Jackson," is not known, but that's what King Courtney of the gate-keeper's fort at Pawtucket dam calls it, and every small boy on Varnum avenue and Mammoth road knows the old "sentinel" rock in the dam basin by that name as well.

The top of "Old Jackson" is on a level with the top of the Pawtucket dam. When the water rises that far, you know what happens. Just before 8 o'clock this morning, a big river flat-bottom scow, nearly new and labelled "Parnassus" or "Parnassus," as it looked from the bridge to a Lowell policeman, came riding gaily down stream on top of a thousand ice floes, somersaulted another flock of river ice just above the flash-boards of the dam and overturned on the water curve as it went down into the whirlpools below. Some up-river fishermen is wondering where it is today beyond a doubt.

Information seekers, always given cordial treatment at the Locks and Canals office on Broadway when they have any real business, were informed at noon today that the two-foot rise in the river water since yesterday morning and including the foot recorded yesterday doesn't mean "high water" in the usual sense of those common words.

Here are the figures for this morning: 31,200 second-feet of water at the big dam—meaning the pouring over the Pawtucket obstruction-way of just 31,200 cubic feet of water per second, every second and so forth. The Root mill registration point also records a similar increase for the day.

Today's record shows an increase in the engineers' official readings of just 12,400 second-feet.

While heavy rains throughout the northern part of New Hampshire have swollen the Merrimack river and its tributaries to flood proportions, the first up-river damage of the spring freshet was reported in the Locks and Canals office this morning. One of the underpinnings of the first Hookset, N. H., bridge of the Boston & Maine railroad gave way under the battering of ice cakes.

Workmen were posted at this bridge and other wooden structures of the railroad in that vicinity as a precautionary measure.

No trains were sent across the bridge last night, traffic on the Manchester-Suncook Valley branch being diverted through Concord, N. H.

This same bridge has always been a source of trouble during the high water period of the river. Locks and Canals engineers told The Sun today, supporters of the structure have frequently given way under the pressure of water and broken ice.

On the Claremont branch of the Boston & Maine, workmen last night and today were guarding the region near today's, so called, where it was feared that water might undermine the tracks.

Engineers told The Sun this morning that they expect the Merrimack to reach its highest "rise" this morning. Advice to Sun readers—get your seats on the Varnum avenue parkway early!

INFLAMMATORY REPORTS SPREAD BY DRUM TALK

LONDON, April 6.—"Broadcasting" a systematic communication without wires which preceded radio transmission by many years on the dark continent, is held largely responsible for the ever-increasing agitation among the negroes in Africa. Broadcasting, or long distance transmission is accomplished by means of drums, the messages being relayed over tremendous distances with great rapidity.

By "drum talk" news of the approaching visit of American notables to Marshal Lyautey in Morocco, was learned on the upper Volta about three hours after it was published in Paris. News of the death of great chiefs and warnings of approaching danger are sent in this way, and also the native propaganda which is said to be promoting unrest in eastern, western and southern Africa.

Agitation in a form resembling bolshevism has appeared in East Africa and sentiment favorable to the nationalist movement started by Marcus Garvey is rampant in Liberia, while the troubles in French West Africa recently required military suppression. Much of this agitation is said to be due to inflammatory reports spread among the tribes by drum talk.

MOURN DEATH OF CARNARVON

London Papers Emphasize Loss Egyptology Has Suffered in Untimely Death

Deprecate Foolish Suggestion That Malign Occult Influences Contributed to Death

LONDON, April 6. (By the Associated Press).—The untimely death of the Earl of Carnarvon before he could reap the full harvest of his Egyptian discoveries appeals deeply to popular sympathy here and many appreciative editorial and obituary notices appear in the press today.

These articles emphasize among other things the loss which Egyptology has suffered in the death of the man who brought to it energy, enterprise and wealth.

The newspapers deprecate what all sober commentators regard as the foolish suggestion that malign occult influences contributed to the earl's death. All the despatches from Cairo agree essentially as to his illness and its cause. No statement by physicians has been received and inasmuch as there seems to be nothing unusual to report, none is expected.

The late earl's friends here believe that his health suffered from his activities connected with the work at King Tutankhamun's tomb. To this were added the excitement and worry following the great discovery with the result that he became weakened physically and was therefore less able to resist the attack of illness that proved fatal.

Carnarvon is credited with having said recently that he was "worried to death" by the countless telegrams, letters and requests of all kinds from archaeologists and learned societies.

The disposition of the late earl's rare collection of antiquities at his country seat has already become a question of public interest. Recognized as one of the most important private collections in the world, the Carnarvon treasures include many rarities of all periods several of which were purchased at very high prices. The gem of the collection is said to be a portrait statuette of Thothmes III, which was found in Egypt during the war by native excavators. Carnarvon paid some thousand pounds for the little treasure. It is about seven inches in height and is made of solid gold. It dates back to approximately 1550 B.C.

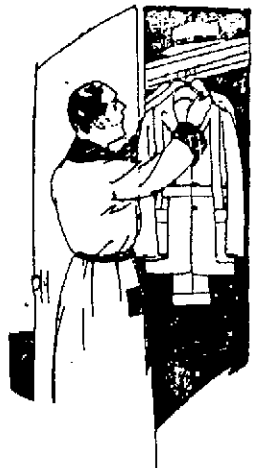

Whether the earl disposed of his collection in his will is unknown, but the hope is expressed that he may have bequeathed it to the nation. The possibility of it being sold, is also suggested.

The public knows little of Lord Forchester, the new Earl of Carnarvon, beyond the fact that he is an officer in a cavalry regiment and that he is reputed to be a skillful horseman. With his succession to the title another American peer comes into British society, but it is not known whether his husband will return to his duties in India or will retire to enjoy his new rank.

GEORGE Y. MORRISON, Machinist

"I worked in the paint shop for a while and the turpentine fumes knocked my kidneys out. I had severe pains in my back and to stoop over felt as though someone were pulling my back to pieces. I had to pass the kidney secretions quite frequently and they were very colored and scalding. Everything went around in circles at times. A friend recommended Doan's Kidney Pills and half a dozen boxes cured me completely. My cure has lasted."

MRS. JOHN FEAVELL

"The first symptom of kidney trouble in my case was lame back. When I tried to wash, awful pains shot through the small of my back and after a day's wash I could hardly straighten. I suffered severely from pains in the back of my head and I always felt tired and played out. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and a couple of boxes from Liggett's drug store removed the pain from my back. I felt years younger."

JOHN M. GLEASON, Machinist

"Colds settling on my kidneys affected them and caused attacks of kidney complaint. My back was so lame I couldn't stoop to take off my shoes. My kidneys acted too frequently and the secretions burned in passage. Doan's Kidney Pills bought at Town's Drug Store relieved me of the attack and put my kidneys in good condition."

DEMOCRATIC VICTORIES

William E. Dever, a Massachusetts man, has won a great victory in being elected mayor of Chicago by a majority of over 100,000. Mayor Thompson had withdrawn from the fight and a republican candidate was named against Dever, a democrat.

This democratic victory following similar republican slumps in Maine, New Hampshire and other states is not indicative of sustained support of the Harding administration or the policies of the republican party now in control of the government.

It can hardly be doubted that the bungling of the coal strike, the railroad strike and the convulsions of the profiteering in sugar have caused a widespread revulsion of feeling against the republican party with the result that its backing from which it derived such a sweeping majority in 1920 is fast slipping away. It is not surprising that this should be so as President Harding has changed from the policies that brought him his great majority. He was sternly opposed to the League of Nations, but he has decided to have the United States enter by the back door by joining the International Court of Justice, which is a branch of the league. It is this step that has encouraged Lord Robert Cecil, the collaborator with President Wilson in framing the constitution of the league, to come here to conduct a campaign in favor of our joining.

There is no indication, however, that the country has undergone a change of mind in reference to joining the League of Nations and this fact is made quite apparent by the results of the bye elections within the past year.

The republicans are fully if not fearfully cognizant of the political changes that are gradually adding strength to the opposition all over the country; and they are trying to check them as best they can. It is for this reason that President Harding has planned a speaking tour of the country, and it is to defend the administration also that Secretary Davis of the Department of Labor is lecturing through the states and it will be noticed that while protesting against child labor and appealing for a living wage and for selective immigration, both good in their way, he incidentally works in a defense of the administration against blame for the evils of the coal strike, the railroad strike and the profiteering in sugar. Yet when all these questions are sifted down it will be found that if we had had for president a man of the stamp of Roosevelt or of Woodrow Wilson, the two strikes would have been promptly settled if not prevented altogether, and the country would thus have been saved incalculable loss and suffering. The only redeeming factor in the case for the republicans is the improvement in business which will continue until the domestic market is overstocked, as it will be after a time because of the great slump in our foreign trade. Many countries are adopting retaliatory tariffs which will still further reduce whatever foreign trade is left; and all this is due to the high tariff and the destruction of our merchant marine. Is it strange that the republican machine should find its progress blocked and the control of congress snatched away by the radicals of the La Follette stripe? If the present political trend throughout the country continues, President Harding may get the republican nomination, but he will find it difficult to secure election.

COAL CLUBS FAVORED

Retail coal dealers in New York and Boston have sent out an appeal to their customers to pay in their coal for next winter before September as the prices of anthracite are to be increased about that time. Prices usually increase about that time, but in this case it would appear that the dealers speak with authority. Is there any power behind the scenes that can regulate the price of this public necessity? If so it is high time the people should be made aware of the fact. The price of anthracite in New York is $13.50 a ton and in Boston $15 while in Lowell the price is $16.50. An inquiry was made as to the cause of these differences, it would be held to the difference in the freight rates. That may or may not be true. There are a great many people who on account of the hard winter will be unable to lay in a supply of coal for next winter. State Fuel Commissioner Phelan advises those who have not the money with which to purchase coal, to adopt the plan of forming coal clubs much after the style of Christmas clubs. In such clubs the members pay 30 cents a week for each ton of coal wanted and this, continued for a year, will pay for a ton of coal. During the first year the club is in operation, the member would have to finance his coal needs for two years. That is, he will have to pay a whole year before he accumulates enough to pay for his coal supply for that year. Weekly payments, beginning May 1 next, would enable a member to buy his coal on May 1, 1924, for the ensuing season; but meantime he will have to procure his supply for the winter of 1923-24.

That is the objection that most people will have against the club system. But it is very evident, as shown by the experience of the past winter, that it is the safer course to lay in the coal supply in summer for the following winter, if this be at all feasible. That alone will afford protection against coal strikes and the manipulations of the coal barons.

THE SUGAR TARIFF BUNCO

The republican national committee and the "hard-bodily" republican press are busy denying that the tariff has anything to do with the increased price of sugar, and many other commodities which have steadily advanced in price since the passage of the Fordney-McCumber protective tariff act.

What then becomes of the promise made to the sugar-growers, to the wool-growers and to the producers and manufacturers of other commodities to increase the price of their products by giving them a higher rate of duty? What becomes of the sacred shield of protection?

Someone is being bamboozled. Is it the beet-grower, or cane-grower or wool-grower or manufacturer, or is it that permanent victim of the republican tariff policy—the consumer?

Upon President Harding's return to Washington the country will look anxiously for the appointment of federal judges to the remainder of the 24 federal judgeships recently created so as to avoid any possibility of a lack of jurists to try the war profiteers and the coal producers and the sugar producers, and other classified and unclassified profiteers, large and small, that Attorney General Daugherty is going to send to prison. But his lack is worse than his bite.

SEEN AND HEARD

Ford has a plan to burn coal twice. We want one not to burn it at all.

The difference between a dance and a hogleggers' convention isn't as much as it should be.

A perfect lady never chews tobacco in public or shoots any man unless he is her husband.

A Thought

It is far more difficult to be simple than to be complicated; far more difficult to sacrifice skill and cease exertion in the proper place, than to expend both indiscriminately.—Bucklin.

West Prepared

The train, as usual, crawled along— you know the road—and then stopped dead. "Conductor," shouted a jovial passenger, "may I get out and pick some flowers?" "Afraid you won't find many about here," said the conductor, good-humoredly. "O, there'll be heaps of them," commented the jovial one. "I've brought a packet of seeds!"

Very Appetizing

Cutting through the alley, the late worker observed that he could just about reach the door of the cafe before they closed. And as he passed he noticed a waiter coming to the alley door with a platter of remnant toast. He made the front door. They were not over glad to see him, but took his order. He asked for a club sandwich. The waiter plodded to the bar, and pretty soon the customer heard the cook growling, "Say, where did you throw that toast?"

Capital Jokes

U. S. Representative Peter F. Tague tells this story: There is nothing like being perfectly sure of yourself and content with your environment. I've always liked the story of the lady from a certain Down East metropolis who, while motoring, saw a sign reading: "I. M. from Boston. I'm from Boston," she read it aloud, "I'm from Boston. How simple! How sufficient!"

No Such Place

A colored man got on a trolley car, and then after a word or two with another passenger, he started to get off again. "Hold on," said the conductor. "You haven't got your fare, either." "Ah, wants to go to Suva?" asked the colored man, "an' dis gentleman says dah's no such place." "Well, there ain't neither," said the conductor. "Den sholy," said the colored man, "sholy dah's no good mah kwine dar!"

Helpful, But—

Labor Secretary Davis said in an interview: "O, yes, we get all sorts of recipes for solving the troubles that arise between capital and labor. The people who send us these recipes, though, are rather like the helpful boy. This helpful boy rushed up to a doctor who was coming out of a patient's house and said, 'Doctor, I've been waiting here about 10 minutes. You told your car about 10 minutes ago, 'You fool! the doctor groaned. 'Why didn't you raise an alarm?' 'Well, to tell the truth, I never thought of that,' said the boy; 'but it's all right—anyhow—I took the number of the car.'—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Why They Laughed

This is printed for the benefit of a certain Los Angeles minister who is probably still wondering how it happened that a certain portion of his erstwhile decorous congregation laughed out loud in the middle of the offertory Sunday. This is what happened: It was Donald's first experience in a church, though the little chap had attended Sunday school. When the collection was being taken, his father placed the weekly family offering in the plate. The pew was a short one, and no other contribution was received from it. Evidently this aroused Donald's curiosity, for he blurted out with all the earnestness of childhood trying to understand: "Did you have to pay for the whole row?"—Los Angeles Times.

The Good Reporter

Sarah Bernhardt's death recalls an interview she once gave the late Virgil Eaton, long editor of the Bangor News and in his day a famous newspaper man. Eaton had been sent by the Boston Globe, on which he was employed before going to Bangor, to report the Irish famine. Somewhere in Great Britain he encountered Madame Bernhardt, and it occurred to him to get an interview. The lady was asked, "Did you care, she said, to be interviewed by an American newspaper man." "But, Madame," said Eaton, in his most persuasive style, "the Globe has sent me away to Europe just to talk with you. I don't know how to get back and tell him I haven't done it. Won't you help a fellow out?" Bernhardt melted completely, entertained Virgil in her home and gave him the interview which was said to have been one of the finest ever sent across the Atlantic.—Portland Press Herald.

"If Youth But Knew"

When the veil from the eyes is lifted and the secret is gray, When the sailor to shore is drifted The stars are far away, Why must the clearer vision, The wisdom of life's late hour, Come, as in Fate's decision, When the hand has lost its power? Is there a better sphere, Where the strong are not weeping, And the harvests are not reaped, When the season dwindle, The sickle reaps the grain, Where the lamps of knowledge kindle While the flames of youth still burn? O for the young man's chance! O for the old man's will! These few while years advance, And the strong years cheat us still. —By EDWARD E. STEEDMAN.

C. Y. M. L. WILL HOLD SPECIAL MEETING

The largest attendance in years is expected at the special meeting of the C. Y. M. L. next Sunday, when the proposed change in the constitution will come up for consideration by the members. The change will affect the board of directors which now consists of 15 members, eight chosen by popular vote and seven appointed by the spiritual director. The new plan will do away with the seven appointees by the spiritual director and allow a similar number to be elected by the membership. These will then be invested with the power to elect a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer and an advisory board of three members. The meeting will be held at two o'clock.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The American Woolen company's mills are now reported to be operating 10 per cent. full time, and preparations are being made to do night work in some New England branches of the corporation. It was intimated that the Lowell mills in the American chain would soon have night work, but so far as could be learned today no plans have been made as yet for the custom which orders are heavy and work a little harder, to run nights for short periods at a stretch. This is not at all unusual in the Bay State mills on Franklin street, but I am informed that there are no regular night operations there for the present.

New York textile trade publications contain new advertisements of the Hattie Nix company with bright colors predominating in the illustration, a beautiful object, is to be found in much of the textile plant's advertising matter. There are two ships and six emblems of a five-pointed star, the name of which I am not sure of, but the shield bears two bright red squares and two white squares and is surmounted by a crown and a tree emblem. A huge saw grips the tree and the word "Through" is imprinted upon the saw. It is the oddest emblem for a cotton manufacturing concern I have ever seen.

At least two large Lowell textile mills are yet to advance wages. One still representative standard wage rates were not needed for the present as goods were "moving slowly in a peculiar market." It was admitted, however, that textile goods are steadily climbing in prices and values, and that workers are entitled to a portion of the upward increase in everything. A feature of the recent advance in some of the textiles and wages, was the following of some other manufacturing concerns in the upward swing on wage scales.

And the green grass grew all around, all around, in truth, just as it is beginning to grow right now. You can see the bright green coming along nicely in from the bottom of the Auditorium, in the Columbus gardens of immaculate Conception church close by, and also down on Cardinal O'Connell parkway. The warm temperatures of the week have caused nature to open shop, so to speak, for the annual presentation of her spring wares. They will be warmly welcomed!

Twelve "mountains" of rusty looking rough and pointed ledges stand prominently in the rushing river waters just below Pawtucket dam. When the 12 "peaks" are buried beneath the river waters, then we have "freshets." Today two of the rocks were covered by the waters. The increase in water volume coming down stream buried the smallest of the dark, reddish colored rocks. If the water increases another foot over the dam, then about six of the stones will not be seen when the water covers the lower river beds. These 12 sentinel rocks act as accurate water-measures for citizens of Pawtucketville.

Lowell stocking manufacturers will not be represented at the annual convention of national makers, held in Philadelphia all this week. At least two Lowell stocking-makers are members of the national association, but neither can find time to get away from the local shops, although they are keeping in close touch with the trade, throughout the country and abroad and not forgetting to keep tabs on all the latest styles, including those named "Tulank-hamen."

The rules against bonnets in thickly settled sections of the city are being violated again as of late. Some owners or tenants of back yard apartments, ought to be careful where they light bonnets at this season of the year and without permission. Tuesday, the week's warmest day with summer sunshine the rule and the spring feeling rampant, made numerous bonnetholders rush out and don their back yard and front yard bonnets. The work of these house-yard flies could be seen arising from many sections of Lowell, when one stood perched on a high territory like Christian Hill and looked the landscape over.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

A Solemn Warning

Worcester Post: "Eighty-five per cent. of our criminals never saw the inside of a jail before their first arrests. Had they been acquainted with bleak walls, meager prison fare, nagging bunks, and bed-fellows that crawl and bite, at least half of them would have thought twice before 'pulling a stunt.' A knowledge of what to expect for our every act generally proves wholesome."

The Killing Birth Rate

New Bedford Standard: We wish somebody might explain the vagaries of the birth rate in New Bedford. The number of babies born in the city last year was the smallest for any year since 1906. Live births numbered 3381, in a population estimated at 125,000; to find a number as small as that we have to go back 16 years, when there were 2186 births in a population of only 79,078.

As compared with the previous year—1921—the 1922 births showed a falling off of nearly ten per cent. Actually there were 343 fewer babies last year than the year before; 781 fewer than there were in 1918. The birth rate was 34.6 per thousand population in 1918, 33.4 in 1921 and 26.7 last year. It is still higher than the average birth rate for the state and the nation, but far below the rates of 40 and over, that were indicated by the vital statistics of 1909 and 1911.

Value of a Newspaper

Harford Courant: The fact is that the newspaper is the cheapest article that money can buy. Each edition of an Associated Press paper has what it costs more than $500,000 a year to collect and distribute. And this is only one item of the cost. Every newspaper costs more to prepare and print than is paid for it much more. The minute is possible only because of the advertising which is carried with the news and the reader what he or she can buy and where to get it. This is desired by the purchaser of the paper and by the seller of the articles, and this is to the advantage of all three interests.

Arounding the World

Fall River News: The state department of this country and those of most of the civilized nations of the earth sent in protests against the execution of the death sentences upon Archbishop Zepi and Vicer-General Butskavitch. The sentence of the archbishop was commuted to 10 years' confinement. But modification of the sentence of the vicer-general was refused, and in face of the world-wide protest, the sentence was carried out promptly. The condemned prelates had committed no crime that would justify the forfeit of their lives. The murdered vicer-general is a martyr to the insensate hatred of the soviet revolution for all the things which have suffered the violence and the profanation of churches, the execution of priests, the prohibition of religious observances, the burning of holy places, the persecution of the clergy, the plundering of the church in Russia. They fear the power of religion in their country. That is why they are determined to spare no effort to accomplish its destruction. It is the one bond that unites the Russian people.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem ATTENTION

Man is ever easy meat.
For the truly clever woman,
She can have him at her feet.
If she'll treat him with acumen;
What's the secret, what's the charm
Which will very subtly woo him?
Be he from the town or farm—
Listen to him!

Hang upon his spoken word,
Hearken to his conversation;
Act as though you'd never heard
Such a fund of information,
Though with boredom you grow wan,
Still, with seeming wonder, view him
As he babbles on and on—
Listen to him!

Old or young or great or small,
Man is easy prey for stalking,
And he'll nearly always fall
For the dame who keeps him talking;
Eve on Adam tried that plan
(Oh, how thoroughly she knew him)
And it works on modern man—

TRY FOR POSITION IN WASHINGTON

The United States civil service commission announced today through its local headquarters in the postoffice building on Appleton street, that an examination will be held on May 3 at all positions of civil service examiners, junior grade, for employment in the central offices in Washington.

The entrance salaries are from $1060 to $1200 a year, plus the increase of $20 a month granted by congress. Promotion is reasonably rapid for those whose services prove satisfactory.

The commission calls special attention to the educational facilities offered in Washington. Aside from contact and intercourse with men and women in the government employ who in many cases stand at the head of their respective professions, universities conveniently located in the city offer a wide variety of courses leading to bachelor's, master's and doctor's degrees. These courses are arranged so that no student may be prevented from continuing his studies in the evening classes. The student who is in government employ may thus be self-supporting.

Full information regarding the examination for civil service examiners, and application blanks, may be secured from the United States civil service commission, Washington, D. C., or the secretary of the local board of civil service examiners at the Lowell post-office.

PREVENTATIVE WEEK IN TUBERCULOSIS

Herbert Spencer, Massachusetts tuberculosis league secretary, gave an interesting talk yesterday afternoon before the members of the Parent-

Teacher association, at the Bartlett training school. The subject of the visiting speaker was "Preventive Work in Tuberculosis Among the School Children of Massachusetts."

The speaker stressed the importance of giving children the right kinds of food for nourishment, emphasizing the fact that milk and vegetables were particularly good and tea and coffee were to be avoided. Co-operation in full between the home and the schools was urged. The right kind of clothing for children's wear was also explained. The greatest danger in the winter months is fighting sudden colds and associated maladies.

There were songs by Mrs. Rita Thompson, also a radio concert. Girl students served refreshments.

Stage Fails When It Tries To Emulate the Movies

By JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, April 2.—Stage producers who have maintained an attitude of condescension toward the movie have simply been whittling to keep up their courage. Developments along Broadway the past season indicate that.

Top price for "The Gully One" is two dollars. Best seats in the house for "The Clinging Vine," musical comedy, sell for $2.50. Admission to the "Chauve Souris" has dropped from five to three dollars. Many of the dramatic productions next season will have a top price of two dollars.

The movie theatres with their symphony orchestras and elaborate programmes have brought this about. That is the commercial side of it.

The stage is trying to ape the technique of the cinema art and so far has dimly failed.

"Johannes Kreisler" with its trick stage was an attempt to tell a story in 42 scenes. Confirmed movie fans laughed in scorn at its lack of continuity.

"Rager Bloomer," employing several planes and trick curtains and light effects to project a play of many scenes, also proved a failure.

The more effective plays of the current season are those that have followed the traditional technique of the stage. That technique is centuries old.

It would be well for the stage producers to stay within their recognized province and allow the lowly movie to homestead its rightful claim unmolested.

The latest play to attempt the flash-back action is "The Wasp." Of course, that sort of thing has been done before on the stage but it has never been so gracefully done as on the screen which benefits through the fade-in and fade-out mechanics of the camera.

In the first act of "The Wasp" Otto Kruger seeks revenge for the death of his younger brother nine years before. In the second act he is the younger brother.

There isn't much illusion in that situation. However, this is another of those plays filled with lightning bolts, pistol shots, murders and outrages. Perhaps that excuses its artificiality.

In "Sandro Botticelli" Eva Le Gallienne is supposed to drop her cloak and stand forth in the nude before the artist. She has told him that she will do that so that he may paint her, but that really isn't her purpose.

How do you suppose the Provincetown players got away with that sort of thing on the stage?

Simple enough! Miss Le Gallienne stood behind a very high chair when she let the cloak loose. If one had a particularly active imagination there might have been some thrill to that situation. But a regular attendant at the theatre has little imagination—more's the pity.

And did Botticelli paint the beautiful girl? That's just what he did. He painted feverishly to set down the beauty of her form upon canvas.

That made the beautiful maiden feverish, so she rushed out into the darkened elements and fell ill and died. But her beauty was preserved on the canvas.

Despite censorship the movie is able to at least give the illusion of nudity without resort to high chairs.

SAYS BOSTON HAS DEEPER SOUL THAN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 6.—New York and Boston, among other cities, have souls. In the opinion of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

"The soul of New York city is eagerly desirous to know," he said. "It is active, in a cheerful sort of way and very busy, but not very deep. Boston, I think, has a much deeper soul than New York."

PRES. HARDING TO SPEAK AT AUGUSTA

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5.—With only two days of his vacation remaining, President Harding hoped today for better golfing weather. The president has been able to get in one round daily all week but frequently April showers have broken into the play.

The president will deliver an address tonight at a banquet tendered by the city of Augusta to his party and other prominent visitors here.

It will be the first formal address he made by the president during his vacation trip.

BOMB WRECKS OFFICE OF K. K. K. NEWSPAPER

CHICAGO, April 5.—Explosion of a bomb wrecked the publication office of Dawn, a K.K.K. organ, last night. Twenty minutes later, another bomb partly damaged the office of F. W. Gilliland, a roofer, who said he had advertised in the Klan publication.

Edwin J. Parke, publisher of Dawn, said he had been receiving threatening letters.

"Only two days ago I received a telephone call warning me that my printing establishment and my home would be blown up," he said.

CONNECTICUT RIVER CHOKED WITH ICE

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Vt., April 6.—The Connecticut river was choked with ice at Hartford today. The water was four feet higher than yesterday, the result of a rapid thaw which cleared the White River of all ice without damage. Both rivers were still within their banks.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE

Out 31 Hours

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 6.—(By the Associated Press) Not once in 31 hours and 15 minutes of deliberation did the jurors in the trial of William Z. Foster of Chicago, charged with criminal syndicalism, waiver from the stand taken on their first ballot, voting each time six for acquittal and six for conviction from about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning until 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the jury was dismissed, hopelessly deadlocked.

Thirty-eight ballots were taken. Mrs. Minerva Olson, the only woman on the jury, was one of those who voted for acquittal. Five of the six who stood for conviction are farmers. The other is a crossing watchman.

Leadville of the jurors to agree was regarded as a victory by Foster, Frank P. Walsh, his counsel, issued a statement thanking the jurors but said the defense was slightly disappointed because it had expected a verdict of acquittal.

Whether Foster will be tried again will not be decided until after the trial of Charles E. Ruthenberg of Cleveland, former member of the communist party executive committee.

Chaplin Tries Something Never Tried Before

By JACK JUNGMEYER
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 29.—"Public Opinion," being produced under direction of Charles Chaplin, is another symptom of growing pains in the development of the motion picture toward a full artistic stature.
It is the comedy king's first venture into serious drama, starring Edna Purviance. While he does not appear in the play, it will reveal in theme and craftsmanship a Chaplin strikingly different from the pantomime genius whom the world knows in pictures.
Kicking off his floppy shoes, he leaps far from the conventional screen product on rut. In concept, structure and handling of what he terms the most important venture of his career, "Public Opinion," to be completed in June, is without formal plot, thus defying literary convention.
It is without hero or villain, commands neither virtue nor vice, and flaunting moral tradition. It proceeds on the thesis that man as an individual is not master of his fate.
The character portrayed by Miss Purviance is a demimondaine in France, where the story is laid. Her sweetheart, a young artist, played by Carl Miller, kills himself in a frenzy of impotence against circumstance.
The boy's father dies from shock. His mother, with Lydia Knott in the part, dies after a period of insanity, cursing the girl she holds responsible for her son's suicide. And the girl, wealthy as a monarch, played by Adolphe Menjou, marries her in happy union, in a peculiarly ironic ending.
Not much material, in this melange of raw passions, bitterness and misunderstanding, to evoke comedy. And yet Chaplin says it will get as many laughs as any comedy he has done, because of its novel subjective treatment.
"The audience, if I hit my mark, will chuckle while the characters weep, and will weep while the characters laugh," predicts Chaplin.
"There is nothing funnier than life, despite all of its tragedies, when viewed as a spectacle, and that is how, this piece is presented."
"Human beings,"—stating his underlying philosophy—"are neither heroes nor villains, neither good nor bad, and are not to be held personally accountable for actions resulting in tragedy."
"They are straws swayed from the outside by the social entity to which individuals are chained, and by public opinion. I don't necessarily mean press or church, state or mob, but the influence of any person, group, custom, tradition or social gesture."
It is a drama of reactions instead of action. Effects are developed for the audience from mental processes of players rather than the stark facts of death and obstacles. "Every character and situation," Chaplin stresses, "has been built on psychological foundations."
"Public Opinion" doesn't attempt any solution of the problems implied. It doesn't preach. It merely undertakes to express Chaplin's conception of vital and artistic verities without regard to any existing formula of what the public does or ought to like. Let the financial chips fall where they may for this once!
In it, Charlie, the iconoclast, whacks away at some of our hoariest ethical treasures as well as at the prevailing film methods and material, with only this extenuation:
"Here is drama as it should be handled on the screen."

SOAKING ~ takes the place of rubbing

This new kind of soap soaks the dirt out

Just by soaking in the suds of this new soap, the most ground-in dirt is gently loosened and dissolved.

Even the dirt that gets absolutely ground-in at cuff edges, hems, knees and elbows of children's clothes, is so loosened by soaking in Rinso suds, that it comes out with only a light rubbing. Do that light rubbing with Rinso. A little sprinkled on the worst spots will make them disappear.

Not a thread is weakened. The mild cleansing suds work gently through and through the clothes without injury to a single fibre.

Use Rinso in the washing machine to get whiter clothes in a shorter time. You will find it saves even the little rubbing you may be doing now.

Use it in the boiler if you boil white cottons. Its big, bubbling suds make the clothes sweeter.

You do not need to change your usual washday habits. Just use Rinso wherever you used to use bar soap. Rinso does the whole job. You need no soap powder or any other soap if you use Rinso.

Rinso is made by the world's largest soap makers—the makers of Lux. For the family wash it is as wonderful as Lux is for fine things.

Get Rinso today. All the grocers and department stores have it in two sizes—the regular package and the big new package. Lever Bros. Co., 164 Broadway, Cambridge, Mass.

APEX, BLUEBIRD, COFFIELD, GAINADAY, GETZ, HAAG, HORTON, LAUN-DRY-ETTE, MEADOWS, "1900" CATARACT, ONE MINUTE, ROTAREX, SUNNYSUDS, SURF, TROJAN, VOSS, say to use Rinso in their washing machines

THESE men advise the public to use Rinso in their washing machines just as the textile manufacturers advise the public to wash their fabrics in Lux.
"Rinso suds stand up permanently. They penetrate the water so that every garment is saturated with Rinso solution." That's what the president of the Gainaday Company says.

The president of the Coffield Company writes: "Tried out over a period equivalent to seven years' weekly use, Rinso did not corrode or injure the machine in any way. It can be used with absolute safety. Garments were not weakened by prolonged washing with Rinso."

BLACKMAIL GROWING, PERIL LINKED WITH AT LEAST FIVE FAMOUS UNSOLVED CRIMES

By EDWARD THIERRY
NEA Service Staff Writer

NEW YORK, April.—Organized blackmail, perhaps the weapon of a single gang, is considered a possible solution to a series of crimes having startling coincidences and outstanding in the murder of Dorothy King, Broadway model.

Millions of dollars are secretly extorted, crime experts say, in blackmail plots that have wealthy men and women as victims. These conspirators are known sometimes as "crime scavengers."

Analysis of the possibilities of a series of notorious crimes having been in the hands of one organized band of blackmailers shows these cases as links in the chain.

Mysterious slaying of William Desmond Taylor, movie director, in Los Angeles a year ago last February.

Killing of a sailor by Walter S. Ward, millionaire baker's son, near White Plains, N. Y., last May.

Chloroforming of Mrs. Irene Schoellkopf, wealthy Buffalo woman and $500,000 jewel robbery in New York, New Year's Eve.

Murder by chloroform of Dorothy King and theft of $15,000 worth of jewels in supposed plot to blackmail J. Kearsley Mitchell son-in-law of R. T. Stotesbury, millionaire Morgan partner.

Blackmail persisted as an explanation of Taylor's murder, Walter Ward, whose release has been the subject of an investigation by Governor Smith, declared he killed his victim to save himself from a gang of three blackmailers who had already obtained $30,000 and demanded $75,000 more.

In the New Brunswick case the Hall family's theory was that Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills met death at the hands of a band of blackmailers and robbers.

The Schoellkopf robbery case, the only one that did not end in murder, is linked with both the Hall-Mills and the King cases. Chloroform was used to subdue both Mrs. Schoellkopf and Miss King; in the latter case it came from New Brunswick, scene of the Hall-Mills murders; and two men connected with the Schoellkopf case are said to have stayed later at the same New Brunswick hotel which employed a man who disappeared from the apartment house where Miss King lived.

Another coincidence is that Neilson Olcott is counsel for Mitchell, whose letters to Dorothy King are believed to have been sought by blackmailers; and his father, William M. K. Olcott, former district attorney, admits he was consulted by the Hall family in the New Brunswick double murder and is regarded as the "brains" that directed the attitude of the Hall family.

"I have had a theory that the same gang of blackmailers might have been involved in other crimes previous to the King murder," said Assistant District Attorney Nathan T. Brown.

Plunkerton detectives say blackmailing of wealthy men and women has become one of the greatest crime menaces. Most of the cases, they say, never come to light, although several months ago complaint was made to the district attorney's office that blackmailers had been active against many New York society women.

Edward S. Schwab, for 11 years postoffice inspector, says: "Many blackmail cases hinge on letters through the mail, and postoffice inspectors have investigated some that run into amazing figures."

Chief Detective Edward Raines, attached to the district attorney's office, says only a few blackmail cases a year get into the courts because most wealthy victims are willing to submit rather than face exposure, even though innocent. In 33 years of police work, he finds blackmail "rates" steadily increasing until lately $100,000 has been mentioned as the sum demanded in several cases, including that involving Mitchell.

Police Commissioner Enright's office is one of the few crime agencies that favors the robbery theory rather than blackmail in the Dorothy King case.

WILL PLAY "HUBBER" TONIGHT
The third and deciding game in the St. Anne's-St. John's basketball series will be played in St. Anne's parish house this evening. Both teams have won a game and the "hubber" tonight promises to be a thriller. Following the game general dancing will be held, the music to be featured with saxophone solos by Roy McLeod of Boston university. A preliminary game will precede the main attraction.

The Woman Power of America is well illustrated by the thousands of women who are entering every profession, almost every line of business and politics as well. They are bound to make good, and there is no question but what health is their greatest asset. Many women, however, develop weak, nervous conditions and cannot stand the strain of a professional or business life. Such women should remember when beset with headaches, backache, nervousness, irritability or any ailment peculiar to their sex that the greatest of all remedies for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For nearly fifty years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring the women of America to health and strength. It holds the remarkable record of helping 95 out of every 100 women who try it.—Adv.

FISH DEALERS JAILED

14 Found Guilty of Conspiring to Keep Prices High During War Start Sentences

BOSTON, April 6.—Fourteen men found guilty four years ago of conspiring to keep the price of fish at high levels in war times were sentenced to jail at hard labor yesterday and last night were behind the bars.

F. Maurice Dyer of New York and Boston, a banker, who was the organizer of the Bay State Fishing Co., described in the protracted court proceedings as the "fish trust" with four of the biggest dealers who were officers of the company received sentences of 10 months in jail and fines of $1000 each. Nine other dealers, members of the company, were sentenced to five months and to pay fines of $500 each. William P. McKee, a member of the latter group was not sentenced yesterday because of poor health. Simon Atwood, Jr., still another member of that group has been serving a similar sentence at the house of correction at Deer Island since Feb. 17, having abandoned his rights under the motions appeal and delay.

Atwood will be joined in the Island institution today by his associates who were sentenced yesterday. They spent the night in Charles street jail, the last boat having gone to the island for the day. None had made provision for immediate sentence. Although it appeared Tuesday that the last of the steps which had served to stay execution since they were originally sentenced on July 2, 1919, had failed.

Counsel revived the request for delay yesterday afternoon, asking Judge Henderson to postpone sentence again so that the case might be taken to the United States supreme court on a constitutional question. The supreme court of Massachusetts, having held that there was no apparent grounds for a writ of error, the court proceeded to impose sentence.

Those sentenced with Dyer to 10 months at hard labor and a $1000 fine were Joshua Paine, Joseph A. Rich, Jr., in the indictments on which they were convicted were thrown out. It was held that the court had failed properly to instruct the jury on the application of these counts based on the common law.

Dyer and others of the defendants were in tears as they pleaded a week ago for further delay, but they were delayed as they took the sentences meted out yesterday. Rich who had been defeated, came from California to the court on which two of the counts an hour or two before the proceedings.

Report from dealers selling Tydol and other Gasolines

72.5% said Tydol showed greatest increase in sales

Thousands of motorists wrote this message

You stop for gasoline at your favorite pump once or twice a week. The men who grind out your gas get to know you and your buying habits. They get to know, for example, why you—and their thousands of other customers—prefer one gasoline over another.

That is why we went to several hundred gasoline dealers in quest of certain facts. These men had no axe to grind—only gasoline. They were in a position to talk frankly—and they did.

We asked them: "What gasoline is showing the greatest increase in sales?"

72.5% of the dealers handling Tydol and other gasolines said "Tydol."

Then we asked them "Why?" They said, "its quality" and "the public demands it." No other gasoline got half as many votes as Tydol on "quality" and "public demand."

For years, we have told the public of the uniform high quality of Tydol—a quality that never changes—except for the better; a quality that insures snappy starting, quick pickup and full power with a minimum of carbon. It is gratifying to know that the ever-increasing public demand for Tydol is due, primarily, to quality.

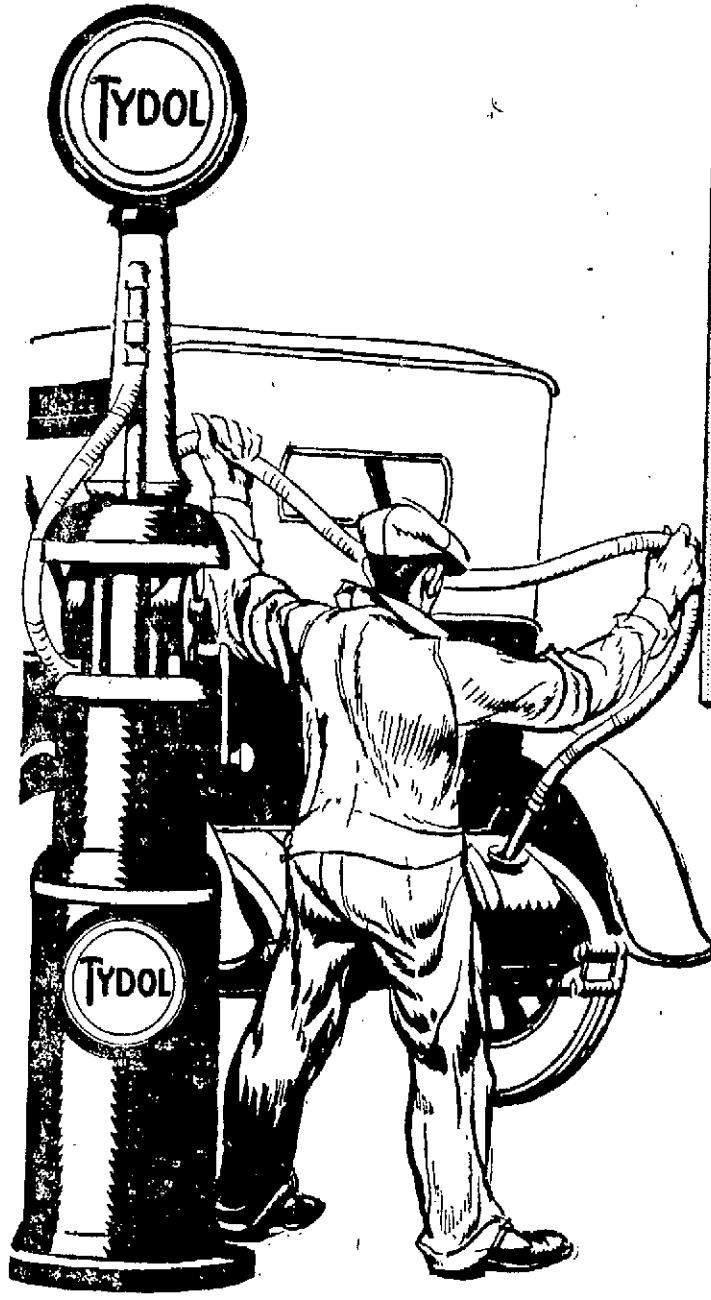

When you drive up to a black and orange pump and say—"Fill 'er up with Tydol," you get the best there is.

Williams Out to Beat Duggan — Farewell Reception to Bob Hart

With Kid Williams out to "get" Bill Duggan, who put it over on him, 12 to 6 in the opening game, and Bob Hart playing his last game of the season, the local polo fans look to tonight's battle between the All Stars and the local champions with confidence.

Williams did not strike his stride in the initial contest as he won but four out of the 10 races to the center and scored but one goal. He avers that it will be a different story tonight, and that he will not only show the way to the aggressive "wild one" this evening, but declares that the final whistle has been sounded in his career.

The first bout brought together Eddie Purcell of Lowell and Young Mack of Woburn, with the local boy winning by a knockout in the fifth round.

Buddy Dolan of Lawrence, knew too much about the boxing game for Lefty Williams, and won the decision of the judges after eight rounds of milling. Williams was fresh enough at the close, but his nose was sore. He didn't seem to like the verdict, but it was his own fault.

It is a merry contest, a contest between the two fastest men in the league, and it is bound to prove an interesting feature of the classic.

Three numbers of Bob Hart's friends plan to turn out tonight to greet him. When the "big fellow," who has played an important part in the Lowell team's success this season, leaves the players' room, he will hang up the stick and skates to prepare to do the mask and chest protector.

It is the last game Capt. Hartkins has been busy lining up a man to take Hart's place in the remaining games and he will announce his selection this evening. He conducted negotiations with four men, as he was out to land the best available.

Jack Finnell, who has handled the Lowell team with skill and efficiency will again be on deck and he will sure the athletes on the way at 8.15. The lineup will be as follows:

All Stars. 1st, Duggan; 2nd, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th, 17th, 18th, 19th, 20th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, FARMERS FLAY SUGAR PIRATES

Demand Prosecution of Men Who Calmly Fleeced 100,000,000 American People

Declare Present Sugar Prices Due to "Criminal Manipulation" of Market

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A closer organization in the sugar producing industry was advocated today by the farmers' union in a statement attributing present sugar prices to a "criminal manipulation" of the market.

"Some of the hard pressed and gouged people of the cities," said the statement "are thinking that the farmer is sharing in the proceeds of the robbery. Nothing could be further from the facts. All the sugar of the past season has long since been marketed and the supplies are in the hands of men who never grew an ounce of the commodity.

"There is something radically wrong with an economic system that permits the calm fleecing of more than 100,000,000 American people. The remedy for such situations has been created by the unconscionable manipulators is not far to seek.

"It is quite possible to so organize that we will be able to refine our own sugar and market the finished product. We can stabilize the sugar market just as we have stabilized the cotton market, the produce market and the grain market. We can do it by being our own salesmen, our own middlemen and our own financiers.

"In the meantime, the farmers demand the prosecution of the men responsible for the recent raid on the American pocketbook. They will not be satisfied with excuses and they will not tolerate delays. They will easily identify the officials who may be responsible for the escape of the manipulators and they will remember them at the polls in November of next year.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Present prices of sugar were laid wholly at the door of the refiners today by Acting Chairman Smoot of the senate finance committee, who issued a statement declaring the refining interests hoped to get a tariff low enough to destroy the American producing industry and bring the control of every pound of the commodity into their hands.

Senator Smoot said he hoped for an early investigation of sugar prices and suggested that the tariff commission call as its first witness Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who is the ranking democrat on the committee and who has blamed the tariff for the present situation.

CENTENARY DAY AT N. E. METHODIST CONFERENCE

HOLYOKE, April 5.—Centenary day at the New England Methodist conference today was devoted largely to addresses by leaders in centenary work. Reports were read by District Supt. Charles E. Smith of the Worcester district and L. Oscar Ford of the Springfield district. Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, presiding, stressed the need of prayer in daily life in his devotional address.

Morris W. Eames, treasurer of the conference on world service and advance, discussed the world service program of the church, saying that it showed a need for $25,000,000 for legitimate benevolent purposes, and that $18,500,000 will be apportioned to the churches. Under the church's centenary benevolent program, carried on the last four years, the denomination has averaged $15,000,000 annually for benevolent purposes.

The funds regularly apportioned will be divided as follows: Board of foreign missions, $6,800,000; board of education, $1,500,000; board of education for negroes, $750,000; board of Sunday schools, $600,000; Epworth League, $175,000; American Bible society, $200,000; board of temperance, prohibition and public morals, $250,000; board of deaconesses, $80,000; board of hospitals and homes, $175,000; board of conference claimants, $150,000; other causes, $1,000,000.

Dr. William S. Boyard, corresponding secretary of the board of Sunday schools, spoke on "Strengthening the Local Church."

FEDERAL GRAND JURY TO ACT

Special Session in Boston Tuesday to Hear Evidence on Operation of Rum Ring

Said to Have Financed Trips by Steamer Avontown With Whiskey From Glasgow

BOSTON, April 5.—(By the Associated Press) A special federal grand jury, to meet here next Tuesday, will hear the testimony of a score of persons on the operations of a rum ring which has been financing trips by the British steamer Avontown with whiskey from Glasgow for delivery off the New England coast. Summonses on 15 persons in Providence, R. I., Newport, R. I., and Pawtucket, R. I., were served today by Special Treasury Agent Owen McKenna. A Boston politician of some prominence also may be called.

The summoning of the grand jury and the issuance of summonses are outgrowths of the raid here last week on a Brighton apartment rented by James W. Costello, when federal agents arrested Mrs. Costello and two Montreal men and seized alleged records of the gang's operations. Costello himself has since been reported to be a fugitive aboard the Avontown, which was anchored off Block Island for two weeks, distributing liquors to various vessels about 12 miles off shore.

TALKS ON SPIRITUALISM

Conan Doyle Says "An Evil Elemental" May Have Caused Carnarvon's Death

NEW YORK, April 5.—Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who arrived in this country yesterday to lecture on spiritualism today, expressed belief that "an evil elemental" brought into being by Egyptian occultism or the spirit of Tutankhamen might have caused the death of Lord Carnarvon, who opened the tomb of the Egyptian Pharaoh.

Sir Arthur was asked if he agreed with Miss Marie Corelli, the English novelist, who warned the explorer that it was dangerous to enter the Luxor tomb because the spirit of the Egyptian king might be angered.

"It might be a dangerous thing to dig into these old graves," admitted Sir Arthur, who claims to have conversed with the souls of those departed. "One does not know what elementals existed in those days and how long these elementals existed or what might be their force."

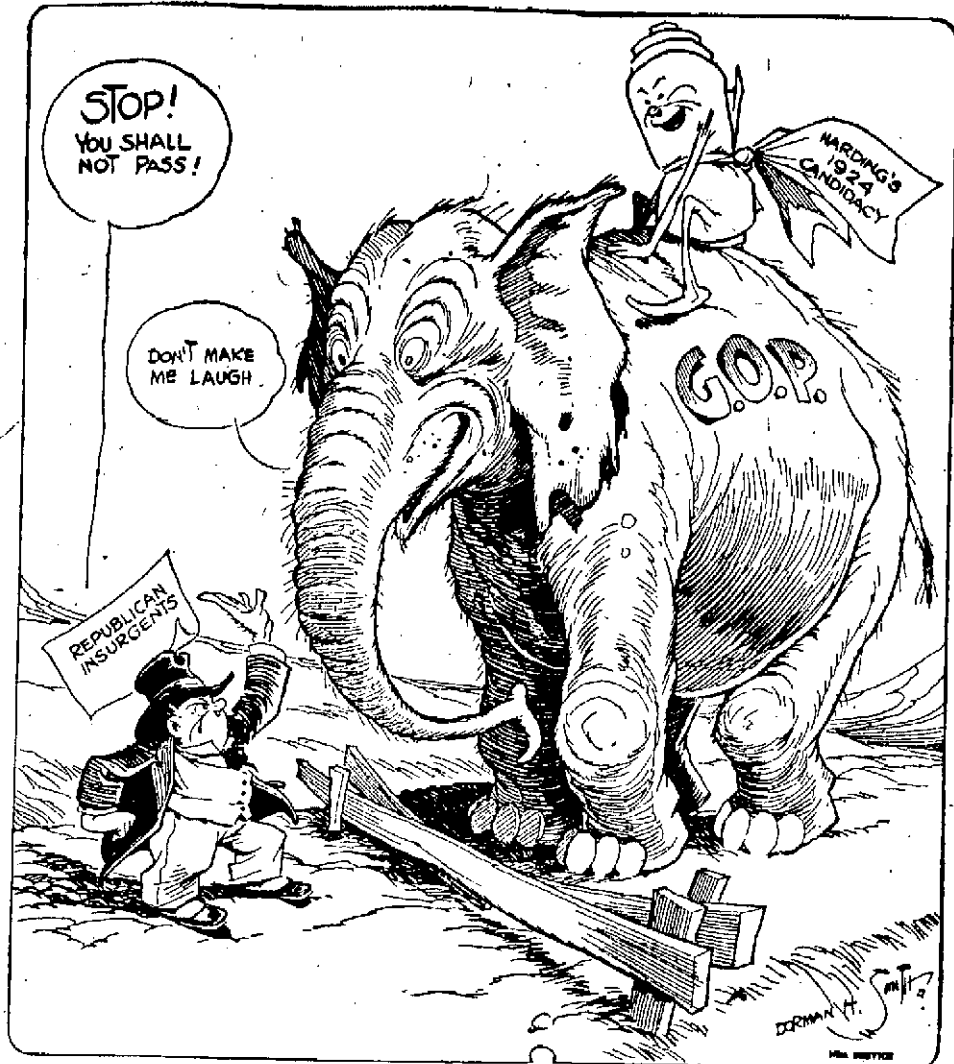

"The Egyptians knew a great deal more about these things than we do. If they could put these elementals on guard over their dead bodies, they certainly would have done so."

BUSINESS CONDITIONS NORMAL, SAYS MELLEIN

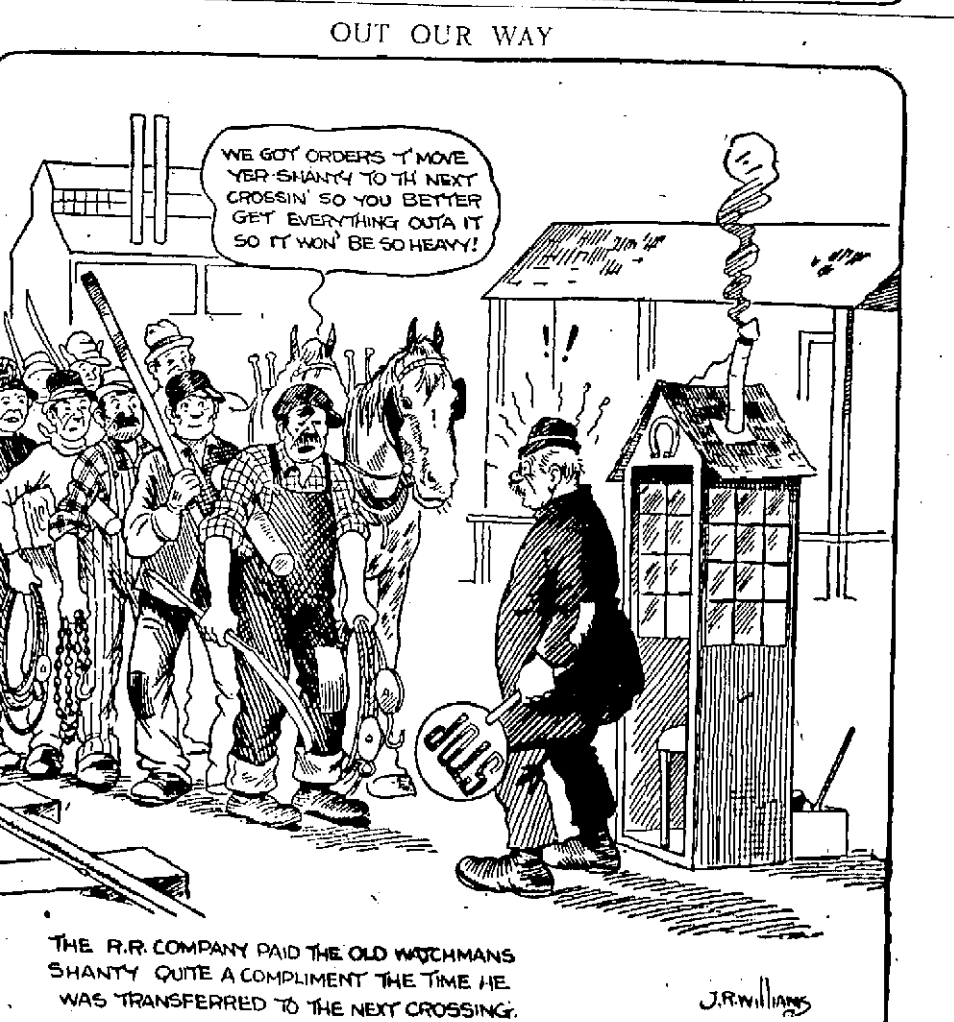

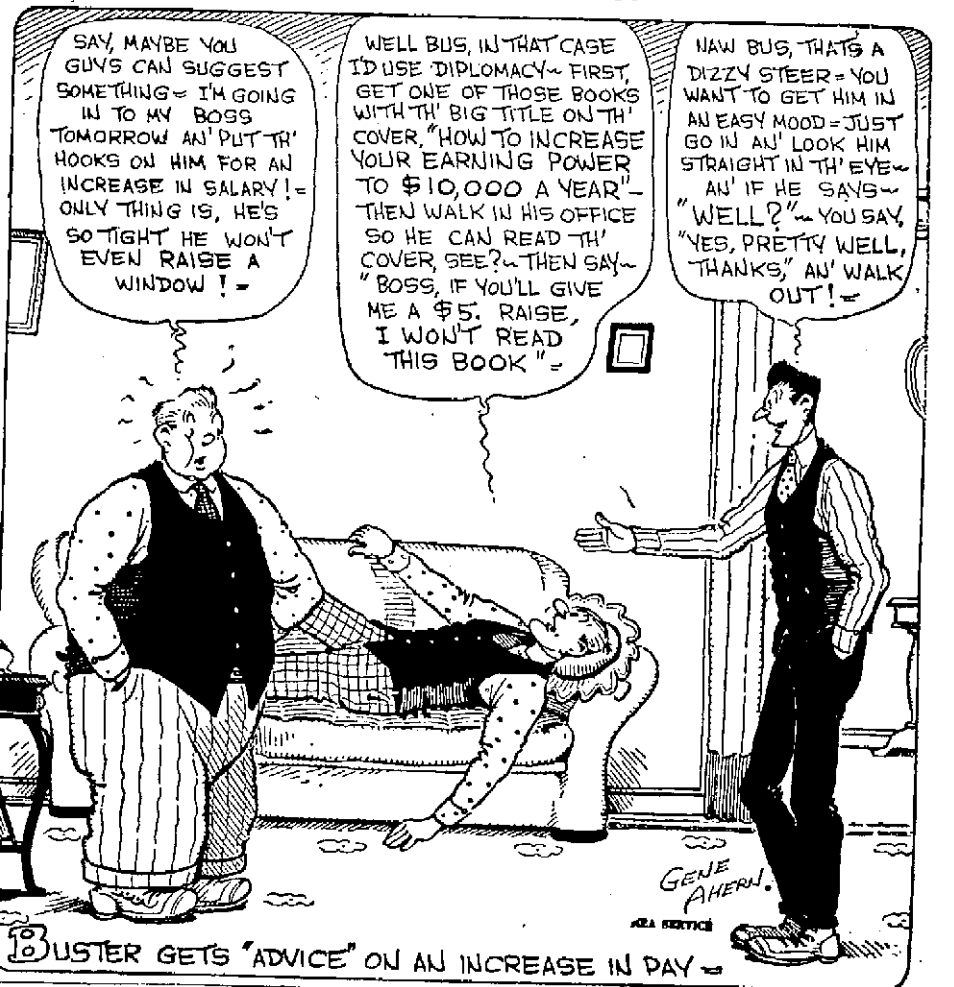

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Secretary Mellein views present business conditions as nearly normal throughout the east, he said today on his return from the first vacation he has had since taking the treasury portfolio. His trip included visits to several important eastern industrial and commercial centers.

The general situation, the secretary described as "very satisfactory" and he added that there appeared to be an unusual amount of free capital for investment purposes. He cited the quick absorption of recent government security issues as well as issues of stock and bonds by industrial corporations as proof of the plentiful supply of money. Credit conditions, he said, "are very good."

Adventures of The Twins

ON CREAM-PUFF HILL

The Twins climbed Cream-Puff Hill on their way to the Cut-Out Lady's house in Sugar-Plum Land. "Who goes there?" asked a gruff voice. "Us," said Nick. "Well, hurry up and make up your mind," said the voice. "Who is it, 'Us' or 'We'?" "Both!" answered the Twins. "Ah, ha! Another one! That makes three! Us, We and Both. Give the countersign." "What's that?" asked Nancy. "What? Don't you know what a countersign is? It's the sign you give over the counter in the pastry shop when you want doughnuts or pretzels or coffee cake or lady-fingers." And a chocolate soldier poked his head up over the top of Cream-Puff Hill. He had a lemon stick gun over his shoulder. "Which of you is 'Us' and which of you is 'We' and where is 'Both'?" he asked. "Oh, you've got us all mixed up," cried Nancy. "Please let us past."

"Not until you give the countersign," said the soldier in a determined voice. "We don't know it!" said Nick. "All right! I'll tell you! It's 'Gumdrops.' Just say 'Gumdrops' and I'll let you past." "Gumdrops!" said Nancy and Nick together. The chocolate soldier stepped aside and they went over the hill. "Where are you going?" called the chocolate soldier. "To the Cut-Out Lady's house," answered Nick. "Well, but I need a new suit of chocolate clothes, please," said the soldier. "Every time the knick knacks are out for a walk they give me a lick as they go by and my clothes are nearly gone. Soon I'll be naked." "We'll tell her!" promised Nancy. "Thank you," said the chocolate soldier. And he marched down the other side of Cream-Puff Hill until nothing could be seen of him but the tip of his lemon stick gun. (To Be Continued)

Jack Daw in Candy Land. Chapter 14

The trip to Chocolate Lake was really very short. And such a queer place Jack had never seen before. As Caramel got out of his Maple Puff coach, Jack knelt down by the side of the lake. Then a lot of shouting attracted his attention. Once more Flip was the cause.

Jack's faithful dog had smelled the chocolate in Chocolate Lake. He was very fond of chocolate so he walked right up and started to lick it up. "Hey," shouted Caramel, "call your dog away. He'll drink Chocolate Lake dry. And then that would spoil a lot of good candies."

Jack rushed up to Flip and grabbed hold of him. "Come away from there, old fellow," he shouted. "This is the Candy Land swimming pool and you mustn't spoil it." Flip seemed to understand, for he stopped licking up the chocolate. Then Jack noticed a queer bottle standing nearby. (Continued.)

VETO RECORD

AUGUSTA, Me., April 5.—With adjournment of the legislature by Saturday night probable, Gov. Percival P. Baxter has not only out-vetted all of his predecessors but has out-vetted himself this session with a record of 28 up to yesterday, or seven vetoes more than two years ago.

One of the more important acts which have been approved is that making Armistice day a legal holiday in the state, including banks and courts. A new law gives vehicles in a main highway the right of way over those approaching from intersecting ways. A "true name" law for hotels, boarding and lodging houses has been enacted, as has a measure providing for reading the Bible in public schools. Provision has been made for a system of uniform accounting for municipalities, and the banking laws have been revised.

N. Y. POTATO MEN
TO ORGANIZE

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 5.—The New York State Potato Growers' cooperative association announced yesterday it had obtained the services of Aaron Shapiro of California, to organize the industry along the lines of that recently completed in Maine.

The New York state campaign will be conducted with the object of handling the 1923 crop. A federation will be immediately effected with Maine to be followed by affiliation with the Jersey farmers. This action will seal the eastern market. It is asserted. A similar federation will be constructed in the middle west and a third group will be federated in the northwest, all three groups finally merging into the American Potato Growers' association. The campaign will get under way in this city April 11.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the tenth day of April A. D. 1923, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

CAPTIVATING SONGSTER ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Colin O'More, Noted Tenor, Charms Song-Loving Audience at Auditorium

Parker F. Murphy is Re-elected President of Trades and Labor Council

With a voice which seemed endowed with greater reaches in tonality, with richer capabilities in enunciation and a human heart appeal that showed he knows the philosophy of song, the second appearance of Colin O'More, tenor, in the Memorial Auditorium last night, afforded a delightful evening of vocal entertainment to a fair-sized audience of intensely appreciative lovers of music.

At a largely attended meeting of the Trades and Labor council held last evening in Trades and Labor hall, Central street, Parker F. Murphy was re-elected president of the organization for the ensuing six months. Other officers chosen were as follows:

PARKER F. MURPHY,
President.

Mr. O'More's appearance at the Auditorium last night was his second here this season, and for such a celebrated artist of whom critics have expressed praise and stamped with approval their superlatives about his accomplished performances, the size of the audience is to be regretted.

President Murphy occupied the chair and the roll call showed more than 100 delegates present. Considerable business was transacted and the organization went on record as approving the plan to be conducted in this city on April 14 for the benefit of the Boston & Maine carhop strikers. The organization voted its moral and financial support and every member who has daughters was requested to enlist them for the tag day in order to make the affair a big success.

Billerica Man Found Guilty on Two Liquor Charges—
Other Cases

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, April 6. (By The Associated Press.)—Horace Mann Towner of Iowa, today became Porto Rico's eighth American civil governor. He took the oath of office at the entrance to the Federal building before the most distinguished gathering that has yet witnessed a like ceremony in San Juan. Secretary of the Navy Denby and more than two score of Governor Towner's former associates in the United States house of representatives were present, together with insular officials and representatives of foreign powers.

Andrew Mico of Billerica was found guilty of two violations of the liquor law, illegal keeping and illegal sale, in the district court this morning and appealed fines of $100 on each offense. EACH HAD A QUART

Passengers Arriving From Bermuda Forced to Give Up "Wet Goods"

NEW YORK, April 6.—When the Araya arrived today from Bermuda, 75 passengers were armed with a quart of liquor. When custom guards began collecting the bottles, the tourists murmured "For medicinal purposes," and produced newspaper clippings of recent data stating that Surgeon of the Port White had ruled a quart was admissible with invalids.

The appearance of Mico in court resulted from the alleged sale of a pint of moonshine to Officer Edward J. Cox of the Billerica police, who testified that he purchased the liquor on March 30 for $1.30. Officers William O'Brien and Henry Livingston corroborated their brother officer's testimony; the former adding that he asked Mico if he made the sale and was told that he did because he wanted money for Easter.

The defendant denied having sold the liquor, but stated that he gave the moonshine, which he received from a farmer, to the officers. In presenting the government's case, Deputy Dwyer told the court that Mico was a wholesaler and recommended that a heavy fine be imposed.

William Arneault, Ernest Levesseur and Alphonse Giguere were found guilty of drunkenness. Officer Isidore Trudel testified that he found them in a barn where they had been hanging around and drinking for the past 10 days. The case of Arneault, who pleaded not guilty, was continued until April 10, while Levesseur and Giguere received suspended sentences of two months to the house of correction.

William J. Dunn, who was arrested on Feb. 21 in connection with the larceny of an automobile and $30 in cash, the property of Roland Sapien, was continued until $1200 bonds until April 21 when his case was called today. He is a resident of Methuen and pleaded not guilty to the charge.

A suspended sentence of two months to the house of correction was imposed on John Brady of New Bedford for drunkenness.

N. E. Tel. & Tel. Paymaster Robbed

BOSTON, April 6.—Robbery of a paymaster of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co., of $23,000 was reported to the police here today.

Peter A. Gaddis, the paymaster, driving in an automobile with the payroll for the company's Brighton plant, said he was overtaken at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Lansdowne street, in Roxbury, by two men who jumped on the running board.

The men pressed a pistol to his head, took the money bag from beside him, leaped to the ground and boarded another automobile in which they escaped.

An hour earlier police in Cambridge reported the holdup of a factory paymaster with a payroll of about $1500.

Baltimore Goes Ahead of Boston—Springfield Among First 50 City Class

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Several changes in the relative size of the larger American cities are indicated by new census bureau figures prepared on the assumption that growth conditions prevailing in 1920 in the various localities are continuing.

YOUTHFUL PICKPOCKETS IN JUVENILE COURT

As a means of discouraging, as much as possible, the promiscuous pickpocketing activities of youngsters in this city, a practice which has aroused the indignation of several local female shoppers, a bright, intelligent-looking girl of 11 years of age, following her frank confession and those of five other girl colleagues, ranging from 11 to 14 years old, to complicity in recent

WILLIAM A. MITCHELL TO RETURN TO LOWELL

It was learned today that William A. Mitchell, former agent of the Massachusetts Cotton Mills in this city, who recently resigned to assume the directorship of a large textile enterprise in China, is returning to this country and will sail for New York a week from tomorrow.

part of the Chinese business men to invest capital in the proposition after all preliminary arrangements had been completed, has caused a disruption in the plans of Mr. Mitchell and the British promoters and for the time being, at least, the venture is in abeyance.

Whether Mr. Mitchell is returning to this country in an effort to raise American capital to take the place of the money not forthcoming from residents of China is not definitely known, but some of his friends believe this is his intention.

At any event, he has cabled Mrs. Mitchell not to dispose of his residence property in Lowell, which would seem to mean that he intends to remain here for some time after his return.

BOSTON, April 6.—The prospective merger of the South Boston Trust Co. with the Federal National bank, was announced today. As a preliminary the South Boston institution will be converted into a national bank.

Driver of Milk Wagon Finds Bodies at Dongan Hills, Staten Island

Police Believe Victims Were Murdered Elsewhere and Bodies Thrown From Auto

NEW YORK, April 6.—Miss Bessie McMahon of Union, N. Y., and Mrs. Irene Blandino of Jersey City, N. J., were found murdered, with their throats cut, along an isolated roadside, at Dongan Hills, Staten Island, early today. The police believe they were murdered elsewhere and their bodies thrown from an automobile.

Mrs. Blandino, who had an artificial leg, was identified through the finding of a receipt for the limb. Mrs. McMahon had been visiting her at her home in Coles street, Jersey City, according to the police.

The receipt was issued by John M. Escher, New York artificial limb manufacturer. Mrs. Blandino had visited his shop last Saturday to have the leg adjusted.

Mr. Escher said she had told him that she was married four years ago, when she was 15 years old. Her husband, a barber in Jersey City, told him last week, he said, that he had gone into "the saloon business" in Jersey City. Mrs. Blandino, Escher said, always wore expensive jewelry.

MERRIMACK RIVER CHOKED WITH ICE FLOES DURING THE EARLY MORNING HOURS

Official Rise of River Two Feet in 48 Hours—Highest Water of Season Predicted for Tomorrow—Thousands of Feet of Fresh Cut Lumber Coming Down Stream—River Scow Mixed in With River Debris

The upper Merrimack river ice went out this morning. The spectacle was watched with interest by thousands of men and women who stopped on their way to places of employment to see a specimen regarded as rather rare at this season of the year.

Tumbling down the high waters from Manchester and the cities and New Hampshire, mighty sheets of ice cakes, as white as the proverbial driven snow and sparkling lustreously under the rays of the bright morning sunlight, gave Lowell citizens an unheralded spectacle that created town talk for many hours.

Policemen on the early morning shifts, saw the ice cakes first from Pawtucket dam bridge and Varnum avenue. It was one of the biggest "floats" of heavy ice from the north at one time that has been noted this season.

The waters at the Pawtucket dam were just two feet higher than was reported day before yesterday, when the water measurements showed an extra

ELECTION COMMISSION TO EMPLOY CLERKS

The election commission will employ a number of temporary clerks beginning next Monday to assist in the work of compiling the lists of polls as turned in by the police officers now doing the work under the direction of the listing board. Seven or eight new typewriting machines have been rented and preparations are being made to handle the vast amount of clerical work connected with the compilation of the lists.

THE MIDDLESEX POMONA

"County Day" in Middlesex Grange Circles—Largest Meeting of Season

The largest gathering of Middlesex North Pomona grange members affiliated with No. 16 branch, Patrons of Husbandry, recorded during the present season filled Odd Fellows hall, Centralville, this morning long in advance of a scheduled all-day spring rally featured by morning business sessions, lectures and discussions, a noon dinner and an afternoon entertainment and lecture program that contained much of novel interest to all grangers.

Every town in the jurisdiction was represented, no former Pomona meeting of the winter-spring series ever being more largely attended. Guests were there from many outside territories, and the visitors also included well known Lowell citizens on hand to enjoy the two elaborate feature programs and also partake of the farmers' dinner provided in Grange dining hall at 12.30 this afternoon by active members of Burlington grange.

The day's eventful doings were unusually profitable because of its variety of grange program information from lecturers known all over New England, as well as the entertainment in which popular young people in grange realms participated. The program was under the efficient direction of Lecturer Mrs. Grace Dawson, who always handles these events with rare success.

After a short business session at 10.30 a.m., community singing was in order, the chorus of men and women grangers being led by the Pomona Ladies' quartet, comprised of Sisters Hoyt, Dawson, Flint and Sberburne. Mrs. Alice R. Colburn followed with an interesting history of Middlesex (Continued to Page 14)

Legion Asks $100,000 for Care of United States Soldiers' Graves Abroad

THE SURESNES AMERICAN CEMETERY, NEAR PARIS, WHERE 147 AMERICAN SOLDIERS ARE BURIED. THIS IS ONE OF THE CEMETERIES THE LEGION WILL DECORATE ANNUALLY FROM THE ENDOWMENT FUND IT IS RAISING.

By NEA Service
INDIANAPOLIS, April 6.—To make the 32,100 American soldier graves in Europe bloom with flowers every Memorial Day as brightly as if they were at home is the objective of a fund campaign undertaken by the American Legion.

The legion, its headquarters here announced, is seeking an endowment fund of $100,000, which will provide sufficient income to dedicate the graves of every American soldier abroad every year. The fund will be obtained in the United States by personal and community subscription. Anyone can help and no amount is too small. For the past three years, decoration of the graves in France was in the hands of the Paris post of the American Legion. According to the most recent figures the graves of Americans are divided as follows: 81,400 in France and Belgium, 438 in England, 140 in Scotland, 40 in Ireland, and the body of one American sailor in Spain. Contributions already have come in. The first of the world war leaders to contribute was former President Wilson. The first legion post was Chief Paduke Post, Paducah, Ky., closely followed by a post in Kansas City, Kas.

REFUSES TO CUT AMOUNT OF BAIL

Had Been Informed That Trio Had Made "Piles of Money" in Traffic

BOSTON, April 6.—When counsel for Mrs. James W. Costello and Andrew Goldberg and John Perlo, the two latter of Montreal, asked United States Commissioner Hayes today to reduce the amount of bail which they had given on charges of conspiring to smuggle liquor, the commissioner remarked that they had furnished $27,500 in cash without difficulty, that he had been informed that they had made "piles of money" in the contraband traffic and that the bail would have to stay as it was.

Their cases, said by federal agents to be the first of many that will develop as a result of investigation of what they said was the biggest rum ring in New England, were postponed for a hearing on April 13.

Meanwhile, a special session of the federal grand jury will hear evidence of the operations of the ring which financed several trips of the steamer Avontown with whiskey from Glasgow. A score or more of dealers in Rhode Island cities, and of politicians, lawyers and dealers here are under summons or will be called to appear.

The Avontown, with James W. Costello, husband of the woman under arrest aboard as a fugitive from justice here, is understood to have finished unloading her cargo of liquor and to have sailed for a Nova Scotia port.

RAISE SATISFIES VAST MAJORITY

Satisfied at Outcome of Negotiations—U. T. W. Dissatisfied With Increase

FALL RIVER, April 6.—James Tansley, president of the Fall River Textile council, stated today that no meeting of the council would be held today, as the action of the unions last night, in accepting the offer of the manufacturers for an advance in wages of 12½ per cent. to take effect April 30, was sufficient. The vast majority of the union operatives and also the non-union workers were said to be satisfied with the outcome of the negotiations. The United Textile Workers, a minority representation in union textile circles here, are apparently determined to enforce their demand for an increase of 25½ per cent., although the program announced weeks ago is in evidence as yet.

Wage Increase at Fitchburg
FITCHBURG, April 6.—Announcement of 12½ per cent. wage increase at the Fitchburg Textile mill, husband of the woman under arrest aboard as a fugitive from justice here, is understood to have finished unloading her cargo of liquor and to have sailed for a Nova Scotia port.

HERRIN RIOTS TRIAL

—Neither Side to Offer Rebuttal Testimony

MAHON, Ill., April 6.—(By the Associated Press) Edward J. Brundage, attorney-general of Illinois, and Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois Mine Workers, appeared in court at opposing counsel tables today, for the final arguments in the second Herrin riots trial.

Both defense and prosecution announced they would offer no rebuttal testimony. The defense rested its hopes in alibis presented for all of the six defendants, who are specifically charged with the murder of Antonio Mulcahy, a veteran of the World war, and one of the 22 non-union men slain during the outbreak.

Creases, effective April 30, were made today by officials of the Orswell, Nocke, Grant and Fitchburg Varn mills of this city. Approximately 1500 employees who affected. All other textile mills in Fitchburg had previously advanced wages and the local branch of the Amalgamated Textile union had arranged a meeting for next Tuesday when a demand for a 12½ per cent. increase was to be considered.

STOOD TOO LONG IN ONE PLACE

When no one turned up to claim a white horse and buggy, left standing for four hours at the corner of High and East Merrimack streets yesterday afternoon. Officer Frank Moloney called up the Humphrey stables and had the animal and the buggy delivered there for safe-keeping. In the buggy was a large box containing oranges, tins, bread and other articles, which were taken to the police station. The owner may have some by applying in person and identifying the "seizure."

pickpocketing operations, was ordered placed in the care of the Massachusetts department of public welfare after a severe reprimand by police officials in the juvenile court this morning. Her five companions were placed in the care of the probation officer with the understanding that restitution be made for the money "lifted" from their victims in the down-town district of the city.

Until a few weeks ago, several complaints had reached police headquarters from women to the effect that they had lost their pocketbooks in a mysterious manner while shopping in department stores. It was believed that the work was that of skilled and professional hands and the police department men to the shopping district without success. Finally, Officer Louis Lemay noticed a young girl spending money lavishly in various stores. His suspicions became aroused, and he brought the girl to the police station, where, in an interview with Captain David Patria, she admitted her guilt and disclosed the methods employed by her and her chums in extracting pocketbooks from innocent shoppers. She said that one Saturday's activities had netted the sum of $50, equally distributed in the partnership. The money was spent for candy and other luxuries.

ALLOWING USE OF SCHOOL BUILDINGS

By an act recently approved by the state legislature, a copy of which has been received at the office of the city solicitor, school committees in cities and towns are given the right to allow school buildings to be used for educational, recreational and civic activities, including political rallies, so long as such gatherings do not interfere with usual school sessions. The act tends to increase community interest.

ALL MACHINERY NOW UNDER ONE ROOF

The moving of machinery and other paraphernalia from the South Lowell plant of the United States Cartridge Co. to the Lawrence street plant, which was started several months ago, was completed a few days ago and some forty or fifty men, who had been hired to assist in the work of hanging shafting and setting machinery in the main plant, had their names dropped from the payroll. It was stated at the office of the company today that all of the company's machinery located in the old Bunting mill in Lawrence street had also been moved and set in the main plant. Work is not rushing at the plant, but the company is holding its own and the employees are kept busy on a full time schedule.

MUSIC CAN'T BE FORCED ON CHILDREN

If your boy prefers baseball to violin practice and your girl would rather play jacks than piano, let the children follow their inclinations.

Don't force a technical musical education on them.

That's the advice of two of the leading stars on the concert stage today—Mme. Louise Homer, famous contralto, and Mme. Olga Samaroff, pianist. Both are mothers, and both say if their children had no inclination to learn the mechanics of music they would not force this on them.

But musical appreciation can be fostered in pleasant ways than by technical learning, they agree. Mme. Homer believes it is more important to appreciate a masterpiece than to struggle through a sonata without pleasure.

"The development of musical taste," she says, "comes from constantly hearing the best music. Technical study is for the few and gifted, but esthetic study and familiarity of the classics should be within the reach of all children."

To this Mme. Samaroff adds: "Instead of chaining a child to an instrument and forcing it to make music it is possible to develop through study of musical history and theory and concerts a love and understanding of music in the child."

"It is my hope that courses on musical appreciation will have a definite place in all schools and colleges."

Use the Old-time Sage Tea and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhance its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully; besides, no one can possibly tell as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous and you appear years younger.—Adv.

BRINGS DEAD BACK TO LIFE

Physician Tells of Method by
Which Man "Gone" a Half
Hour Revived

Injects Fluid From Adrenal
Glands Directly Into the Heart

CHICAGO, April 6.—A new method of resuscitation by the injection of fluid from the adrenal glands directly into the heart, credited with reviving persons who have been pronounced dead, was explained in reports read by Dr. Dennis W. Crile of Chicago to a joint meeting of the Chicago Medical Society and the Chicago Society of Anaesthetists.

Dr. G. W. Crile of Cleveland, O., uncle of the speaker, was credited with pioneering work with his nephew, in the researches reported.

The physician explained the revival of persons who, he said, had been dead as long as 30 minutes. In some cases, the physician said, patients who had been pronounced dead were revived, died again, and were revived again at intervals and ultimately recovered.

Dr. Crile Explains Method

As described by Dr. Crile, the method of resuscitation by the injection of fluid from the adrenal glands directly into the heart, credited with reviving persons who have been pronounced dead, was explained in reports read by Dr. Dennis W. Crile of Chicago to a joint meeting of the Chicago Medical Society and the Chicago Society of Anaesthetists.

Dr. Crile said the first use of adrenal upon the human heart was in Belgium during the war, when soldiers seriously wounded by shells were restored by it and accompanying surgery. The greatest utility for the new method, Dr. Crile said, is in resuscitation of persons who die from effects of anesthetic while undergoing operations.

The adrenal gland secretions, according to medical authorities, control the emotions of courage and fear.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Probably the most spectacular and certainly the most tragic scene produced on a local stage in some time is shown in the last scene of "The Bird of Paradise," at the Lowell Opera House this week, when Mary Anne Bender, as Luan, the Hawaiian girl, dives into the blazing crater of Mt. Pele to save her people. The whole production is an entrancing spectacle of the magical islands of the Pacific and the lovable, childlike nature of its people.

ORIGIN OF MAN DATES BACK TO REMOTE TIME

LONDON, April 6.—Much speculation as to the age of man has arisen as a result of the recent discoveries of fossil human skulls in South America, Patagonia and the island of Jersey. The estimates as to the antiquity of the human race range all the way from ten thousand to a million years. Dr. Wolf's reported discovery in Patagonia of a fossilized human skull of the tertiary period, however, may nullify all previous scientific calculations on this subject, and the public is now getting a little chary about accepting even scientists' estimates regarding the date of the origin of the human race.

Ever since the unearthing of the ashes of King Tutankhamen, who, in the view of anthropologists, is reckoned only as a "youngster" as the age of man goes, startling discoveries have been made all over the world which upset all well-established anthropological foundations.

Dr. A. Smith Woodward, director of the geological department of the British Museum, makes some interesting commentaries on the latest discoveries in skulls and bones. "For a moment," says he, "the public seemed to assume that we had found at last the first man who lived on earth. I fear, however, that these conclusions are as baseless as they are interesting. True the skull from Jersey is said to have been found near a neolithic burial chamber. It is probably much nearer our period than any of the skulls of fossil men-like ancestors. And since the specimen from Patagonia comes from a country which was furnished more 'modern' nests in the study of prehistoric and ancestral man than any other part of the world, it will not excite interest among anthropologists until some geologist admittedly skilled in such matters has satisfied himself that this is a true fossil, definitely associated with the remains of extinct animals."

Who, then, Dr. Woodward asks, was the first man on earth? "To be strictly accurate," he replies, "we have not yet found him, although we have some reason to think we know where to look. In the dim borderland of time which separates man from monkey there roamed, somewhere in Central Asia, a form of large-brained ape destined to be the precursor of man. It is impossible to fix a date for his appearance, but we do know that when he came into being the Himalayan mountains had not yet reared their peaks."

The eminent British geologist says nothing has yet been discovered respecting the habits and life of these apes. A party of American naturalists is now searching for them in promising localities in Mongolia, he adds.

It was in the Neanderthal near Düsseldorf, Germany, writes Dr. Woodward, that the remains of the earliest man of whom anything is really known were discovered. "Compared with our knowledge of his ancestors," he says, "he is an intimate acquaintance. But it is impossible to assign him a date in years. Swedish geologists reckon his age as about 12,000 years."

"Neanderthal man," continues the British scientist, "was definitely a man. He lived in caves from which he sallied forth to hunt the animals, such as mammoth, rhinoceros, reindeer and bison which then roamed over Europe. We have found his tools, flint and bone, and we have found even the bones

Now that the dust of battle has cleared away one learns that there are six accredited silhouettes for spring fashions and every gown or suit the season offers is sure to follow one of them. This is the Egyptian silhouette—newest of all. It is marked by front drapes and front panels. To increase the Egyptian effect of the silhouette fashion has added Egyptian accessories—embroideries, jewels, buckles and printed designs for fabrics.

With which possibly the early women fastened the rough skins which served them for petticoats. We have also found remains of paint and rouge, which seem to signify the dawn of vanity.

"Most remarkable of all, we have ascertained that these early human beings believed in a future life, an enormous advance in thought. They buried their dead, and with the dead we have found both stone implements and the bones of animals which had been buried when still covered with flesh, and were doubtless intended to be used as food in case the departed spirits should suffer the pangs of hunger."

CONCERT BY LOWELL ORCHESTRAL SOCIETY

The Lowell Orchestral Society needs no introduction to local lovers of good music. The society has presented concerts for many years, but their work was interrupted owing to the war, when most of the members were in the service.

Fortunately, the orchestra has been reorganized and announces a concert to be held on Wednesday evening, April 18th, at Colonial hall. Those who were familiar with the society's concerts in the past are anticipating with pleasure the forthcoming event, and many who may hear this fine organization for the first time will have a very convincing demonstration of what local talent, under such a conductor as Mr. Schiller, can do.

The program has been carefully selected consisting of works which are in the repertoire of the large Symphony orchestra, and which will please the most critical audience. A well-known local soloist will assist at the performance, and it is expected that a generous response will be made to the efforts of the society.

BROADWAY CLUB CONCERT AND DANCE

Little May Conway, a juvenile entertainer of note, will act as interloper at the annual concert and dance of the Broadway Social and Athletic Club in Associate hall this evening.

The concert promises to be one of rare enjoyment as among those to appear are some of Lowell's leading entertainers. The chorus is made up of members of the popular club, who have been carefully trained by Charles Miller. Four well-known comedians have been selected as "ends." Jim Craven, Charlie Keyes, Dan Brennan and Frankie Donohoe, are the quartet who will furnish amusement, with their witty sallies and mirth provoking songs.

Following the concert general dancing will be enjoyed.

Railway Association Urges
Aid to Relieve Heaviest
Traffic Burden in History

Approves Expenditure of
Tracks and Equipment

NEW YORK, April 5.—(By the Associated Press) Having approved the expenditure of $1,540,000,000 in new tracks, locomotives, cars and terminals, the American Railway Association yesterday adopted a program which calls on every road, every shipper and every household to help relieve the heaviest traffic burden in history.

They ask that shippers conserve space and help keep cars moving; that dealers and consumers get their coal into bins early; that the bulk of ore and coal shipments on the Great Lakes be completed early in the summer; that road and construction work be gotten under way as soon as possible so that rail equipment may be available for crop movements in the fall.

On their part the roads will try to have an extraordinary number of good order locomotives and cars available in the fall; to have all coal intended for railroad use in storage by Sept. 1; to restrict the transportation of railroad supplies to the minimum during the fall rush; and to help keep every car moving.

The program is one recommended by directors of the association Tuesday and adopted today by the full membership, including every road, transfer and terminal subsidiary in the United States. It also has been approved by the association of railway executives, an organization of Class 1 trunk lines.

All are agreed:

1.—That by October 1, 1923, when the peak movement ordinarily begins, cars awaiting repairs will be reduced to the normal basis of 5 per cent of the total equipment of the country.

2.—That by Oct. 1, 1923, locomotives awaiting repairs will be reduced to a normal basis for the entire country of 15 per cent.

3.—That to the extent coal is stored for railroad use, storage requirements will be completed by September 1, so that after that date the equipment and other transportation facilities may be used to the greatest extent for commercial coal necessities.

4.—That the use of power and equipment for railroad construction and maintenance purposes will be restricted to the minimum after Sept. 1 in order that a maximum of power and equipment may be available for commercial purposes.

5.—That railroads in producing and consuming sections will increase upon all interested the necessity for the movement of coal and ore via the lakes in the largest possible quantity early in the season and that railroads serving upper lake ports will carry on a campaign for early purchase and shipment of coal from the upper lake docks to points of consumption.

6.—That an effort will be made to bring about the prosecution of road and building construction work as early in the season as possible in order that equipment may be available for larger movement of seasonal commodities.

7.—That all interested will be impressed with the necessity for loading all cars to maximum capacity in an effort to bring the average loading to 30 tons per car for the entire country; for unloading cars promptly; increasing storage facilities and providing additional siding capacity to facilitate loading and unloading, thereby increasing the number of available cars.

8.—That every possible means be adopted to increase the mileage per car per day to an average of 50 for the entire country, particular attention being given to prompt movement through terminals and yards and to the issuance of embargoes when necessary to prevent congestion.

Adoption of the program was accompanied by the following statement:

"Anticipating the greatest volume of freight traffic this year in their history, the railroads today adopted a concerted policy and intensive working program to enable them to meet the growing transportation needs of the country.

Despite the obstacles placed in the way of transportation services since July 1, 1922, by the cumulative efforts of the coal miners and shipmen's strikes, the railroads have, between July 1, 1922 and March 17, 1923, a period of 37 weeks—handled the greatest volume of traffic ever transported during any corresponding period in the history of the country.

"In full realization of the necessity for the greatest improvement and expansion possible of the country's transportation facilities to meet the growing demands of commerce, the railroads have authorized since Jan. 1, 1923, for cars, locomotives, track-ware and other facilities the expenditure of $1,540,000,000, of which $440,000,000 was actually expended during the year 1922.

"The railroads of the country are raising this enormous amount of additional capital largely through borrowing money on the abiding faith in the reliance on the American people and the continuance of the policy announced in the transportation act of 1920 as a measure of reasonable protection to investment in railroad property.

"From January 1, 1922, to March 15, 1923, the railroads purchased 223,616 new freight cars. Of these 117,280 have been delivered and put in service. The railroads during that time also purchased 4,210 new locomotives. Of that number 2,106 have already been placed in service. Practically all of the equipment still on order is to be delivered by fall, at which time freight traffic is always the heaviest.

Subsequently orders for additional cars and locomotives are constantly being placed.

"The railroads have already established and have in active and effective operation, a comprehensive organization in the car service division for the central control and distribution of freight cars which, during recent periods of car shortage, has under difficult conditions secured to the public the best possible use of available freight equipment.

"This appeal is made with full recognition by the railroads of their own responsibility for prompt movement of loaded or empty equipment as being one of the primary measures necessary to avoid waste of transportation."

AMERICAN PUBLIC TO ENJOY PARKS

NEW YORK, April 5.—Americans purchased more art works in Europe last year than in any year since the beginning of the war, estimates for the year fixing the value of such importations at $33,000,000. Whether this increase is due to a growing interest in the character, or to greater willingness on the part of Europeans to permit their treasures to pass to other parts of the world is a moot question.

Importations of art works in the four years since the war have averaged $28,000,000 a year, compared with approximately $17,000,000 annually during the period of the war. The total value of such imports since 1910, the year following that in which import duty was removed from works of art 20 years or more older, is about $250,000,000, an average of about $25,000,000 a year.

It is estimated that at least $150,000,000 of the $175,000,000 worth of art works imported since the war came from Europe, England, France and Germany for many years were the largest contributors to these imports. But in recent years Italy has replaced Germany in the list. A large proportion of the art works are described as "more than 100 years old."

In 1921, the latest complete year for which figures are available, importations of art works "more than 100 years old" aggregated $13,000,000 out of the total of $22,000,000. Original paintings, drawings and pen sketches formed $5,000,000 and the remaining $8,000,000 worth included statuary, stained and painted window glass, and a limited number of works produced by American artists residing temporarily abroad.

HARDING TO GO WEST

President Plans Trip to "Feel the Pulse" of Section on National Problems

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 6.—President Harding is understood to contemplate his proposed summer trip to the Pacific coast not only as a means of presenting to the western half of the country his policies and plans, but also as a means of ascertaining clearly the western viewpoint on national problems.

Such an understanding of the executive's attitude toward the projected trip has been obtained by several of those who have discussed the matter of the tour with him during his vacation.

As briefly put by these conferees today, the president desires to go into the section west of the Mississippi to "feel its pulse."

As minutely mapped out the swing of the president's trip, the west provides for 15 or 20 addresses in representative cities. In these addresses, Mr. Harding, it is said, plans to outline the more important policies of his administration and announce his plans for the remainder of his present term of office.

The addresses will not be the only feature of the trip as now viewed by Mr. Harding, as through informal conferences with leading citizens he hopes to learn intimately and clearly the thoughts and ideas of the people.

These conferences, he is said to feel, will give him a background and basis for use in formulating new policies and in carrying out old ones.

Some thought is being given by the president, it is further said, to a suggestion that after his trip a series of conferences be held at the White House to weigh the information received during the trip and to decide upon its application. As described by one of those close to the chief executive, there would be conferences of "the best minds" of the party and the administration, conducted similarly to the conferences held by the president during his 1920 campaign and since entering the White House.

The statement issued by Samuel Comers, president of the American Federation of Labor in Washington last night, warning the republican party against sponsoring anti-organized labor issues in the 1924 campaign still was a subject of comment today among members of the president's entourage.

The general opinion remained that such a warning was unnecessary because regardless of the pressure exerted to bring about a declaration by the republican party in favor of the open shop, leaders were only opposed to any such a step and the president was described as unyielding to such influence.

GOV. BAXTER OUTLINES COMPROMISE BILL

AUGUSTA, Me., April 6.—A compromise bill which has been arranged at a series of conferences between Governor Percival P. Baxter, representatives of power users on the Kennebec river and members of the senate to take the place of the Kennebec Reservoir Co. charter bill, over which there has been much controversy, was outlined by Governor Baxter yesterday at a joint session of the legislature.

The new bill, which later was presented to the senate, provides that instead of the company buying the state lands on the Dead river at a price to be fixed by arbitration, it shall lease them for a period of 40 years at an annual rental of $25,000.

The other important change is that the company is to have the right to develop the possible 5000 horse power at the site of the construction dam in return for this rental fee. It also is provided that, if at the end of 40 years, the state does not take over the property, the lease shall be renewed for 20-year periods.

The new company is to be known as the Dead River Reservoir Co., and the bill repeals the Kennebec Reservoir Co. law, which was passed over the veto by the governor, who immediately caused petitions for a referendum to be circulated. Actual work must begin within 18 months.

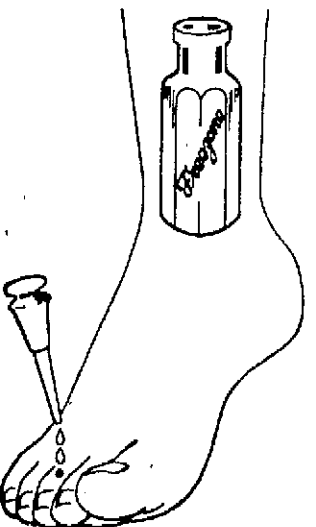

HAVE ALL HOLIDAYS FALL ON MONDAY

HONOLULU, April 6.—Complete dislocation of the calendar, at least so far as holidays in Hawaii are concerned, is sought in a bill introduced into the house of the territorial legislature by William J. Coelho.

The bill provides that each holiday observed in the territory, Christmas, Thanksgiving, Fourth of July, New Years and all others, shall be celebrated on the nearest Monday.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt! A little "Frazee" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly!

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Frazee" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

brated on Monday, and that it be declared the Monday nearest the date upon which it ordinarily would fall. The purpose, Coelho explained, is to provide "two days of feasting and rest every time a holiday comes along."

In another bill, Coelho suggests that certain dates be designated as the times at which historical events happened in Hawaii. He explained that no one now living can give testimony as to the exact dates of these occurrences, and that such dates must be established for the benefit of court proceedings.

WOMEN EXCEL MEN IN PAYING BILLS

LONDON, April 6.—The answer to the question of whether women have a higher moral sense than men will be found in the affirmative if the experience of the Carnegie trust for the universities of Scotland is taken as a deciding factor. The trust undertakes to provide funds for students wishing to enter colleges, and though they are under no obligation, they are expected to repay what money they can. Sir David Prain, at a recent meeting of the trustees, said that the number of women students who repaid their fees during 1922 was considerably larger than the number of men.

Last year 29 former students repaid $1,887 to the fund, making the total amount repaid $12,500, or one and a third per cent of the money advanced. It was brought out at the committee meeting that pre-war conditions had so far returned as to justify the committee in reducing the value of the annual scholarships from £200 to £150.

HOOD FARM COW WINS MEDAL OF MERIT

Sophie's Tormentor's Floss 387409 owned by Hood Farm, Inc., has qualified for an A.J.C.C. medal of merit. This great producer started her third official test at 5 years 4 months of age and in one year produced 16103 pounds of milk and 801.05 pounds of butter-fat. She met the qualifying requirements, carried calf 121 days during test and thus steps into the select class of medal of merit winners which to date numbers 46.

Floss has two other records, one as a senior two-year-old on which she produced 610.60 pounds of butter-fat and another as a junior four-year-old in which she produced 741.21 pounds of butter-fat making her a gold and silver medal cow.

Her sire, Sophie 19th's Tormentor 113302, is already a gold and silver medal bull, and at his daughter's showing to date it bids fair to make him a medal of merit also. Floss's dam is Sophie's Amsen 280759 with four official tests and former world's champion Jersey which she held on her record of 10000.07 pounds of butter-fat. She was the first world's champion Jersey with a record over 1000 pounds.

MUSIC SUPERVISORS CLEVELAND, April 6.—Music week, participated in by all vocal and instrumental organizations of Cleveland public schools, will begin here on April 8, in connection with the music supervisors' national conference. Everything relating to music and the teaching of music will be discussed by speakers. Walter Hammon, conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra, will deliver an address.

Itching Piles Druggists refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure itching, Blind, Bleeding or Prolapsing Piles. Stops Irritation, Soothes and Heals. The first application gives ease and rest. 60c.

Three thousand delegates from every state in the union will be entertained by a boys' chorus of one thousand voices. Davenport, Iowa, will send a boy's glee club and Grand Rapids, Mich., a school band and orchestra. The climax of the convention will be a music memory contest on April 13.

CHICKERING CENTENNIAL The Jonas Chickering centennial committee has selected Miss. Eddy Doherty, Guy Miller and Lee Patterson as the five pianists to play at its Symphony Hall concert in connection with the celebration. The date of the concert has been changed to Saturday afternoon, April 21, instead of April 22, as previously announced.

All five pianists are well known to Boston audiences. They represent a variety of style and it will be an unusual opportunity for a Boston audience to compare closely the methods of five artists of the first standing. Miss Eddy's playing is noted for its power and depth. Mr. Miller's for a dazzling brilliancy of execution, Mr. Doherty's virtuosity is coupled with the authority which comes of ripe experience both as an artist and composer. Messrs. Miller and Patterson, both products of the New England Conservatory of Music, are known here and abroad for their remarkable joint performances on two pianos, in most hands a rather insensitive medium.

WAGE INCREASE OF 70 CENTS PER DAY GRANTED TO WATER WORKS LABORERS

The board of public service yesterday afternoon voted an increase of 70 cents per day to water works laborers, or an advance from $4.50 to $5.20, which is an amount equal to the daily wage paid laborers of the street department.

A similar request was received on behalf of the ash division but because of insufficient money appropriated by the city council for this department, the public service board was obliged to defer action and recommend that the matter be taken up with the mayor and the council. It is the belief of the board that men in this department should be placed upon a footing equal with that of men in the street and water departments, but unless more money is forthcoming, it will be an impossibility.

On motion of Chairman Dennis J. Murphy the city engineer was instructed to advise the mayor and council by letter that the sum allotted to the ash division is at least $10,000 below the actual requirements and requesting an additional appropriation to allow the department to function and to provide for the increase in wages the board desires to grant.

Michael H. Harrington, at the head of the ash and waste collection department, spoke in favor of the proposition for his men and vigorously defended the nature and amount of work they are called upon to do.

The board explained that the request of the water department men could be granted without question, for this is wholly a revenue department, whereas the ash division is dependent entirely upon money provided for its maintenance and operation. The delegation from the ash division laborers included Murlagh Lyons, John Murray and Donald Paquette. At present men in this department are receiving $4.50 and $4.75 per day and the request is for a flat rate of $5.20.

Harry Prescott Graves, representing Dr. Maurice Fishman, appeared before the board relative to the removal of a portion of the fence which leads to the Central bridge on the Centralville end and near property recently purchased by Dr. Fishman. The request was granted. Joseph Fay appeared for the abatement of a sewer assessment in Mr. Pleasant street and it was referred to the law department for a ruling on the legality of the assessment.

James J. Gallagher, chairman of the city council, appeared relative to the widening of Hall and Allen streets and the city which will be taken by the board and the council committee next Thursday at 2 o'clock.

Edgar J. Brautigan of 15 Tenth street appeared for an abatement of a water bill of $77.10 and in the investigation it developed that most of the bill was charged before Mr. Brautigan entered the premises last September. The board voted to cut the bill 50 per cent.

George Morrison appeared with several pictures of snow removal apparatus, but no action was taken.

Councilor Frank K. Stearns asked for some consideration in the grading and paving of St. Pleasant street, Lewellyn street and part of Beacon street and it was referred to Superintendent of Streets Doherty.

George P. Bell and Joseph Hughes, representing a delegation from the Municipal Employees union, appeared relative to the pay of the water department, claiming inequality in several stages.

Chairman Murphy said the board believed in the stabilization of the wages with that of the street department and moved that the so-called laborers in the water department be advanced to $5.20 per day beginning Monday, April 9, and that the foremen be also advanced correspondingly. Mr. Leary seconded the motion and it was a unanimous vote in favor of the increase.

City Engineer Kearney reported that several loan orders had been prepared for submission to the city council and will go in at the next meeting of that body. They include the following orders: $50,000 for paving, $10,000 for sidewalk, $20,000 for macadam work and $60,000 for sewer construction.

VERY HIGH AND SCARCE

Lobsters Are Scarce as "Hens' Teeth"—Only Nine in Local Market

Would you like a lobster a la Newburg for supper?

Or a plain live broiled? Try and buy one!

The Lowell market was practically bare of the red crustaceans this morning. Most of the fish markets reported no lobsters in stock. One of the two largest food distributing concerns in the city had only a "red" or "live" to offer patrons today. The other popular trading place close by sported nine lobsters on two trays, and only nine. The price was 75 cents the pound.

Middlesex, Merrimack and Bridge streets fish markets were mourning short supplies or sporting "all out" signals.

It is declared by one and all to be the most severe lobster shortage ever known since the war put a damper on lobster pot operations along the Atlantic coastal lines.

The price of lobsters in Boston today mounted to an altitude which was not approached even during the orgy of price inflation in war time.

Fresh boiled lobsters are retailing in the Boston market territories for $1.85 per pound today, and in the smaller metropolitan markets from that figure upward. Live lobsters retail for $1.20. Wholesale dealers quoted live lobsters at $1 and boiled at $1.50.

Local marketmen say the present shortage is really unprecedented. Those interviewed this morning said it was not only impossible to secure adequate supplies, but any supplies at all today. This is the season when lobstermen are usually on the decline. The close season ended in Nova Scotia last month and under normal conditions there would be from 500 to 1500 of the 150-pound crates coming to Boston from Canada every week.

At present receipts from Maine coastal points are also at a very low ebb. The few new on the market come mostly from "pounders" where they have spent the winter. Lowell lobster distributors told The Sun today that ice conditions in the bay and inlet from Portland, Me., to the head of the Bay of Fundy are responsible for the present shortage. Lobster fishermen who have been tempted by the present high prices to put their traps, have lost their gear. In one or two instances they have also lost their lives.

TAX EXEMPTION UPHOLD

Decision of Justice Tierney Holding Law Unconstitutional Reversed

NEW YORK, April 6.—The appellate division of the supreme court unanimously reversed the decision of Justice Tierney who declared the state tax exemption building law unconstitutional.

GIRL CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., April 6.—A warrant has been issued here for the arrest of Miss Edith G. Birch, a 19-year-old bookkeeper, charging embezzlement of funds of the E. Higgins Co., book dealer. Officials of the company declare a shortage of between $12,000 and $15,000 has been found in Miss Birch's books. Miss Birch is alleged to have confessed. Three automobiles, expensive clothing and home furnishings, and unsecured loans to friends, are said by officers to have consumed most of the funds.

PROPOSES TO BRING OUT HIDDEN GOLD

PARIS, April 6.—Gold popularly supposed to be hoarded by the French in their traditional "woolen sock" would be drawn out of hiding to aid the government through a bill introduced in parliament by Deputy Mounier. He proposes that gold, which on the world market is worth more than three times the French paper money, should be taken by the government at twice its nominal value. This, he thinks, would give France additional sound money to stop the fall of the franc and strengthen the country's credit.

France called in all gold early in the war, and more than a billion and a half francs were obtained in this way. Many financial experts think, however, that the French, who have always preferred "hard money" to paper, must have kept most of their savings for a rainy day. France belongs to the Latin monetary union, with Belgium, Italy and Switzerland, and their moneys were interchangeable until differences in the exchange during the war naturally caused each country's money to travel homeward. After the war, France and Switzerland withdrew their silver from circulation in the other country.

How much gold the French still hoard seems to be a matter of speculation, for gold of other countries that circulated here before the war, may very likely still be here. Traffic in gold coins is a penal offense, yet the trade goes on, and from time to time offenders are caught buying or selling it for smuggling out of the country in order to benefit by the exchange.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS

Members of James A. Garfield, Women's Relief corps, entered a whist party at their rooms late yesterday afternoon, the affair being in charge of the president, Mrs. Alice Schofield. At a o'clock, supper was served and later a business session was held, during which the observance of Patriot's day was informally discussed. The meeting was brought to a close with the salute to the flag.

The Cream Pitcher

TODAY the Recipe Club column is devoted to the subject of vegetables. Because so few people actually realize the importance of plenty of vegetables in the diet. Children, especially, are sure to be finicky about eating them. And the ordinary homely vegetables like carrots and beets and cabbage and parsnips and turnips are too familiar to be exciting. But if you take pains in serving them, you will find them a wonderful addition to your menus. Serve at least one vegetable with both lunch and dinner.

In preparing vegetables for the table, remove all inedible portions and pare thin.

All green vegetables and tubers should be crisp and firm when put on to cook. If they are wilted, the vegetables should be soaked in very cold water to restore the crispness.

Vegetables that form heads—cabbage, cauliflower, lettuce and artichokes—should be turned head down in salted water to which a few tablespoons of vinegar have been added, to remove insects.

All vegetables except dried beans and peas should be cooked in boiling water. Strong flavored vegetables are often blanched or parboiled, then dropped in boiling water and cooked. Such vegetables should be cooked with the cover drawn to one side to allow the volatile gases formed in cooking to pass off in the steam. Vegetables cooked with good ventilation are much more wholesome.

Root vegetables may be cooked in a covered pan, but all green leaf vegetables should be cooked with the cover partly off—with green vegetables, this also preserves the color.

Avoid using more water in cooking vegetables than necessary. Add simply enough freshly boiling water to cover, allowing one teaspoon of salt to one quart of water. This may be added when vegetables are put in, except in case of the delicate green vegetables such as peas, spinach, etc.

In preparing a cream sauce to serve with vegetables—celery, peas, asparagus, etc.—substitute the liquor in which the vegetables were cooked for water in combining with the evaporated milk.

CREAM SAUCE

1/2 cups Borden's Evaporated Milk
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
Pepper

Melt butter, add flour, salt and pepper; stir until smooth, remove from fire and gradually add the cold liquid; return to the fire, stir constantly until boiling point is reached, then let simmer ten minutes.

Most vegetables are delicious served with hollandaise. Here is a simple recipe for hollandaise sauce that always turns out right.

MOCK HOLLANDAISE SAUCE

1 cup Borden's Evaporated Milk
1/2 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 egg yolks, well beaten

Melt the butter in the top of a double boiler. Add the flour. When well blended, gradually add the hot water and stir continuously until it thickens. Season with salt and cayenne. When ready to serve, add the evaporated milk to the egg yolks. Mix the sauce thoroughly with the milk and egg yolks. Reheat quickly. Remove from the fire. Add the lemon juice, a few drops at a time, and serve immediately.

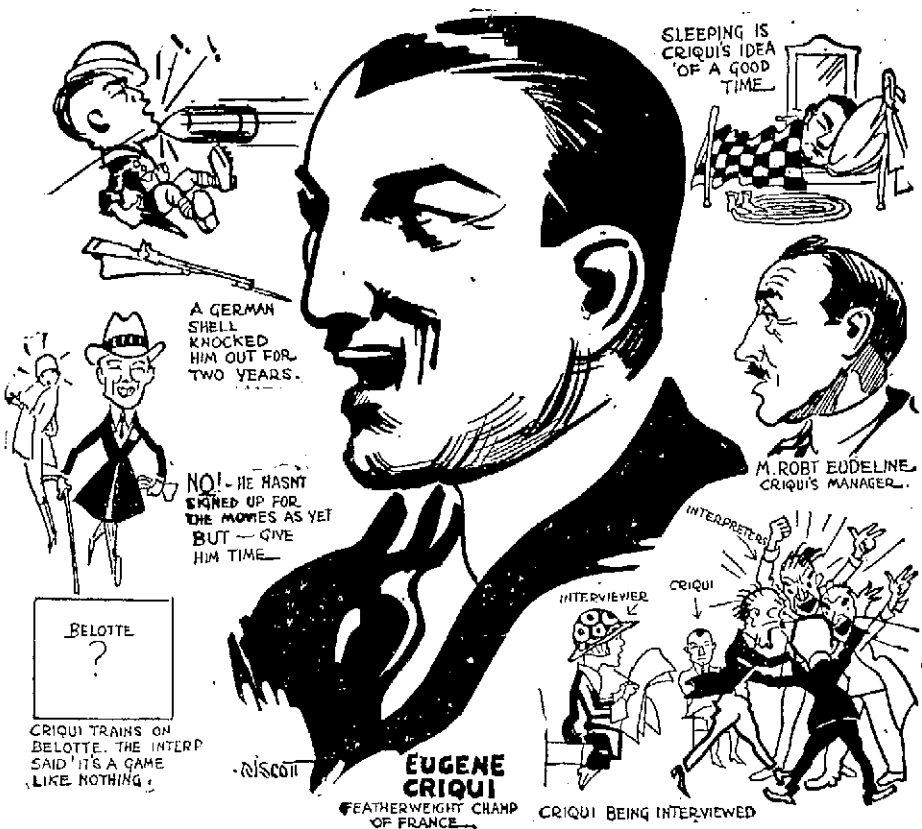

Mrs. Wm. E. Adams,
Charlotte, N. C.

Since the basis of these two sauces is milk, let us add a few words about Borden's Evaporated Milk. You will find it particularly successful for making creamed dishes. For it is the purest of country milk simply evaporated to double richness. And of course, it is much less expensive than double cream. Keep it in your kitchen for regular use.

These you found the Recipe Club yet? If not, write to Jane Elliot, about 11, Adams St., New York. For the initiation fee of $1.00 you can become a life member and get the famous Recipe Album. You are also invited to send us your best recipe to be printed in this column, with your name if you like.

Criqui Through the Feminine Eye

CRICUI TRAINS ON BELOTTE, THE INTERP SAID 'IT'S A GAME LIKE NOTHING.'

EUGENE CRICUI
FEATHERWEIGHT CHAMP OF FRANCE

CRICUI BEING INTERVIEWED

By JOSEPHINE VAN DER GILT
NEA Service Staff Writer
NEW YORK, April 4.—Who's showing the world how to be physically perfect?

Why, the prize fighter. And who's showing the world how to be morally perfect?

Why, the prize fighter. You might just as well come out and admit it. Take this Monsieur Criqui, for instance. Monsieur Criqui has come over here to shake hands with Johnny Kilbane, after which he expects to sew up the world's featherweight championship in a bag and take it back to La Belle France.

Would Monsieur Criqui stay out after curfew? Or play red dog for so much as a nickel limit? Or look twice on a piece of French pastry? (On Monsieur's life, he would not. What, bless your soul, he won't even one-step! His favorite music is Carmen.

Story of Criqui's Career
My parley with Criqui took place in the office of Dan McKetrick, local representative for Criqui, newly arrived in America, who sat meekly in a chair. His manager, Robert Eudeline, sat opposite. The four interpreters hopped excitedly about. "Well, me," I said in French to Criqui, "the story of your life." Criqui looked puzzled. The interpreters interpreted. Criqui began to speak. The four interpreters gasped wildly. Out of it all I was able to gather the following things about Criqui:

Criqui is 30 years old and weighs 120 pounds. His first official combat took place when he was 15 years old. It was a small affair of four rounds, but

Criqui was victorious and a grateful manager bestowed upon him the sum of 15 francs. Criqui blew in his winnings on the gang and straightway became a popular idol. Since that time he has taken part in 105 bouts and has won all but eight of them.

World War Hero
The official record of his battles does not include the late European conflict in which Criqui encountered a bullet which tore away the lower part of his jaw, disrupted 10 of his teeth, cruelly lacerated his tongue and finally emerged triumphantly at the back of his neck.

French surgeons pattered around with him, took out a piece of one of his ribs and used it to make Criqui a new jaw. Then they made him a new set of teeth. But for two years and more Criqui lay in the hospital, speechless and without hope.

Enter Monsieur Eudeline. "Courage," he whispered. Monsieur Eudeline, who had already seen something of what Criqui could do. Criqui look courage and staged the comeback which made him champion of Europe. Sleep is the most important item in Criqui's daily routine. He sleeps from eight to 10 hours and takes a short nap during the day. For breakfast he has "café au lait," cup of coffee. For luncheon and supper he has many, many vegetables and much red meat. Chicken he does not like. It has "too many bones." For an hour or so each afternoon he plays belotte with his trainer or sparring partners. But it is for recreation, not gain. There was a time before the war, of course. Criqui leaned back in his chair and smiled pleasantly at the recollection.

Hopes to Win Title
Criqui is slight, as befits a featherweight champion. His hair is slicked back into a neat pompadour. When I gave him he wore a soft shirt, a dark blue suit with a tiny red stripe running through it and very pointed soft brown shoes. In short, a modest, well-mannered, young man.

And has he much chance at the world championship? Ah, if a steady eye, a quick foot and a gentlemanly bearing have anything to do with it, he has. Take the word of Monsieur Robert Eudeline.

And anyway, there's this to be about it: If Monsieur Kilbane gets saucy and makes a few cutting remarks to Monsieur Criqui, Monsieur Criqui won't know a word that Mister Kilbane's saying. They do say that he has won many a battle by riling his opponent. Words will be wasted on Criqui.

KIDNEYS NEED LOTS OF WATER AT TIMES

If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers,
Also Take a Little Salts

Most folks forget that the kidneys like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then not function. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well known local druggist who sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year. Adv.

THE CADILLAC IS PROUD POSSESSION

The purchaser of a renewed Cadillac secures not only the advantages resulting from scientific design and accurate workmanship, but also the satisfaction of an owner being able to refer to his car as "My Cadillac."

The Cadillac is the car, which more than any other, is the choice of those who are able to buy any car.

The prices at which owners can sell their used Cadillac cars and the prices at which they can be purchased are largely a matter of the condition of the market. This works to the advantage of both the man with a Cadillac to sell and the prospective purchaser of a used Cadillac. The latter may have to pay a greater sum for the Cadillac than for a car of another make, but he gets more for his money. Automatically he is assured of a better market if he in turn wishes to dispose of the car.

A used Cadillac is good value no matter where it is obtained, but a purchaser will be more likely to get full value for his money if he buys a car from a Cadillac distributor or dealer. The Cadillac distributor is interested in the Cadillac car and in the purchaser. It is to his interest that Cadillac users get the best of service and satisfaction. It is to his interest that a used car be put in first class condition before it is placed on the market.

It is to the distributor's or dealer's interest that a purchaser is not disappointed in his belief that a renewed Cadillac will give him much greater actual automobile value than could be obtained in any new car of approximately the same price.

REV. D. W. HARTLEY AT THE PULPIT OF FORT GEORGE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, WITH THE RADIO RECEIVING SET BESIDE HIM.

Receiving Set in Small Church, Makes Services Complete

If your church has no organ, why not suggest the installation of a radio receiving set?

Thus, you may enjoy an organ recital from one of the greatest churches within a hundred miles or so, and sing your hymns to organ music, even though your congregation can't afford such an instrument.

That is actually being done. And many small town congregations are considering adopting the stunt for their own churches.

Rev. Lyman H. Hartley of Fort George Presbyterian church in New York, installed the radio device in his edifice. Every Sunday he listens to services and accompaniments broadcast by radio from St. Thomas' church, through one of the big broadcasting stations in the city.

Even the chimera are radio broadcast. Rev. Hartley had a loud speaker put outside the church and connected with the receiving instruments located in the choir loft.

When the chimera of St. Thomas are sung, the Fort George congregation hears them through the loud speaker.

Churchgoers will like this innovation. The whole service is found so minutely that the local pastor can't possibly keep his congregation over-time by any long-winded sermon.

Another step has been made toward personal wireless telephony.

It consists of a selective call transmitter and receiver, developed by Dr. Erich F. Huth of Berlin. By this combination of apparatus, a given station may be called up, to the exclusion of all others.

In this form of radio telephony is still crude and experimental. By it a receiving station is called up and while conversation is going on between the transmitting and receiving station, none of the other stations included in the system can interfere or call another station.

The calls are made by time signals, each station having its own time call.

For instance, when there is a quarter-minute buzz—in all the receivers on the station—Station A is being called. Station B is called with a half-minute buzz, and so on.

To make these different calls, a dial on the transmitting apparatus is adjusted according to the time it is desired to buzz. That sets the wave length for transmission and reception and there is no need of adjusting dials at either end, except take up the receiving instrument.

The next step in personal radio telephony is the division of wave lengths so there will be no interference among stations and no stations will have to take turns calling.

Kuehn, 28, deaf-mute, was the subject of the experiment. Receivers were clamped on Kuehn's ears. The radio frequency was amplified 20 times. A strange light came into Kuehn's eyes. He heard! Not only music but voices! "Then he spoke the first words he had ever spoken. The words were: 'Holy, holy, holy!'" And before the evening had passed Kuehn had mastered half a dozen words. Physicians looked on amazed. "Kuehn never will regain his hearing," they said. "But radio will teach him to speak." Kuehn has ordered a powerful radio set.

TWO PICTURES OF MANN SCHOOL BUILDING, SHOWING GAPING HOLES IN ROOF

Last night, for the second time within a period of two weeks, the city of Lowell suffered a disastrous fire loss when the two upper floors of the Mann school, now occupied by the Boys' Vocational school, were gutted by flames, the roof destroyed and other floors of the building and equipment seriously damaged by smoke and water. Two alarms were sounded for the fire, the first at 10.10 p. m., and it was three hours later, or at 1.07 a. m. that the recall sent apparatus back to quarters. An estimate of the loss by school department officials familiar with the building and its contents is in the neighborhood of $40,000. As far as can be learned, the fire had its origin in the attic of the main school building. One cause mentioned as possible was that lightning during the electric storm struck wires and ran into the building, while an unconfirmed rumor was to the effect that a person was seen coming out of the front door of the building just before the fire was discovered. Because of its heavy brick construction the fire was difficult to fight and a further handicap was the presence of dense clouds of heavy smoke that entirely blotted out the forms of firemen working in the rear of the building. The department fought to keep the fire confined to the attic and second floor and was successful, although in the process the entire building was water soaked. At no time did the fire get into the wooden annex or the frame section of the school which fronts on Broadway.

but it necessitated only the hardest kind of work to restrict its spread. On the first floor of the main building was located the automobile repair department and at the time there were eight or ten machines in there for repairs, but as the fire did not eat below the second floor, damage by water was the only toll exacted there. On the second floor is the wood working room and stock room. The contents of the machine room of the wood working department and the stock room were practically destroyed. Two firemen, James P. McCready of Hose 8, and Paul Healy of Engine 2, were cut by flying glass and were given medical attention at the fire. The fire did not disrupt the sessions of the school this morning, for as it happened the carpentry and cabinet making classes are engaged in outside jobs and the rooms in which other classes meet were available for use as usual after a little mopping up.

The Middlesex Pomona

North Pomona grange that contained many new facts. The organization was formed by 16 men and women on January 20, 1900, at a meeting held in the parlors of the old Merrimack house, this city. Later the grange met in Union hall, and then for the remainder of the period up to the present time, has met regularly in Odd Fellows hall, Centralville. Among the "historians" and original members present today as guests and speakers, were George W. Trull of Tewksbury and Fred L. Fletcher, charter members and always active in grange affairs in city, town and state. Their reviews of past experiences and grange happenings, covered reminiscences also of former members of the grange who passed on.

Prof. Joseph Dunner of Rowley, a prominent member of Essex county Pomona, was also speaker, and boomed the silver cup membership contest now raging and attracting much interest among grangers of the state. This grange winning the cup three years in succession becomes permanent possessor of the trophy. Samuel Taylor, elderly member of the Pomona and always a regular visitor to the Lowell meetings, occupied the floor just before noon recess, speaking upon "Current Events." Norman L. Peasey, Mrs. Julia Fletcher and James McManman also spoke this morning on Pomona historical affairs.

Afternoon Session

This afternoon the program was most entertaining from the standpoint of members from each town district. Prof. Frank Waugh of the Massachusetts Agricultural college, Amherst, gave a lecture of import on modern forestry. Discussion was allowed after the talk.

The entertainment included duets by Mrs. Florence Sims and Mrs. Mary E. Bennett, one selection entitled "The Old Man's Dream." Miss Miss Priscilla in best bib and tucker and smiling eyes, gave the "Silver Ball" dance in graceful fashion and responded to cheers by giving two readings, "The Masquerade" and "The Monkey Man." The Burlington grangers who provided the delightful dinner in the banquet hall this noon included Mrs. Edward D. Bennett, chairman; Mrs. Guy E. Reed, Mrs. Fred Richardson, Mrs. Mary E. Bennett, Mrs. Florence Sims, Mrs. Charles Gill and Mr. Charles Wright—the latter assisting in the Day.

MISS LEYLA BARAKAT

By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT
N.E.A. Service Staff Writer
NEW YORK, April 5.—Was the spirit of King Tutankhamen reincarnated in the spider that bit Lord Carnarvon and gave an almost fatal blood poisoning to the English explorer?
Absurd, say modern prosaic Americans.
Not at all, says beautiful Leyla Barakat, whose ancestors in centuries gone by were ruled over by this same Tutankhamen.
"Such a happening would be perfectly consistent with the old Egyptian faith," she says.
"The Egyptian Book of the Dead devotes one whole chapter to giving the formula whereby souls of the dead may be converted into the forms of any animals they choose—the hawk, the crocodile, the hawk. What would prevent Tutankhamen from turning himself into a spider if he chose?"

"Certain it is that the ancient Egyptians promised all sorts of dire things to the despoilers of their tombs. A sentence of death was passed upon anyone who should be so foolhardy as to eat the food that was placed in the tomb for the use of the dead."

"That was because the soul of the dead was expected to revisit the tomb regularly and somehow subsist on the food that was placed there. At other times the soul was supposed to take the form of a bird or animal and go about over the country. Eventually it would come back and reanimate the body.

"That was why they mummified the bodies and preserved them so carefully."

"Now if Lord Carnarvon and his explorers by despoiling the tomb disturb Tutankhamen's rest and make it impossible that he shall ever reanimate his body, isn't it logical that the soul of Tutankhamen would be revengeful and that he would be moved to take such measures as lay in the spider's bite or to assume the form of the peculiar incubus that brought sudden and mysterious illness to the Countess of Carnarvon on her way to her husband's bedside?"

"At any rate, that is the way the old Egyptian faith would explain it."

But does the beautiful Leyla Barakat, who three years ago came from Cairo to the United States believe this?

Ah, no! Her ancestors long ago gave up the picturesque Egyptian faith for the more logical workings of Christianity.

Miss Barakat was educated in a

Christian college at Cairo, spent a number of years on the continent and is now living in the United States.

JUNGLE DEATH WATCH IN TOLEDO ZOO

TOLEDO, April 5.—A jungle death watch, overwhelming in its tenderness, yet awe-inspiring in its savage intensity, has terminated after four days in the lion house of the Walbridge park zoo here.

The watchers were Sahara, the beautiful lioness lent to Toledo by the Cleveland zoo, and King, the jungle giant, pride of the Toledo collection.

Between Sahara's two powerful forepaws, caressed tenderly at intervals and guarded by two half-closed eyes, dimmed by grief, were two chubby, fuzzy cubs—both lifeless.

Sahara would not believe they were dead—or knowing it, could not calm the overwhelming urge of mother love that had aroused all the tenderness, and yet all of the savagery, of her jungle nature. Only an occasional whim escaped the lioness to indicate her grief.

For four days the death watch was maintained—after the great stork of the lion world flew over the animal house and left the lifeless bodies of a lion son and daughter.

Crouched, ready to spring at the first sign of danger, Sahara hardly moved a muscle during her long vigil. Now and then she smoothed the fur on their little bodies with her tongue, and again she caressed tenderly the still faces. Only twice did she leave them—when Keeper Louis Scherer anxious to put an end to the heart-rending watch, entered the lion house to see if there was an opportunity to remove the two bodies.

On both occasions Sahara, in a terrible rage, sprang fiercely, sealing the great iron bars of her cage in an effort to drive off the intruder.

King, in a frenzy such as Scherer

never had seen him display since he took him as a cub to rear, tried to get at his keeper, frothing at the mouth and sending forth the terrorizing roar of the enraged jungle master.

"It was the old call to protect the young," Scherer said. "There was no use in trying to take the lifeless cubs away from Sahara."

So the big lion house was locked to all but the keepers. Sahara was permitted to keep her death watch undisturbed until that mysterious healer of animal heartaches stole quietly into this mother's grief-stricken consciousness with that instinctive knowledge of the hopelessness of the struggle, when she permitted the bodies to be removed by the keeper.

AMER MINES LACK CAPITAL.

VLADIVOSTOK, April 5.—The government still is in search of foreign capital to work the natural riches of the Primorje region, and foreigners may take up concessions on advantageous terms.

A significant fact is that there are more Japanese coming into this port than are leaving. Some American miners from Alaska also have come to Vladivostok with money, and intend to take up gold mining in the Okhotsk and other districts where gold is known to exist.

SCHOOL BOARD FAVORS NEW BUILDING TO REPLACE EDSON SCHOOL

Votes to Request Municipal Council to Petition Legislature for Permission to Borrow $700,000 Outside City's Debt Limit—Committeeman Delaney and Supt. Molloy Clash Over Statement Prepared and Read by the Superintendent

The members of the school board at a special meeting last night, voted to request the municipal council to petition the legislature for permission to borrow $700,000 outside the city's debt limit for the erection of a new school building in the South End district to replace the Edson school that has been condemned by the superintendent of public buildings. The board also went on record as being opposed to the plan proposed by Thomas B. Delaney, which called for the purchase of the 1 1/2 block building in Thorndike street, for vocational school purposes and the centralizing of the junior high schools into the high school annex in Paige street.

Present at the meeting were members of the finance committee of the city council as well as Representatives Henry Achin, Owen E. Brennan and Charles H. Stowey. Representative Thomas F. Corbett was present in the early part of the evening, but he did not remain.

In the course of the meeting Mr. Delaney and Supt. Molloy engaged in a verbal clash over part of a statement submitted by Mr. Molloy relative to the proposed purchase of the Thorndike building in which it was hinted that the only good derived from such a proposition would be the disposition of the building. Mr. Delaney objected to the statement on the ground that it reflected upon his character and demanded an apology and also that that part of the statement be stricken out. Mr. Delaney took occasion to inform the superintendent that it would be better for him to look after the welfare of the schools rather than sit down and prepare a lengthy statement that was uncalculated for.

Supt. Molloy's Statement

The meeting was opened at 8 o'clock by Mayor Donovan, who stated the purpose of the gathering. Shortly afterward Supt. Molloy read a lengthy prepared statement bearing upon the so-called Thorndike building proposition and the proposed new South End school. The statement was as follows:

Lowell, Mass., April 5, 1923.
To the Members of the School Committee:

The proposition advanced at the meeting of the school committee on March 27, to buy the Thorndike property in Thorndike street, to move to it the vocational school and the continuation school which are now housed in the high school annex in Paige street and to gather together in the high school annex the seventh, eighth and ninth grades of the schools of the city for a central junior high school organization is a most remarkable proposition. In the first place it is somewhat remarkable that so sweeping a change should be proposed without any inquiry as to the opinion of the superintendent of education. It is also remarkable for the reason that so far as the junior high school organization is concerned it is neither well-advised nor practicable.

In dealing with a large question of school administration in a city like Lowell it will be admitted, I think, that the opinion of the superintendent of schools is entitled to much consideration, particularly when the opinion is backed by facts and reason.

We are concerned at the present time with the proposal to provide new and adequate school accommodations in the Edson school district, accommodations which have been sorely needed for a long time.

We are also concerned in the development which has been going on for nearly three years and which has made plan of junior high school organization has been developed very slowly and conservatively and practically everything which has been done in connection with it has had up to this time unanimous support and approval from successive school committees.

I do not intend at this time and in this place to discuss at length the organization of our schools on the so-called 6-3-3 or junior high school plan with the elimination, in time, of the ninth grade; a report was submitted on these matters in December, 1919, which, in its principal features, is a good report today and by which I stand without evasion or subterfuge. It must be remembered that no two cities furnish identical problems, and it must be remembered also that certain large changes in a school system take us into what is more or less unexplored territory. The point I wish to make is that while experience and working-out conditions have led to some minor variations in the development of the junior high school organization we have attempted to follow in a large way all the important things which were set forth in the report of 1919. We have sought to profit by the experience gained in other cities and we have deviated from established lines of procedure only in minor details and to meet local conditions.

school organization; the Morley school is nearing the end of its second year. The additions, by the way, which were made in recent years to these two schools were not made as a part of a junior high school plan but had been projected or planned before any consideration of junior high school organization was entered upon. Remarkably good progress has been made in these two schools and they rank very high as school organizations, no matter with what schools they may be compared. With very few additional facilities and with very slight additional school accommodations these two schools will be fine and complete organizations in every respect. With respect to these schools, so far as junior high school organization is concerned, we are in the position of the man who has entered upon the remodeling of his house and has advanced more than half way toward the completion of the work; it is too late to think of making a change except for very peremptory and convincing reasons.

1.—With respect to the Thorndike property in Thorndike street, I have been reliably informed that the price of the property is $250,000. I hardly think, if I were to be held responsible by the people of Lowell for the decision, that I should recommend the taking of this property at any price for school purposes. But, so far as the Vocational and Continuation schools are concerned, we should have a very expensive proposition, starting with an outlay of $250,000. The Continuation school and the girls' Vocational school are located most conveniently and satisfactorily at the present time where they are. An adequate building could be erected for the boys' Vocational school for a much less sum than $250,000.

2.—Insofar as the proposition has to do with a central junior high school organization, let me first mention the fact that the seventh, eighth and ninth grade pupils of our schools are about 2600 in number and constitute a much larger group than the present central high school; the annex in Paige street would not properly serve the needs of one-half the number.

3.—We have sought so far in Lowell in the organizing of junior high school centers to avoid what has been one of the worst features of any centrally located high school, the one-session day. We have been able in junior centers which have been established so far to maintain a long two-session school day for nearly all the pupils.

evation in this discussion is the future of the high school. Erected and opened in September, 1922, years after the need of increased high school room had been admitted by everybody, the school will soon be filled to capacity if it is to continue to house the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes in its entirety. We shall need in the near future more room in some place or places for high school pupils. Now, what board-

What a Well-known Man Says About It

Home, N. Y.—"I am glad indeed to relate the wonderful experience I have had with Doctor Pierce's Auric Tablets and Buckwheat Tonic. Some time ago I began to suffer in my shoulders and shifted down my arms into my hands, and they swelled and became so stiff that I could scarcely grip or lift anything. The pains also went down into my hips and lower limbs and the joints became stiff so that I could not get around to do my work. I was so bad that I was contemplating the selling out of my business, thinking I was not going to get better, when I saw the Auric Tablets advertised and decided to give them a trial. The swelling soon left my hands and I could use them as before; the stiffness left my joints, also; the pains, and I was again attending to my work as I did before I had the attack. I consider 'Auric' a most excellent medicine for rheumatic conditions."—John E. Drake, 307 N. James street.

THREE NEW MEMBERS ELECTED TO EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE AT VESPER CLUB MEETING

At the annual meeting of the Vesper Club held at the Island last night, H. H. Parker, Judge John C. Leggat and Albert D. Milliken were elected members of the executive committee for three-year terms.

The annual dinner always is significant because of the fact that it marks the opening of the spring and summer season after a long, cold, dreary winter and the meeting certainly forecasted a year of splendid activity and progress. Included in the annual report of Secretary Andrew G. Swapp was an expression of sincere regret that the year had brought the death of Alex Ellis, golf professional at the club and also he paid tribute to the memory of members who had died since the meeting of a year ago.

The business session was presided over by Harry G. Pollard and in addition to the report of the secretary, the annual report of Treasurer Arthur J. Murkland was read. It showed the membership of the club at 954 and a net profit for the year 1922 of $209,255. Earnings were $44,751.71 and expenses, $42,159.12. The new club locker building is completed at a cost of $41,433.93 and will become a most welcome and usable addition to the club property. Most favorable comment was heard on every side relative to the state amateur golf tournament to be played over the Vesper course on June 27-30.

HARRY G. POLLARD, President
The entertainment of vaudeville type was particularly good and was in charge of Alvah H. Weaver.

School Board Favors New Building

This plan has upon the graduates of private schools in the city who wish to enter the high school or upon graduates of elementary schools of other towns or cities who wish to enter the high school. This is the answer: "It will be necessary for many years, it not always, to maintain a freshman class in the high school and, in my opinion, it will always be a class of reasonable size so that ample provision can be made in the high school for pupils who have skill to do the work of the freshman year."

8.—It would seem to me that in the discussion of a new building for the Edison district we must first decide the purpose for which the school is to be built and the number and character of the classes which it is to accommodate. Before that can be done it will be necessary to decide just how far and how wisely the Butler center can be used for a junior center for the South End district. We should consider the discontinuance of some or all of the smaller school buildings in that district. The Elliot, Charles street, Colburn primary, Colburn grammar, Ames street, Central street, Lyon street, and Edison schools have at the present time 44 school rooms. It will be necessary to keep some of these buildings or build a much larger central school than the one proposed at present. I am not ready at the present time to advise the city of Lowell to expend one-half a million dollars on this project. I have recommended from the beginning that a careful and thoughtful study of this situation should be made and I believe now that hasty action may be very unwise action.

9.—In facing this problem which is now before us, I believe that a very distinct and comprehensive plan should be set forth openly and plainly and that freest and fullest opportunity should be proposed, that all the facts and arguments which support it should be given for the discussion of the plan in all its details. I am certain that there are many persons who are interested in this very important matter who should be given every opportunity to be heard.

I have prepared this statement somewhat hastily in order to be ready for this meeting. I am satisfied, however, that my statements and reasoning will stand the test of the coming years in local school affairs. The superintendent cannot evade the responsibility he owes to the schools and the people who maintain them, and he feels bound, to submit in writing his best professional opinion on any important matter so that there may be no uncertainty as to his position and views.

Respectfully submitted,
HUGH J. HOLLOLY,
Superintendent of Schools.

Price of Hood Building
After the reading of the statement Mr. Delaney called attention to the price of the Hood building as mentioned in the statement and said the building can be leased by the city by right of eminent domain at a cost of not more than $140,000. "That is a long way from $350,000 as mentioned in the superintendent's report," he said. Continuing Mr. Delaney asked that the statement relative to the Hood building in which it was stated that the only interest was in the disposition of the building, "I will not allow any one to question my motive," he said, "and I demand that that part of the statement be stricken out."

Mr. Molloy attempted to reply to Mr. Delaney's remarks, but the latter objected, saying that part of the statement could have utilized his time better by looking after the welfare of the schools instead of sitting down and preparing a lengthy statement which was not called for by any member of the board.

For the benefit of Mr. Bruin, Mr. Molloy again read that part of the statement objected to by Mr. Delaney and Mr. Delaney, after jumping to his feet again, declared that the statement questioned his motive. "I will say right here that I am not interested in the sale of the Hood building," he said, "and for the benefit of the board I will say that a few days ago I received a letter from the agents of the building in which it was stated that the building could not be purchased for less than $350,000, but the city may seize it for $140,000."

Relative to the junior high school, Mr. Delaney said he is not an authority on the matter and he further stated that before the system was instituted in this city, Mr. Molloy was not in a position to state whether or not it was a good proposition. "In Boston," he said, "the junior high school takes a radius of four miles and there is no complaint. Here in Lowell, the parochial school children walk from one end of the city to the other and there is no complaint."

Mr. Delaney then stated that the superintendent has the assistance of an office force, has the leisure of the day and is well educated and is strong on written statements, but with all his facilities and ability, he has never looked into the South End school proposition.

Mr. Bruin said it was only a case where the superintendent and Mr. Delaney differed in opinion and he finally stated that he is opposed to the purchase or seizure of the Hood building. At this point Mr. Delaney moved that the statement of the superintendent be placed on file.

Mr. Riley said he would not approve a change in the junior high school at this time because it was the desire of the parents to have their children attend school near their home, and he further stated that in his opinion the high school annex if used as a junior high school, would soon be overcrowded.

Mr. Slaughter in Favor
Mr. Slaughter thought the purchase of the Hood building would be a good buy for the city. She said it would be an ideal place for vocational work. She made reference to a number of the grammar schools that are overcrowded and said the boys could fit up the Hood building and the Mann school could be equipped for a primary school.

At this point Mr. Bruin offered an amendment to Mr. Delaney's motion, to wit: That the superintendent's report be placed on file as the board deems it inadvisable to purchase the Hood property.

Before action was taken on the amendment Mr. Delaney asked Business Agent Williams the cost per room for the erection of a vocational school and the reply was $50,000. Mr. Delaney then entered into a discussion of the cost of equipping such a building, but he was interrupted by the mayor, who stated that enough had been said on the Hood property. "The purpose of this meeting," said Mr. Delaney, "is to discuss the South End proposition."

"But you have entertained my motion and Mr. Bruin's amendment," said Mr. Delaney.

"We all know what you are talking about," said the mayor, "and we are all ready to vote on the matter. We don't want to stay here all night." Mr. Delaney—"You may kill the proposition, but kill it honestly."

At this point a discussion arose as to the real purpose of the meeting and the superintendent was requested to read a copy of the notice served on the members favored taking action on the Hood proposition right away. Mr. Mullin said the Hood proposition had no bearing whatever on the South End matter. Dr. Slaughter said according to the rules of the board no other action but that mentioned in the notice should be taken up. The legality of the amendment offered by Mr. Bruin was then questioned and the mayor ruled it in order. Mr. Delaney protesting. A vote was then taken relative to the mayor's ruling, with the following result: Mr. Bruin, Mr. Riley, Mrs. Pearson and the mayor voting in the affirmative and Messrs. Delaney, Mullin and Dr. Slaughter not voting.

The amendment was then voted upon and carried, the vote being similar to that on the last measure. Mr. Delaney then moved that a copy of the vote be sent to the city solicitor for an opinion as to its legality and this motion was defeated. Mr. Bruin, Mrs. Pearson, Mr. Riley and the mayor voting in the negative, while Mr. Delaney and Dr. Slaughter voted in the affirmative. Mr. Mullin was recorded as not voting.

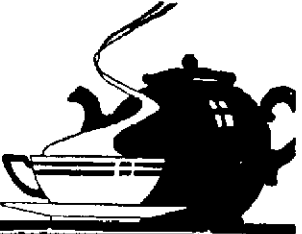

South End School
The Hood matter was then dropped and the members of the board took up the proposed South End school. Dr. Slaughter, chairman of the special committee appointed to look into the matter, submitted a report of the committee with a recommendation that a 35-room school be erected in the district at a cost not to exceed $700,000. Councillor Gallagher, chairman of the committee on finances, submitted a report of the city's finances and said the erection of a $700,000 school building was out of the question unless the city received permission from the legislature to borrow outside the debt limit.

Mr. Delaney said something must be done and right away in the South End district, and he recommended the adoption of the committee's recommendation.

Rep. Achin stated that the legislature has treated Lowell very generously during the past few years in authorizing the city to borrow $2,000,000 for the high school and $1,000,000 for the Auditorium, outside the debt limit. "The legislature is planning to adjourn May 15," he continued, "and all matters must be reported not later than next Wednesday." A Rep. Slower said the legislative committee would not consider any new matter at this time unless it was of an extreme emergency. Rep. Brennan expressed himself in a similar way.

Councillor Stearns, of the finance committee stated that in his opinion, the Edson school should be put in shape. Councillor Cosgrove took occasion to compliment the board for the rapidity with which business is transacted at meetings and said Lowell should be proud to have such a capable board. He argued in favor of a new school for the South End, saying that the only municipal building south of Middlesex street is the poor farm. Councillor Hennessey said he did not favor repairing the Edson school, but was in favor of a new building. After more discussion it was finally voted to request the city council to petition the legislature for permission to borrow $700,000 beyond the debt limit for school purposes. Adjournment was taken at 3:35 o'clock.

This Woman's Guess Pays
Her $10,000 a Week

ANNE NICHOLS

By N.E.A. Service
NEW YORK, April 4.—How does it seem to be one of "The-Only-in-the-World?" Here's a story about a young woman who is so many "onlys" it takes your breath away.
Anne Nichols, not yet 30, is the only woman in the world—
Who has an income of approximately $10,000 a week from her own individual work—
Who is theatrical producer, director and playwright—
Who started her last cent that critics were wrong when they said her show was terrible—
Who now sees her show approaching a year's run on Broadway—
Who has six other companies touring America and another preparing in London—
Who has made a fortune answering the riddle: "What does the public want?"—
Who is far too good looking, according to tradition, for a clever woman. And besides all this she is the devoted mother of a four-year-old boy. All of which is a pretty remarkable record of "Onlys."
Now as to the Why and How.
Anne Nichols says:
"The first thing a woman must learn

is to have the courage of her convictions.
"Accept advice but don't use it if it's contrary to your inherent belief in yourself. Never fear for yourself—let the other fellow be afraid. Advice is the cheapest thing in the world and many a great success has been wrecked on the rocks of failure through the indecision that comes from too much advice.
"Remember there is no sex in brains or business.
"Don't be afraid of criticism. I started out to be a leading lady but had to begin in the chorus. When the girls poked fun at me for taking my future seriously I used to meditate: 'Poor things, they'll still be here when I've gone on.'
"When you've got something you feel the public wants, whether it's a drama or a laced food, don't give up till you've taken it to the public to judge.
"A play that makes people laugh is a successful play. A diaphragm laugh is good for the digestion and we all know the human stomach plays an important part in the destinies of nations as well as individuals.
"Motherhood and a career? Of course they go together. A mother

Sore Throat

NEARLY all forms of sore throat are due to germ infection. Prompt relief therefore cannot be obtained without the use of a powerful germicide.

Although more powerful in the presence of saliva than pure Carbolic Acid, Zonite can be freely used as a gargle or throat spray at sufficient strength to destroy all disease germs with which it comes in contact.

The promptness with which Zonite relieves most throat affections has been a complete revelation to tens of thousands of users of this new form of antiseptic.

Although non-poisonous and harmless to the delicate membranes of the throat, Zonite is 60 times as powerful as Peroxide of Hydrogen, 725 times as powerful as Dobell's Solution and more than 100 times as efficient as the so-called "mild" antiseptics and gargles heretofore in general use.

PAWTUCKET FALLS IN SPRINGTIME

foot depth over the cap of the dam. At 11 o'clock this morning, Locks and Canals engineers, keeping close tabs on the high-water records, reported a full foot higher water than yesterday's rise of twelve inches.

The mass of ice that came down this morning from many miles above Lowell, first appeared to be solidly passed. The waters at Pawtucket dam were so deep at one time that the flow over the dam appeared to be nearly level, but the masses of ice caused this false appearance.

At 8 a. m. a great many of the largest floes of upper river ice floes had tumbled over the dam down the river on their way to the ocean.

None of the new flash-boards, three feet in width all along the dam, were swept away, as had been feared when the ice went out. The picture of the rushing stream this morning as it came down to Pawtucket dam and swept over in a fancy curve that appeared to be as smooth as silk and without a noticeable break at any time except when ice floes stirred up the stream and created tons of white water froth, was a delight to young and old, thousands watching the "ice run" and keeping tabs on debris coming down the river.

The current appeared to be faster than ever this morning, and the roar of the waters over the dam today can be heard for miles.

Dozens of newly-cut spruce logs appeared shortly before 7 o'clock in the ice barrage and were carried quickly over the dam and down the river. The "valley" in the vicinity of the Moody street bridge was filled with turbulent waters, top-floored into heavy foam by the rock-filled channel.

Some of the logs from the upper Merrimack reaches had been torn away from mooring places in caves and shelves near New Hampshire wood-tops, and some up-country lumbermen, today mourning the loss of many thousand feet of new lumber as a result of the river's antics.

The 12 big "sentinel" rocks of the glacial period, that are always objects of peculiar interest to curious spectators in the big basin between Pawtucket bridge and the long dam, were completely inundated by the high waters this morning, with one exception—

"Old Jackson."

Just where this tallest, reddish-colored "mountain" that appears to contain iron pyrites in streaks on top and sides and is shaped somewhat like our good friend Mt. Vesuvius or Aetna, got its famous title—"Old Jackson"—is not known, but that's what King Courtney of the gate-keeper's fort at Pawtucket dam calls it, and every small boy on Varnum avenue and Mammoth road knows the old "sentinel" rock in the dam basin by that name as well.

The top of "Old Jackson" is on a level with the top of the Pawtucket dam. When the water rises that far, you know what happens.

Just before 8 o'clock this morning, a big river flat-bottom scow, nearly new and hatched "Parnassus" or "Parnassus," as it looked from the bridge to a Lowell policeman, came riding gaily down stream on top of a four-foot ice floe, some six feet long. Another flock of river ice just above the flash-boards of the dam and overturned on the water curve as it went down into the whirlpools below. Some up-river fishermen is wondering where it is today beyond a doubt.

Information seekers, always given cordial treatment at the Locks and Canals office on Broadway when they have any real business, were informed at noon today that the two-foot rise in the river water since yesterday morning and including the foot recorded yesterday, doesn't mean "high waters" in the usual sense of those common words.

Here are the figures for this morning:

31,200 second-feet of water at the big dam—meaning the pouring over the Pawtucket obstruction-way of just 31,200 cubic feet of water per second, every second and so forth. The Booth mill registration point also records a similar increase for the day.

Today's record shows an increase in the engineers' official readings of just 12,400 second-feet.

While heavy rains throughout the northern part of New Hampshire have swollen the Merrimack river and its tributaries to flood proportions, the first up-river dam of the spring freshet was reported to the Locks and Canals offices this morning. One of the underpinnings of the first Hookset, N. H., bridge of the Boston & Maine railroad gave way under the battering of ice cakes.

Workmen were posted at this bridge and other wooden structures of the railroad in that vicinity as a precautionary measure.

No trains were sent across the bridge last night, traffic on the Manchester-Suncook Valley branch being diverted through Concord, N. H.

This same bridge has always been a source of trouble during the high water period of the river. Locks and Canals engineers told The Sun today. Supports of the structure have frequently given way under the pressure of water and broken ice.

On the Claremont branch of the Boston & Maine, workmen last night and today were guarding the region near Roby's, so called, where it was feared that water might undermine the tracks.

Last year on this branch, not far from the Sunapee station, a freight train plunged through the rails weakened in this manner, with a loss of three lives, as Lowell citizens will remember.

Engineers told The Sun this morning that they expect the Merrimack to reach its highest "rise" this morning.

INFLAMMATORY REPORTS SPREAD BY DRUM TALK

LONDON, April 6.—"Broadcasting" a system of communication without wires which preceded radio transmission by many years on the dark continent, is held largely responsible for the ever-increasing agitation among the negroes in Africa. Broadcasting, or long distance transmission, is accomplished by means of drums, the messages being relayed over tremendous distances with great rapidity.

By "drum talk" news of the approaching visit of American notables to Marshal Lyautey in Morocco, was learned on the upper Volta about three hours after it was published in Paris. News of the death of great chiefs and warnings of approaching danger are sent in this way, and also the native propaganda which is said to be promoting unrest in eastern, western and southern Africa.

Agitation in a form resembling bolshevism has appeared in East Africa and sentiment favorable to the nationalist movement started by Marcus Garvey is rampant in Liberia, while the troubles in French West Africa recently required military suppression. Much of this agitation is said to be due to inflammatory reports spread among the tribes by drum talk.

MOURN DEATH OF CARNARVON

London Papers Emphasize Loss Egyptology Has Suffered in Untimely Death

Deprecate Foolish Suggestion
That Malign Occult Influences Contributed to Death

LONDON, April 6. (By the Associated Press).—The untimely death of the Earl of Carnarvon before he could reap the full harvest of his Egyptian discoveries appeals deeply to popular sympathy here and many appreciative editorial and obituary notices appear in the press today.

These articles emphasize among other things the loss which Egyptology has suffered in the death of the man who brought to it energy, enterprise and wealth.

The newspapers deprecate what all sober commentators regard as the foolish suggestion that malign occult influences contributed to the earl's death. All the despatches from Cairo agree essentially as to his illness and its cause. No statement by physicians has been received and inasmuch as there seems to be nothing unusual to report, none is expected.

The late earl's friends here believe that his health suffered from his activities connected with the work at King Tutankhamun's tomb. To this was added the excitement and worry following the great discovery with the result that he became weakened physically and was therefore less able to resist the attack of illness that proved fatal.

Carnarvon is credited with having said recently that he was "worried to death" by the countless telegrams, letters and requests of all kinds from archaeologists and learned societies.

The disposition of the late earl's rare collection of antiquities as his country seat has already become a question of public interest. Recognized as one of the most important private collections in the world, the Carnarvon treasures include many rarities of all periods several of which were purchased at very high prices. The gem of the collection is said to be a portrait statuette of Thothmes III, which was found in Egypt during the war by native excavators. Carnarvon paid some thousand pounds for the little treasure. It is about seven inches in height and is made of solid gold. It dates back to approximately 1550 B.C. Whether the earl disposes of his collection in his will is unknown, but the hope is expressed that he may have bequeathed it to the nation. The possibility of it being sold, is also suggested.

The public knows little of Lord Porchester, the new Earl of Carnarvon, beyond the fact that he is an officer in a cavalry regiment and that he is reputed to be a skillful horseman. With his succession to the title another American peeress comes into British society, but it is not known whether her husband will return to his duties in India or will retire to enjoy his new rank.

2 Dudley Court, Says:
"The first symptom of kidney trouble in my case was lame back. When I tried to wash, awful pains shot through the small of my back and after a day's wash I could hardly straighten. I suffered severely from pains in the back of my head and I always felt tired and played out. I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and a couple of boxes from Liggett's, Co.'s drug store removed the pain from my back. I felt years younger."

JOHN M. GLEASON, Machinist
60 Andrews Street, Says:
"Cold setting on my kidneys affected them and caused attacks of kidney complaint. My back was so lame I couldn't stoop to take off my shoes. My kidneys acted too frequently and the secretions burned in passage. Doan's Kidney Pills bought at Liggett's Drug Store relieved me of the attack and put my kidneys in good condition."

Stage Fails When It Tries To Emulate the Movies

By JAMES W. DEAN
NEW YORK, April 5.—Stage producers who have maintained an attitude of condescension toward the movie have simply been whistling to keep up their courage. Developments along Broadway the past season indicate that.

Top price for "The Gullible One" is two dollars. Best seats in the house for "The Clinging Vine," musical comedy, sell for $2.50. Admission to homestead its rightful claim unmolested. However, this is another of those plays filled with lightning bolts, pistol shots, murders and outrages. Perhaps that excuses its artificiality.

In "Sandro Botticelli," Eva LeGallienne is supposed to drop her cloak and stand forth in the nude before the artist. She has told him that she will do that so that he may paint her, but that really isn't her purpose.

How do you suppose the Provincetown players got away with that sort of thing on the stage?

Simple enough! Miss LeGallienne stood behind a very high chair when she let the cloak loose. If one had a particularly active imagination there might have been some thrill to that situation. But a regular attendant at the theatre has little imagination—more's the pity.

That made the beautiful maiden faithful, so she rushed out into the unknown elements and fell ill and died. But her beauty was preserved on the canvas.

Despite censorship the movie is able to at least give the illusion of nudity without resort to high chairs.

SAYS BOSTON HAS DEEPER SOUL THAN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 5.—New York and Boston, among other cities, have souls, in the opinion of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

"The soul of New York city is eagerly desirous to know," he said. "It is active, in a cheerful sort of way and very busy, but not very deep. Boston, I think, has a much deeper soul than New York."

PRES. HARDING TO SPEAK AT AUGUSTA

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5.—With only two days of his vacation remaining, President Harding hoped today for better golfing weather. The president has been able to get in one round daily all week but frequently April showers have broken into the play.

The president will deliver an address tonight at a banquet tendered by the city of Augusta to his party and other prominent visitors here.

It will be the first formal address to be made by the president during his vacation trip.

BOMB WRECKS OFFICE OF K. K. K. NEWSPAPER

CHICAGO, April 5.—Explosion of a bomb wrecked the publication office of Dawn, a K. K. K. organ, last night. Twenty minutes later, another bomb partly damaged the office of F. W. Gilliland, a roofer, who said he had advertised in the Klan publication.

Edwin J. Parke, publisher of Dawn, said he had been receiving threatening letters.

"Only two days ago I received a telephone call warning me that my printing establishment and my home would be blown up," he said.

CONNECTICUT RIVER CHOKED WITH ICE

The Mascoma river, which rose yesterday, receded somewhat today. Ice from the Ottaquechee jammed at Ex-Armas, a quarter of a mile above the dam of the Ottaquechee woolen mill, scalded as a "wealthy American."

JURY FAILS TO AGREE

Out 31 Hours

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 5.—(By the Associated Press) Not once in 31 hours and 15 minutes of deliberation, did the jurors in the trial of William Z. Foster of Chicago, charged with criminal syndicalism, waiver from the stand taken on their first ballot, voting each time six for acquittal and six for conviction from about 10 o'clock Wednesday morning until 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the jury was dismissed, hopelessly deadlocked.

Thirty-eight ballots were taken. Mrs. Minerva Olson, the only woman on the jury, was one of those who voted for acquittal. Five of the six who stood for conviction are farmers. The other is a crossing watchman.

Liability of the jurors to agree was regarded as a victory by Foster. Frank P. Walsh, his counsel, issued a statement thanking the jurors but said the defense was slightly disappointed because it had expected a verdict of acquittal.

Whether Foster will be tried again will not be decided until after the trial of Charles E. Ruthenberg of Cleveland, former member of the communist party executive committee.

BLACKMAIL GROWING, PERIL LINK- ED WITH AT LEAST FIVE FAMOUS UNSOLVED CRIMES

By EDWARD THIERRY
NEA Service Staff Writer
NEW YORK, April 6.—Organized blackmail, perhaps the weapon of a single gang, is considered a possible solution to a series of crimes having startling coincidences and culminating in the murder of Dorothy King, Broadway model.

ported, crime experts say, in blackmail plots that have wealthy men and women as victims. These conspirators are known sometimes as "crime scavengers."

Analysis of the possibilities of a series of notorious crimes having been in the hands of one organized band of blackmailers shows these cases as links in the chain:

Mysterious slaying of William Desmond Taylor, movie director, in Los Angeles a year ago last February.
Killing of a sailor by Walter S.
Ward, millionaire buker's son, near White Plains, N. Y., last May.

Unsolved double murder of Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills at New Brunswick, N. J., last September.

Chloroforming of Mrs. Irene Schoellkopf, wealthy Buffalo woman, and $250,000 jewel robbery in New York,
New Year's Eve.

Murder by chloroform of Dorothy King and theft of $15,000 worth of jewels in supposed plot to blackmail
J. Kearsley Mitchell, son-in-law of E.
T. Stotesbury, millionaire Morgan partner.

Blackmail persisted as an explanation of Taylor's murder. Walter Ward, whose release has been the subject of an investigation by Governor Smith, declared he killed his victim to save himself from a gang of three blackmailers who had already obtained $30,- 000 and demanded $75,000 more. In the New Brunswick case the Hall family's theory was that Rev. Hall and Mrs. Mills met death at the hands of a band of blackmailers and robbers.

The Schoellkopf robbery case, the only one that did not end in murder, is linked with both the Hall-Mills and the King cases. Chloroform was used to subdue both Mrs. Schoellkopf and Miss King; in the latter case it came from New Brunswick, scene of the Hall-Mills murders; and two men connected with the Schoellkopf case are said to have stayed later at the same
New Brunswick hotel which employed a man who disappeared from the apartment house where Miss King lived.

Another coincidence is that Nelson Olcott is counsel for Mitchell, whose letters to Dorothy King are believed to have been sought by blackmailers, and his father, William M. K. Olcott, former district attorney, admitted he was consulted by the Hall family in says only a few blackmail cases a year get into the courts because most wealthy victims are willing to submit rather than face exposure, even though innocent. In 33 years of police work creasing until lately $100,000 has been

The Woman Power of America is well illustrated by the thousands of women who are entering every profession, almost every line of business and politics as well. They are bound to make good, and there is no question but what health is their greatest asset. Many women, however, develop weak, nervous conditions and cannot stand the strain of a professional or business life. Such women should remember when beset with headaches, backache, nervousness, irritability or any ailment peculiar to their sex that the greatest of all remedies for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For nearly fifty years this old-fashioned root and herb medicine has been restoring the women of America to health and strength.
It holds the remarkable record of helping 98 out of every 100 women who try

14 Found Guilty of Conspiring to Keep Prices High During War Start Sentences

BOSTON, April 6.—Fourteen men found guilty four years ago of conspiring to keep the price of fish at high levels in war times were sentenced to jail at hard labor yesterday and last night were behind the bars.

P. Monroe Dyer of New York and Boston, a banker, who was the organizer of the Bay State Fishing Co., described in the protracted court proceedings as the "fish trust" with four of the biggest dealers who were officers of the company received sentences of 10 months in jail and fines of $1000 each. Nine other dealers, members of the company, were sentenced to five months and to pay fines of $500 each.
William P. McKeon, a member of the latter group was not sentenced yesterday because of poor health. Simeon Atwood, Jr., still another member of that group has been serving a similar sentence at the house of correction at Deer Island since Feb. 17, having abandoned his rights under the motions appeal and delay.

Atwood will be joined in the island institution today by his associates who were sentenced yesterday. They spent the night in Charles street jail, the last boat having gone to the island for the day. None had made provision for immediate sentence, although it appeared Tuesday that the last of the steps which had served to stay execution since they were originally sentenced on July 9, 1919, had failed.

Counsel revived the request for delay yesterday afternoon, asking Judge Sanborn to postpone sentence again so that the case might be taken to the United States supreme court on a constitutional question. The supreme court of Massachusetts, having held that there was no apparent grounds for a writ of error, the court proceeded to impose sentence.

Those sentenced with Dyer to 10 months at hard labor and a $1000 fine were Joshua Paine, Joseph A. Rich, Ernest A. James and John Burns, Jr.
Those sentenced to five months and a $500 fine were Frederick G. Phillips, William R. Cox, Albert E. Watts, Eph-raim M. Cook, Winfield S. Kendrick, Herbert F. Phillips, William E. Curran, Alvin G. Baker and Louis D.
Goodspeed.

Originally the first group was sentenced to a full year and the second group to serve six months, with the same fines, but one of the several appeals brought a ruling from the supreme court on which two of the counts in the indictments on which they were convicted were thrown out. It was held that the court had failed properly to instruct the jury on the application of these counts based on the common law.

Dyer and others of the defendants were in tears as they pleaded a week ago for further delay, but they were dry-eyed as they took the sentences meted out yesterday. Rich, who had previously defaulted, came from California an hour or two before the proceedings.

Report from dealers selling Tydol and other Gasolines

72.5% said Tydol showed greatest increase in sales

Thousands- of motorists wrote this message

You stop for gasoline at your favorite pump once or twice a week. The men who grind out your gas get to know you and your buying habits. They get to know, for example, why you—and their thousands of other customers—prefer one gasoline over another.

That is why we went to several hundred gasoline dealers in quest of certain facts. These men had no axe to grind—only gasoline. They were in a position to talk frankly—and they did.

We asked them: "What gasoline is showing the greatest increase in sales?"

72.5% of the dealers handling Tydol and other gasolines said "Tydol."

Then we asked them "Why?" They said, "its quality" and "the public demands it." No other gasoline got half as many votes as Tydol on "quality" and "public demand."

For years, we have told the public of the uniform high quality of Tydol—a quality that never changes—except for the better; a quality that insures snappy starting, quick pickup and full power with a minimum of carbon. It is gratifying to know that the ever-increasing public demand for Tydol is due, primarily, to quality.

When you drive up to a black and orange pump and say—"Fill 'er up with Tydol," you get the best there is.

Williams Out to Beat Duggan—Farewell Reception to Bob Hart

With Kid Williams out to "go" Bill Duggan, who put it over on him in the opening game and Bob Hart playing his final game of the season, local polo fans look to tonight's battle between the All Stars and the local champions with confidence.

Williams did not strike his stride in the initial contest as he won but four out of the 10 runs to the center and scored but one goal. He avers that it will be a different story tonight, and that he will only show the way to the aggressive "wild one" this evening, but declares when the final whistle has been sounded his total for the two games will exceed the combined activities of his rival.

On the other hand Duggan, elated over his success in the first game, due to his early lead and a firm determination to wipe out the reverse sustained in the Lowell-New Bedford series, is out to run away from the Lowell star. Bill, who has insisted that the scorer be stationed at the center, a point he occupied in but two of his games in the former series, says this action insures him of a final triumph.

A large number of Bob Hart's friends plan to turn out tonight to greet him. When the "big fellow" who has played an important part in the Lowell team's success this season, leaves the playing surface tonight, he will say farewell to the game for another season. He has been called to duty with the National baseball league in his capacity as umpire, and will hang up the stick and skates to prepare to don the mask and chest protector.

PALUSO STOPS JAMPOL

Substitute Kayoed in Third—Was No Match for Skilful Student Boxer

Irving Jampol of New York, substituting for Joey Fox, British featherweight champion, was hit 166 times in less than three rounds by Law Paluso of Salt Lake City and Columbia University at the Crescent Rink last night in the main bout at the Moody club show. Up to the time the Goatsville hit the canvas for keeps he had faced the most withering barrage of gloves in the history of his ring career.

Paluso, master workman, dropped his man in the first round and again in the second when he hit him so hard that his left glove was split near the thumb. The crowd was on its feet, moving toward the exits when the fight came. The Columbia university boy had little or no chance to flash much of his cleverness for Jampol was wide open at all times.

In the semi-final a colored battler named Harris, hailing from Providence met a fellow countryman named Light, who looked as if he might be a pointer in a Boston hotel. Harris weighed 175 and Light, 210. Harris hit Light a couple of times in the mid-riff and Massa Robert allowed his huge frame to ease into the floor without a thud. For their exhibition they received a generous gift of home and go-calls.

The first bout brought together Eddie Pettit of Lowell and Young Mack of Woburn, with the local boy winning by a knockout in the fifth round.

Buddy Dolan of Lawrence, known much about the boxing game for his wins in the former series, says this action insures him of a final triumph.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

With the score three to two in their favor the V.A.C.I. basketball team is out to win the next game and thereby hold the city championship. They plan to hold a number of practice sessions between now and Wednesday and feel extremely confident of winning up the competition on that evening.

The Broadways, however, while somewhat disappointed over the loss of the fifth game, aver that they always fight hardest when the odds are greatest, and they are determined to grab off the next two and the city emblem.

Kaley, who returned to the V.A.C.I. lineup after an absence of two weeks played an important part in putting his team in the victory. He scored five baskets, several of which were the result of spectacular shots, and he also held the usually high scoring Dan O'Connor down to three baskets.

Joe Foley, who has been an important figure on the team for a number of years, showed great form in the game of the other night. He worked like a beaver and was all over the floor, giving and taking passes, and his industry brought him a quartet of fine baskets.

McIntire played a usual effective game for the Redwilde outfit. He is a class floor worker, a good feeder, a dead shot. He specializes on leaping losses into the hoop and he can generally be counted upon to score whenever he gets an open shot.

A feature of the last game, which drew considerable attention was its freedom from fast clashes. The managers showed excellent judgment in the assignment of their players. Kaley was sent in to play O'Connor and Connors was assigned the task of covering McGowan. While all four worked strenuously, they never forgot the rules, and their clean and effective work brought forth much favorable and highly deserved comment.

George Kotsanos, who is meeting with great success in his wrestling activities in and around Boston this season, is to come to Lowell next week to meet Justina Silva, the Portuguese champion. Stanley Stasiak, the Polish grappler, who is very popular here will meet Lawson Pinkham in another bout. Luke Chak will meet Charlie Marshall on the same program.

The St. Patrick's team and the Highland quintet club have completed plans for their basketball series.

ILLINOIS CLUB WINS WATER POLO TITLE

CHICAGO, April 6.—The Illinois Athletic club last night regain the National A.A.U. water polo championship by defeating Stanford university, Pacific Coast champions, 11 to 6. In the two days' water carnival, three world's records for 60 foot pools were established by Robert Skellon, Johnny Weissmuller and Miss Sybil Bauer, all of the I.A.C. Miss Miriam Wheatland, also of the I.A.C., set a new American record.

Skellon bettered the old record of 2:38 2-5 for the 200 yard breast stroke by going the distance in 2:35. Weissmuller by winning the 200 yard free style event in 1:55 1-6 and breaking the world's record of 2:06 2-6, capped the only sprint record held by Norman Ross, the veteran, whose title as champion swimmer Weissmuller surpassed.

Miss Bauer broke her own record of 5:50 1-5 in the world's record time of 5:38 1-5 in the 440 yard back stroke. Weissmuller won the 100 yard women's free style in 1:05 4-5.

Branch Rickey has nine outfielders to select three regulars from. As far as more ability is concerned there is little to choose among them, yet before the opening of the season the Cardinal manager must decide on his three regulars.

"If" Myers is one of the nine outfielders already slated for a regular position. Myers will play the all-important center field. It is the hope of Manager Rickey that Myers will fill the void made by the untimely death of the Cardinal star, McHenry.

"If" Myers came to the Cardinals in a trade with Brooklyn. To get him Rickey parted with Jack Fournier. Myers is slated for a regular berth at St. Louis, while Fournier has announced his retirement. The reason for the retirement is simply a difference of $1000 in salary.

The trade between Brooklyn and St. Louis, which involved Myers and Fournier, is perhaps the most discussed deal of the year. The general impression is that Brooklyn is badly stung.

When I met Wilbert Robinson at the Brooklyn camp at Clearwater, Fla., I put the proposition up to him. The impression seems to be that I have been badly stung," said Robbie. "However, had Fournier reported I wouldn't have so regarded it. As it stands, I am."

"I figured that Fournier would help my kid infield more than Myers would the outfield. Myers is still a fine player, and when I made the deal I realized he would really help St. Louis. I wanted Fournier, and in order to get him I had to part with Myers. Fournier is no Slater, yet he would have been a balance to my other young infielders."

When I met Manager Rickey of the Cardinals here, I broached the matter to him. He had no idea that I had

SUMMA - BEST PLAYER SINCE TY COBB

LAKELAND, Fla., April 6.—The best looking outfielder to break into the American league since the days of Cobb, is the complimentary manner in which Tris Speaker refers to young Homer Summa, who will hold down right field for the Indians this year.

When you consider that Mr. Speaker is some 10 years older than Summa, and that he came into the American league after Cobb, you get an even better idea of what the Cleveland manager thinks of the youngster. Incidentally we will pardon Speaker's modesty in the matter.

"Unless Summa has a fault or develops one that is not now apparent, the young man has a great chance to be a star in a year or two. He does everything well and will improve with each game," he plays," continues Speaker.

Summa looks mighty good to me in spring training. He is a left-handed hitter, steps into the ball beautifully and takes a healthy cut. He is fast, has a good arm and handles himself well in the field.

Speaker, who says he is in great shape himself, and looks it, believes that his logic will stay with him and that he will lose mighty few games this year.

"I have put them to every test so far and found the slightest pain or weakness. However, often when sudden start plays more havoc with a talked the proposition over with Robinson, yet his sizeup tallied almost exactly."

"Myers is going to be a good man for me," said Rickey. "He is still a good outfielder and can hit. He will help my club. I am sorry Fournier had to go, but I am sure that Myers would have been as valuable to Robinson as Myers is going to prove to me. I decided Robinson was the better man for me, so had little use for Fournier. Since Robinson wanted him badly I insisted on Myers."

had known than all the hard tests you put it to. "If I should have any trouble, Summa can play center field in great style and Frank Brower will look after right."

All of which proves the confidence Speaker has in Summa. Incidentally he feels that Summa won't have to shift to center very often.

WHY REDS HOPE TO WIN NATIONAL LEAGUE TITLE

The Cincinnati club feels that it has an excellent chance to win the National league pennant in 1923.

Famous Pirate Slugger Instructs His Son Walsh Lives Up to Title Assistant to Gleason

"RED" RUSSELL AND SON, "RED JR."

"Red" Russell is regarded as having supplied the Pittsburgh Nationals with enough batting punch to make them a strong pennant contender. In other words, he is the Babe Ruth of the National League. Russell is a left-handed batsman and hits them a mile.

In the spring training "Red Jr." who dons a suit and works out every day with the Pirates, comes in for his share of attention from his illustrious dad.

ED WALSH ASSISTING GLEASON.

Ed Walsh, former White Sox pitching star, more recently an American league umpire, is back again with his old team in the role of coach.

Walsh is taking the place of Johnny Evers as assistant to Kid Gleason. In the above picture he is shown in a new role as Gleason's assistant, literally living up to his title.

Walsh will look after the White Sox pitching staff. If Ed is able to impart his move to first base to the recruits on the staff American league umpires are going to be kept busy, as Walsh had a move to first that caused more woe for the umpires than all the other pitchers in the league.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

D. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

It must be recorded that the biggest hit of the season is being chalked up at the D. F. Keith theatre this week, by Lloyd Ibach's Entertainers, an organization which specializes in jazz. The harmonica U. S. seven men draw forth are of the type which make instant appeal and many encores are requested by audiences at every performance. The act is worthy of the highest praise. Norwood & Hall, in their comedy act, give much pleasure. Zeek & Randolph, in "Grooming the Groom," likewise have an act which is a thorough-going success. To make good the measure of comedy, let it be said that Maybelle & York come across with a laugh-causer of the first water. Other acts on the bill are Melroy sisters, dancers; Ed and Ida Tindell, in a melange of many things, and the "Three Whirlwinds, skaters."

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE
Only a few opportunities remain for Lowell people to see "Adam's Rib," the noted Cecil B. De Mille production which has been creating such a sensation at the Merrimack Square theatre all this week. Final performances will be given tomorrow afternoon and evening. This is one of the most lavish screen plays ever shown in Lowell. The usual excellent surrounding program is also being presented.

RIALTO THEATRE

There will be a complete change of program at the Rialto theatre beginning tomorrow afternoon and continuing for the week-end. The two main features will introduce Wesley (Freddie) Barry in a front production entitled "From Rags to Riches" and there will also be another good attraction entitled "The Wolf's Fangs." The supporting features will have a rich comedy and the Rialto News review.

There are two other good features on the bill. The latest William Farnum production, "Brass Commandments" is a vigorous, he-man story. While Herbert Rawlinson in "The Prisoner" is also a commendable motion picture offering. There is a comedy and weekly as well.

The annual banquet of the Men's club of Central M.E. church, held last evening in the church vestry, was largely attended. In place of the usual address, a program of amusing stunts was given. Rev. ONE POSITION OPEN TO COMPETITION

The length of a major league career is not decided by the age of the individual. For while gray hairs may grow around the ears and the ankles squeak there remains something up there in the top story which carries them on.

When Pohl was asked to map out his plans on the 1923 team he placed Eddie Foster in the competition with Frank Eberle and the recruits.

"And why not Foster?" says Pohl. "Of course he is 35 years of age, but he's younger than Cobb, Speaker, Corliss and other players."

"Foster played a prominent part in landing us a game away from the Yankees last season. Ellerbe was a couple with a bad knee. Austin could not stand the strain more than three days and the youngsters were not experienced enough."

With Sleser for first, McManus for second, Gerber for short and Williams, Jacobson and Tobin in the outfield, third base is the only position where there will be any competition with the Browns this spring.

Many bowlers roll in an American bowling congress tournament many, many years before they achieve a lifetime ambition and win a championship.

Al Baumgartner, Cincinnati bowler, however, may have achieved this aim the first time he ever rolled in an A. B. C. tourney.

Baumgartner made the fine total of 724 in the A.B.C. singles at Milwaukee, second highest three-game singles total ever made in the parent body roll-off. Thousands of North America's ablest bowlers are shooting for this title.

HELD IN $20,000 BONDS MANY BIRDS SUCCUMBED

Richard Thomas Held on Two Charges of Assault With Intent to Kill

WESTFIELD, April 6.—Richard Thomas of Springfield, who is alleged to have shot Mr. and Mrs. Clement E. Robinson of Southwick in their home yesterday, when Mr. Robinson refused to allow Thomas to see Robinson's daughter, Mrs. Myrtle Varley, pleaded not guilty to two charges of assault with intent to kill in district court here today and was held in bonds of $20,000 for a hearing April 14.

Mrs. Robinson, who suffered a bullet wound in the abdomen, and was removed to a private hospital in Granby, Conn., was reported in improved condition today and it was said that unless complications arise she is likely to recover.

Robinson, who received a bullet through the jaw, is in a critical condition at his home. As he was in ill health due to tuberculosis, it was thought inadvisable to remove him to a hospital.

Thomas is said to have admitted the shooting to State Detective Manning and to have said that he shot after Robinson had threatened him with a shotgun. Thomas is said to have had a woman keeping company with Mrs. Varley, who had separated from her husband, James Varley, well known in boxing circles as Tommy Belmont and now in Cleveland, Ohio.

SHE IS NOT THE WOMAN IN THE CASE

According to Larkin T. Trull of the law firm of Trull, Wier & O'Donoghue, Mrs. William R. Harding of Elizabeth, N. J., is not the Mrs. Harding for whom search is being made by the local attorneys in connection with the will of Carl Bicknell, who died in this city in 1919.

A few weeks ago the following message was broadcasted by radio from the station at Medford Hillsides: "If Mrs. Grace E. Bicknell, sometimes known as Mrs. William Harding, would communicate with the office of Trull, Wier & O'Donoghue of Lowell, Mass., she would receive information to her advantage."

It was "picked up" by a Mrs. Harding in Elizabeth, who claimed she was the woman sought. Mr. Trull investigated and today said she is not the woman in the case.

Tragic Season for Those Wintered in New England, Says Ornithologist

BOSTON, April 6.—Bird song is heard again in the north country, with birds winging their way back from southern climes, but to those birds that wintered in New England, it was a tragic season. Edward Howe Forbush, state ornithologist, reporting today on recent observations of bird life said:

"Along the Maine coast the ice blockade held all winter. On the ice-bound flats the cold took its toll of bird life. Many starving black ducks succumbed. The law of claw and fang prevailed. Eagles, crows, gulls, hawks and foxes fell upon the starving birds. Further east along the coast of Nova Scotia, where approximately 12,000 geese wintered, conditions were even worse and many geese are said to have perished."

Queer tales come from the rivers and forests of the interior. An eagle falling frozen from its perch; a horned owl standing dead and frozen on a limb; a heron frozen upright in the ice; many little birds dead on the snow; a squirrel drinking at a spring and its wet feet soon after rigidly frozen to a piece of iron—all incidents of the stark, inhospitable New England winter.

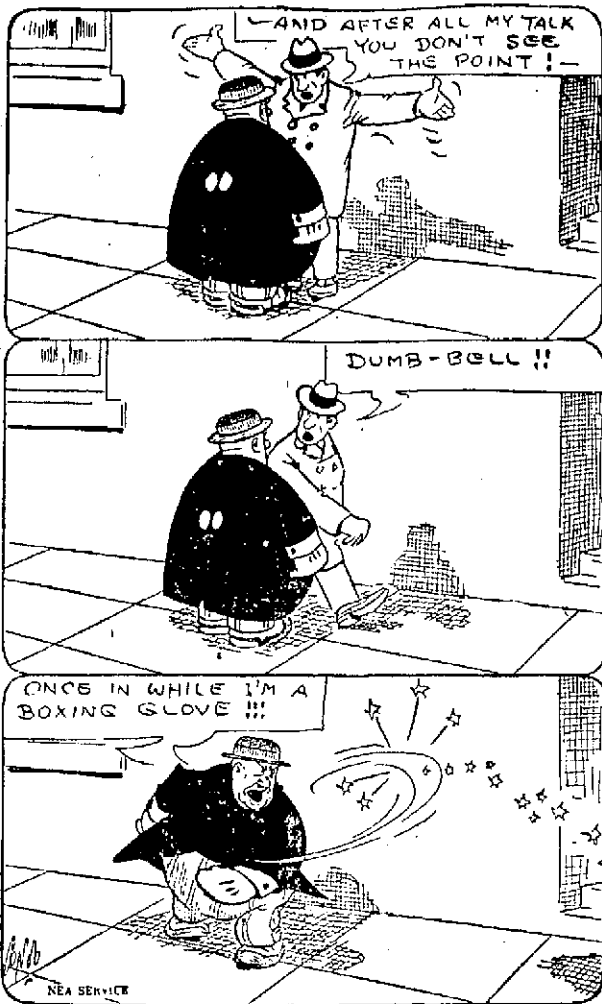

"Yet delicate birds lived through it all. Robins and even tiny kinglets survived temperatures of 40 below zero. In the northern Maine woods, where there were many small birds all winter, it is said that at sunrise the thermometer was never above zero."

"Apparently the wintering night herons survived and are still with us. "Pining" plovers were noted on Cape Cod on March 25, and farther north on the 24th. The first woodcock of the month was reported in Martha's Vineyard. From the 10th onward, this species was recorded through a large part of New England and the records increased from the 21st to the 26th. One flew against a plate glass window in Nova Scotia on the 28th and met sudden death. On the 30th, six males were heard singing in a small area in the suburbs of Boston."

TAUNTON WORKERS ACCEPT

TAUNTON, April 6.—The textile workers of the Manufacturers and Employers' association of Taunton today approved a wage increase of 12 1/2 per cent. to the cotton mill employees of this city, effective April 30. About 4400 hands will benefit by the increase.

EVERETT TRUE

MARQUIS FIRED UPON

BELFAST, April 6. (By the Associated Press).—A motor car bearing the Marquis of Waterford and his sisters, Ladies Katherine and Blanche Beresford, was fired upon near Carrick-on-Suit, last night. The chauffeur, Clarke, was struck on the head by a bullet and slightly injured, but the other occupants of the car were unharmed.

LOWELL BUSINESS MEN ARE OPTIMISTIC

"The best is yet to come," was the opinion of a well known Lowell retail merchant, who today signed one of the chamber of commerce card questionnaires now being distributed to business men of the city and suburbs—second series.

Although names are signed to some of the questionnaires, none of the names are to be published, the chamber of commerce states. Scores of local retailers have returned the cards to the chamber executive offices, knowing that their opinions will not receive publicity as coming from specified sources, but many cards of the new series needed at the office of Assistant Secretary Edward Gallagher this morning, indicate that many business men are not backward about expressing their frank opinions of various present retail business conditions and future outlook, and sign their names in full.

Some card-checkers who freely signed their names, say "The best is yet to come." Others say "warmer weather, better business." One merchant reported "business 100 per cent. better than last year." Still another business man prophesied: "If mills increase wages, business will expand."

MERRIMACK RIVER

Ice Running Heavily in the Stream Today

MANCHESTER, N. H., April 6.—Notwithstanding that the Merrimack river had risen a foot since last night, and that ice was running heavily in the stream today, indications are that the Merrimack valley region is safe from the threatened spring freshet. Beginning yesterday, the ice in the Merrimack has gone out for a distance of 10 miles south of here.

LOWELL GUILD BALL THIS EVENING

The greatly anticipated Lowell Guild ball will take place this evening at the Memorial Auditorium and already its success seems assured. Through the work of efficient executives, including Mrs. Julian B. Keyes, Mrs. W. L. Robinson and Mrs. E. W. Hyman, who have headed the committee, and with the co-operative efforts of the committees themselves the plans for the affair have progressed exceedingly well and it is expected that the accommodations of the main auditorium will be considerably taxed.

As everyone knows the Guild is promoting the ball for the purpose of raising money for the continued and proper maintenance of its child welfare work in the city and because of its general and wide-spread appeal the event is bound to receive generous patronage.

Doors of the Auditorium will be open at 7:45 p. m. and tickets will be on sale at the box office at 7:00 o'clock. Full store closing time late this afternoon tickets may be obtained at Steinert's in Merrimack street.

WOMAN INSULTS POINCARÉ

PARIS, April 6.—(By the Associated Press) Premier Poincaré was greeted with insulting epithets by a young woman as he passed today with a procession of dignitaries across the Place de la République. The woman, who had been in the crowd of the Fort D'Aumery in the Verdun campaign. The premier continued on his way while the police quickly arrested the offender, who gave her name as Madeline Félis, member of the radical labor organization and sister of a prominent agitator.

"I called him names because they expressed my opinion," she told the police.

Adventures of The Twins

The Twins climbed Cream-Puff Hill on their way to the Cut-Out Lady's house in Sugar-Pump Land. "Who goes there?" cried a gruff voice. "Us," said Nick. "We?" said Nancy, correcting him. "Well, hurry up and make up your minds," said the voice. "Who is it, 'Us' or 'We'?" "Both!" answered the Twins. "Ah, ha! Another one! That makes three! Us, We and Both. Give the countersign!" "What's that?" asked Nancy. "What? Don't you know what a countersign is? It's the sign you give over the counter in the pastry shop when you want doughnuts or pretzels or coffee cake or lady-fingers. And a chocolate soldier poked his head up over the top of Cream-Puff Hill. He had a lemon stick gun over his shoulder. "Which of you is 'Us' and which of you is 'We' and where is 'Both'?" he asked. "Oh, you've got us all mixed up," cried Nancy. "Please let us pass."

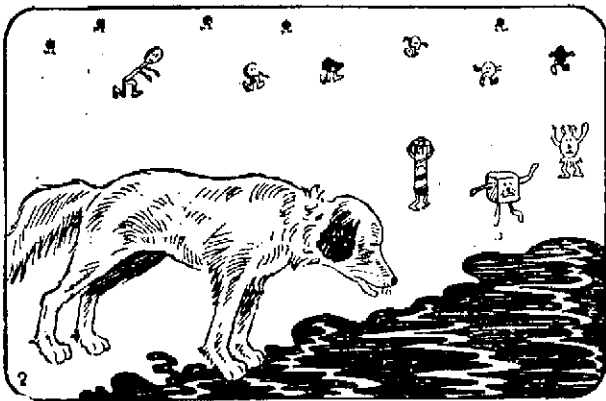

"Not until you give the countersign," said the soldier in a determined voice. "We don't know it!" said Nick. "All right! I'll tell you! It's 'Gumdrops.' Just say 'Gumdrops' and I'll let you pass!" "Gumdrops," said Nancy and Nick together. The chocolate soldier stepped aside and they went over the hill. "Where are you going?" called the chocolate soldier. "To the Cut-Out Lady's house," answered Nick. "Tell her I need a new suit of chocolate clothes, please," said the soldier. "Every time the little knacker is out for a walk they give me a lick as they go by and my clothes are nearly gone. Soon I'll be naked!" "We'll tell her!" promised Nancy. "Thank you," said the chocolate soldier. And he marched down the other side of Cream-Puff Hill until nothing could be seen of him but the tip of his lemon stick gun. (To Be Continued)

The trip to Chocolate Lake was really very short. And such a queer place Jack had never seen before. As Caramel got out of his Maple Puff coach, Jack knelt down by the side of the lake. Then a lot of shouting attracted his attention. Once more Flip was the cause.

Jack's faithful dog had smelled the chocolate in Chocolate Lake. He was very fond of chocolate so he walked right up and started to lick it up. "Hey," shouted Caramel, "call your dog away. He'll drink Chocolate Lake dry. And then that would spoil a lot of good candies."

Jack rushed up to Flip and grabbed hold of him. "Come away from there, old fellow," he shouted. "This is the Candy Land swimming pool and you mustn't spoil it." Flip seemed to understand, for he stopped licking the chocolate. Then Jack noticed a queer bottle standing nearby. (Continued.)

N. Y. POTATO MEN TO ORGANIZE

ROCHESTER, N. Y., April 6.—The New York State Potato Growers Cooperative association announced yesterday it had obtained the services of Aaron Shapiro of California, to organize the industry along the lines of that recently completed in Maine.
The New York state campaign will be conducted with the object of handling the 1923 crop. A federation will be immediately effected with Maine to be followed by affiliation with the Jersey growers. This action will seal the eastern market, it is asserted.
A similar federation will be constructed in the middle west and a third group will be federated in the northwest, all three groups finally merging into the American Potato Growers association. The campaign will get under way in this city April 11.
